Circus-Like Air Missing At Cuba Trial

Courtroom Setting Striking Contrast To Sports Stadium

HAVANA (UPI)—A second "major war criminal" went on trial before Havana's revolutionary tribunal Monday night in an army courtroom which contrasted with the circus - like trappings of the first trial.

About 1,000 Cubans, including hundreds of witnesses from Oriente Province, milled outside the three-story superior court building at Camp Liberty, formerly Camp Columbia. The courtroom had a maximum seating capacity of 300.

The accused, Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes, pleaded not guilty after his trial got off to a delayed start.

The small courtroom is in striking contrast to the big sports stadium where an army major was condemned to death last week after a trial before 30,000 hooting, jeering spectators.

Morejon was accused of participating in the killing of 200 farm workers in Oriente Province in the attempt by deposed President Fulgencio Batista's government to stop the advance of Fidel Castro rebel forces.

Morejon Declares Innocence

Morejon also was accused of torture and theft, committed personally or by members of the Cuban armed forces under his command. He declared he was not guilty on all counts.

A mixup at the start of the trial delayed proceedings.

The revolutionary government ordered the second war crimes trial to begin Monday afternoon, but Morejon failed to appear and the trial was abruptly suspended.

The army judge advocate general, Humberto Sori Marin, president of the court, ordered the arrest of Capt. James Miguel Guerra, the trial secretary, and demanded an explanation of why the defendant had not been produced. Guerra said he had "forgotten" to summon the prisoner.

The trial was officialy declared open at 3:30 p. m. e.s.t., 90 minutes after its scheduled start. Lt. Apolonia Garcia Nunez took Guerra's place as court secretary.

Remove Prisoner's Handcuffs

Sori Marin ordered the handcuffs removed from Morejon's wrists before reading the formal charges against him. During the first trial, the accused was kept manacled throughout the televised trial.

The first prosecution witness took the stand at 7:15 p.m. and testified about alleged criminal acts committed at Cueto during the Oriente fighting.

Fidel Castro, who was returning Monday to Havana from Caracas, Venezuela, previously cancelled radio and TV broadcasts of the trial of Morejon.

Wolves At Doors

More Carriers, Missiles, Jets Sought By Navy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Navy is satisfied that Russia's submarines can not match the performance of American subs, boat for boat.

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arliegh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony made public included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

The admiral said the Navy will have 113 active submarines by next July 1, but Russia will have about four times as many.

Here's the way Gates put it:

"Russia's submarines cannot match ours, boat for boat. The great numbers the Soviets have impose a grave threat not only to our control of the seas but to our ability to defend the country against missile attack."

Khrushchev Holds Stage As Top Reds Convene In Moscow

Mikoyan U.S. Visit May Help Thaw Cold War, Premier Says

MOSCOW (AP)—On the eve of the 21st Soviet Communist party meetings, Moscow's most important theoretical magazine, Kommunist, strongly emphasized Monday the theme of collective leadership. But scores of top Communist leaders from around the world, already on hand for the meeting, are expected to see a striking demonstration of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's unchallenged leadership in foreign and domestic affairs.

The latest issue of Kommunist, a monthly journal, surveying events since the close of the last congress two years ago, said the party has "condemned cases of violation of innerparty democracy, and infringements of the rights of Communists, and has substituted persuasion for administrative measures."

"The re-establishment of collective leadership as the supreme principle of the party was of enormous importance," the magazine said.

Antiparty Group Hit

The editorial stressed the importance of the party Central Committee, noting it has held 11 plenary sessions since the 20th congress.

This article indicates new blows will be struck at those within the party who opposed Khrushchev's policies. In fact, Kommunist added additional charges against the so-called antiparty group, accusing it of dogmatism and conservatism and of opposing the "Leninist course" for the Communist party. Since Stalin, the U.S.S.R.'s rulers have been insisting they base themselves entirely on the concepts of V. I. Lenin, founder of Bolshevism.

The 21st congress is being hailed as a milestone of a "great political and labor upsurge." Members of the ruling party from every Soviet republic will be asked to stamp approval on Khrushchev's seven-year economic program to overtake the United States both in consumer and heavy industrial production.

Premier Wants Cold War Thaw

Meantime, Khrushchev told a diplomatic reception: "We want a thaw — to thaw out the cold war." He said Anastas Mikoyan's trip to the United States may have helped.

Spirited and ebullient on the eve of the party congress, Khrushchev made an off-the-cuff talk at the Moscow celebration of India's National Day. He said the report on the United States from his No. 2 man gave him "the idea that there is not excluded the possibility of a thaw in our relations."

"We on our part are doing everything possible," he added. Khrushchev also insisted that Mikoyan had only engaged in talks in the United States—not formal negotiations—and they produced nothing concrete.

Racket Probers Scan Murrow's Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee is taking a preliminary look into statements that many businessmen employ prostitutes to help them swing business deals.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, told reporters Monday the committee is checking now on a transcript of a Jan. 18 radio broadcast in which CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow produced the statements.

The AFL-CIO asked for an inquiry after Murrow broadcast purported interviews with prostitutes and businessmen describing an alleged widescale use of call girls in the business world. The broadcast mentioned no names, and Murrow since has declined to mention any.

CAB Tentatively OKs Airlines' Strike Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board tentatively approved Monday the plan of the six leading airlines to share profits during labor strikes.

The CAB announced it voted 4-1 to approve the pact as not adverse to the public interest. It said it would issue an opinion later attaching certain conditions to its okay.

The pact was put into effect last Oct. 20 by American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, Trans World and United Airlines.

Snow Storm Slows Flood Cleanup Job

Pennsylvania, Ohio Disaster Areas Hit By New Cold Wave

By United Press International

Biting cold and snows up to a half foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousand and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the mid-continent last Tuesday.

126 Weather Deaths

A United Press International count showed 126 deaths blamed on weather - caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, 8 in Pennsylvania, 5 in both Kentucky and Kansas, 4 in Iowa, 3 in both Missouri and Oklahoma, 2 each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and 1 in North Dakota.

The Pacific Northwest shared the East's flood woes. Flood waters fell in eastern and western Washington, leaving one woman dead, another missing and feared dead, two homes destroyed by slides at Hoquiam, and three families evacuated from threatened homes in Seattle.

45 Below in N. Y.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N. Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

Princess Weds Young Student

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Princess Zubeidah of Malaya, whose grandfather is reputed to be one of the richest men in the world, has secretly married a young student she met at Queen's University.

The 22-year-old granddaughter of the Sultan of Johore and her husband, Alan George Scharenguivel, 23, from Singapore, are living in a modest Belfast apartment.

They refused to say whether the Sultan has given his blessings to their quiet civil marriage a few months ago. The Sultan wasn't told beforehand.

The pretty princess gave up her art studies at Queens University after the marriage. Scharenguivel denied newspaper reports she was forced to leave when the Malayan government stopped her grant of funds because of their marriage.

Jazz Citadel's Manager Slain As "Cats" Dance

NEW YORK (AP)—The lights were dim and befogged by smoke as the 15-piece band swung into its cool interpretation of "I'm Through With Love."

The cats listened, swayed, kept time by hand or foot as the contagious rhythm of the beat got through to them. It was Birdland, Broadway's cellar citadel of jazz, at 2:40 o'clock Monday morning.

"Then we heard a fight start near the bar," said one of the musicians, Hal Kusick. "We could hear shouting and scuffling but the bandstand lights were in our eyes and we couldn't see what was happening out there. From the bandstand, you can't see more than a yard in front of you.

"As the scuffle continued, we went into our finale, 'Cherokee,' a real wild arrangement. A woman yelled, some glasses crashed. We finished the number, left the stand and learned Irving was dead."

Irving was Zachariah (Irving) Levy, 36, assistant manager of Birdland and brother of one of its owners. He was stabbed once near the heart during the scuffle at the long main bar of the club. He staggered back through a service entrance and there, out of view of most of the patrons, collapsed in death near a service bar.

The killer was believed to be a heavy set man of about 45 with blue eyes and sandy hair. A hat check girl described him as "a hopped-up jazz enthusiast."

The man slipped from the club immediately after the knifing. With him was a dark-complexioned, heavily made up woman of about 30, with a long pony tail hairdo and a long white coat. To the hat check girl, she seemed a typical Broadway chorus-girl type.

A 15-state police alarm was sent out for the couple.

Labor Leader Urges Teachers' Pay Be Doubled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Labor leader James B. Carey called Monday for an immediate doubling of teachers' salaries and construction this year of 132,000 classrooms.

Carey, addressing the annual convention of the National School Boards Assn., called the problem of teachers' salaries one which needs a drastic solution.

The AFL-CIO vice president and president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said:

"We have waited far too long now to try to solve our dilemma by piddling salary hikes of 10 per cent and 15 per cent. Teachers' salaries must be doubled now or else they will have to be tripled in a very few years. And then it might be too late."

Italy's Premier Fanfani Decides To Call It Quits

ROME (AP)—Premier Amintore Fanfani's coalition government threw in the sponge Monday after less than seven months in office.

Lacking a majority in Parliament, and forced to borrow votes from small center groups, the government had been defeated several times on minor issues. Last week the Chamber approved by only one vote the government's handling of an investigation into a financial scandal.

"What a nasty job!" the 50-year-old Christian Democrat Fanfani exclaimed to newsmen after he had resigned. "I am thinking of my job, not yours."

Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the Social Democrats in the coalition, said the collapse was inevitable.

When Labor Minister Ezio Vigorelli, a Social Democrat, quit the Cabinet, Fanfani decided to give up.

Vigorelli resigned to work for unity of the Social Democrats with the left-wing Socialists of Pietro Nenni. The Social Democrats split off from the Socialists 12 years ago because of Nenni's alliance with the Communists.

Fanfani faced opposition from some right-wing Christian Democrats, agitation by labor unions for wage hikes, and threatened resignations by two other ministers.

President Giovanni Gronchi asked the Fanfani Cabinet to stay on in a caretaker capacity while a new government is formed.

Defense Dept. Declares Draft Must Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department told Congress Monday the draft law must be extended to prevent a dangerous dropoff in enlistments.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Charles C. Finucane gave this argument in urging that the draft be extended for four years. It now is due to die on June 30.

After listening to Finucane, Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee said "we have no choice. I hope there will be no hesitancy" in extending the draft.

This was one of several indications the committee would vote to prolong the draft. But there was no assurance it would be continued for four years. There have been suggestions the extension be limited to two years.

And before the committee acts, it appeared likely Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and other officials of the armed forces will have to do some explaining about military manpower cutbacks put into effect despite objections from Congress.

Vinson said that when the defense secretary appears later on, McElroy will be asked to explain who ordered the Army cut to 870,000 men after Congress had provided funds for 900,000 and had made clear it wanted the army kept at that size.

Finucane insisted that, without the draft, the armed services would fall short "700,000 or 800,000 from out total of about 2½ million."

Only the Army now is using the draft, and it obtains some of its recruits through volunteering.

But Finucane said that without the draft as a prod, enlistment in all the services would fall off dangerously.

Court Rules 'Subterfuge' Not Defiance

Jurist Dismisses Contempt Charge Against Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge dismissed a contempt charge against George Wallace Monday on grounds the former state judge only pretended, he said, to defy an order to show voter records to the Civil Rights Commission.

U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. said the fiery former judge, despite "devious methods," actually helped the commission in an investigation of Negro voting complaints.

Wallace was cleared of the contempt charge after a hearing called for him to show cause why he should not be punished for giving the records of two counties to grand juries instead of federal agents as Johnson ordered.

Political Motives Hinted

Johnson made no direct accusation of political motives behind Wallace's conduct, but said if that were the case, "this court refuses to allow its authority and dignity to be bent or swayed by such politically generated whirlwinds."

Wallace was runnerup in the Democratic primary race for governor last spring, and is regarded as a likely candidate for that office again in 1962 or perhaps for the U. S. Senate next year.

Johnson accused his former college classmate of using "devious methods" to turn registration records over to hastily summoned grand juries in Barbour and Bullock counties instead of handing them to federal agents in compliance with a federal court order.

But, the federal judge added, "even though it was accomplished through means of subterfuge," Wallace did comply with the order when the records were made available by the grand juries.

Guilty Plea Rejected

In dismissing the contempt charge, Johnson rejected a written plea of guilty in which the defendant boldly told the court he had refused to comply with its order.

Later Wallace issued a prepared statement charging that "the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall—they were defied and backed down."

Wallace said there was nothing in the testimony before the court either directly or indirectly to support Johnson's statement suggesting that politics might have inspired the actions.

Pumps Set Up At Pit Where 12 Trapped

PITTSTON, Pa. (AP) — Starting the second phase of their rescue efforts, crews toiled without letup Monday night, setting up pumps and clinging to thin hope that 12 men trapped by flood might still be alive in a hard coal mine.

The actual pumping will not begin for a day or two. It may go on for several more.

The Susquehanna River, swollen and jammed with ice blocks, burst through the walls of the main mine shaft last Thursday.

For 3½ days the waters whirled in the hole while rescue teams threw in big railroad gondolas, small mine cars, hay, straw, wood shavings and tons upon tons of dirt fill. In this way the rush of water was finally stopped Sunday night.

Administration Launches Hawaii Statehood Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House may vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the Flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island had served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has "earned the right to fair and equal treatment" with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists."

He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government".

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood "as quickly as possible" after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D-N.Y.) said he hoped to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the Rules Committee, stalling point for the Alaskan statehood bill last year.

Navy Plans Integrated School For Children At Norfolk Base

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced Monday it will set up an integrated school next month for 500 Navy children who live on the Norfolk, Va., naval base unless Norfolk's closed public schools are reopened before then.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, also told a news conference the administration is preparing legislation to permit the federal government to set up schools for children of military personnel who live off of military bases.

Present law permits the government to provide schooling only for children who live on federal property when other public education is not available.

The Navy announced last week it would seek funds from Flemming's department to provide schooling for children living on the naval base unless closed Virginia schools reopened "shortly."

Flemming said the funds would be forthcoming "immediately" so that federal school facilities could be ready in time for the start of the new school term in February.

Norfolk public schools, as well as those in two other Virginia communities, have been shut down under the state's "massive resistance" to Supreme Court desegregation rulings.

The Virginia Supreme Court and a three-judge fedreal court recently struck down the laws designed to avoid segregation. But Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond has called a special session of the General Assembly Wednesday to hear other plans for forestalling integration.

Souvenir Hunters Filch Gongs, Cripple Indo Band

WASHINGTON (AP) — Souvenir hunters at Washington's high society Bal Boheme have struck a muffled—if not crippling—blow at U. S.-Indonesian relations.

They carried off four irreplaceable bronze gongs forged in Central Java about 200 years ago. The loss has put the Indonesian Embassy's 45-piece gamelang orchestra out of business. It makes music of the xylophone type.

Three of the missing gongs are as big as 10-inch dinner plates. The fourth has a 15-inch diameter. All of them would be awkward to conceal—unless worn under flowing robes.

The Arts Club of Washington sponsored the fancy dress ball Jan. 16 at the Shoreham Hotel. Its president, Harry Zichterman, first made a discreet appeal to club members to return the gongs on a no-questions-asked basis. The effort was fruitless

So Zichterman appealed Monday through the press, asking that the person or persons knowing the whereabouts of the gongs return them to the Arts Club or the Indonesian Embassy.

More than 1,300 of Washington's top flight society figures turned out for the blue ribbon Bal Boheme, one of the leading social events of the winter. The theft was discovered when the affair broke up at 2 a. m.

Indonesian Ambassador Moekarto Notowidigdo was saddened by the theft.

"I would rather lose a $2,000 painting," he said.

He said that the loss cripples the whole orchestra and it cannot play now for the entertainment of Americans.

Zichterman said the Arts Club cannot ignore its responsibility. He appealed to the 300 club members and their 900 guests to do all they can to see that the orchestra is restored to its full number of instruments.

"It's like having four keys missing from a priceless piano," he said. "We must do all in our power to remove this discord in our relations."

Racket Probers Scan Murrow's Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee is taking a preliminary look into statements that many businessmen employ prostitutes to help them swing business deals.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, told reporters Monday the committee is checking now on a transcript of a Jan. 18 radio broadcast in which CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow produced the statements.

The AFL-CIO asked for an inquiry after Murrow broadcast purported interviews with prostitutes and businessmen describing an alleged widescale use of call girls in the business world. The broadcast mentioned no names, and Murrow since has declined to mention any.

CAB Tentatively OKs Airlines' Strike Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board tentatively approved Monday the plan of the six leading airlines to share profits during labor strikes.

The CAB announced it voted 4-1 to approve the pact as not adverse to the public interest. It said it would issue an opinion later attaching certain conditions to its okay.

The pact was put into effect last Oct. 20 by American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, Trans World and United Airlines.

Jazz Citadel's Manager Slain As "Cats" Dance

NEW YORK (AP)—The lights were dim and befogged by smoke as the 15-piece band swung into its cool interpretation of "I'm Through With Love."

The cats listened, swayed, kept time by hand or foot as the contagious rhythm of the beat got through to them. It was Birdland, Broadway's cellar citadel of jazz, at 2:40 o'clock Monday morning.

"Then we heard a fight start near the bar," said one of the musicians, Hal Kusick. "We could hear shouting and scuffling but the bandstand lights were in our eyes and we couldn't see what was happening out there. From the bandstand, you can't see more than a yard in front of you.

"As the scuffle continued, we went into our finale, 'Cherokee,' a real wild arrangement. A woman yelled, some glasses crashed. We finished the number, left the stand and learned Irving was dead."

Irving was Zachariah (Irving) Levy, 36, assistant manager of Birdland and brother of one of its owners. He was stabbed once near the heart during the scuffle at the long main bar of the club. He staggered back through a service entrance and there, out of view of most of the patrons, collapsed in death near a service bar.

The killer was believed to be a heavy set man of about 45 with blue eyes and sandy hair. A hat check girl described him as "a hopped-up jazz enthusiast."

The man slipped from the club immediately after the knifing. With him was a dark-complexioned, heavily made up woman of about 30, with a long pony tail hairdo and a long white coat. To the hat check girl, she seemed a typical Broadway chorus-girl type.

A 15-state police alarm was sent out for the couple.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will hold a news conference Wednesday.

Labor Leader Urges Teachers' Pay Be Doubled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Labor leader James B. Carey called Monday for an immediate doubling of teachers' salaries and construction this year of 132,000 classrooms.

Carey, addressing the annual convention of the National School Boards Assn., called the problem of teachers' salaries one which needs a drastic solution.

The AFL-CIO vice president and president of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said:

"We have waited far too long now to try to solve our dilemma by piddling salary hikes of 10 per cent and 15 per cent. Teachers' salaries must be doubled now or else they will have to be tripled in a very few years. And then it might be too late."

Italy's Premier Fanfani Decides To Call It Quits

ROME (AP)—Premier Amintore Fanfani's coalition government threw in the sponge Monday after less than seven months in office.

Lacking a majority in Parliament, and forced to borrow votes from small center groups, the government had been defeated several times on minor issues. Last week the Chamber approved by only one vote the government's handling of an investigation into a financial scandal.

"What a nasty job!" the 50-year-old Christian Democrat Fanfani exclaimed to newsmen after he had resigned. "I am thinking of my job, not yours."

Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the Social Democrats in the coalition, said the collapse was inevitable.

When Labor Minister Ezio Vigorelli, a Social Democrat, quit the Cabinet, Fanfani decided to give up.

Vigorelli resigned to work for unity of the Social Democrats with the left-wing Socialists of Pietro Nenni. The Social Democrats split off from the Socialists 12 years ago because of Nenni's alliance with the Communists.

Fanfani faced opposition from some right-wing Christian Democrats, agitation by labor unions for wage hikes, and threatened resignations by two other ministers.

President Giovanni Gronchi asked the Fanfani Cabinet to stay on in a caretaker capacity while a new government is formed.

Defense Dept. Declares Draft Must Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department told Congress Monday the draft law must be extended to prevent a dangerous dropoff in enlistments.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Charles C. Finucane gave this argument in urging that the draft be extended for four years. It now is due to die on June 30.

After listening to Finucane, Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee said "we have no choice. I hope there will be no hesitancy" in extending the draft.

This was one of several indications the committee would vote to prolong the draft. But there was no assurance it would be continued for four years. There have been suggestions the extension be limited to two years.

And before the committee acts, it appeared likely Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and other officials of the armed forces will have to do some explaining about military manpower cutbacks put into effect despite objections from Congress.

Vinson said that when the defense secretary appears later on, McElroy will be asked to explain who ordered the Army cut to 870,000 men after Congress had provided funds for 900,000 and had made clear it wanted the army kept at that size.

Finucane insisted that, without the draft, the armed services would fall short "700,000 or 800,000 from out total of about 2½ million."

Only the Army now is using the draft, and it obtains some of its recruits through volunteering.

But Finucane said that without the draft as a prod, enlistment in all the services would fall off dangerously.

Navy Plans Integrated School For Children At Norfolk Base

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced Monday it will set up an integrated school next month for 500 Navy children who live on the Norfolk, Va., naval base unless Norfolk's closed public schools are reopened before then.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, also told a news conference the administration is preparing legislation to permit the federal government to set up schools for children of military personnel who live off of military bases.

Present law permits the government to provide schooling only for children who live on federal property when other public education is not available.

The Navy announced last week it would seek funds from Flemming's department to provide schooling for children living on the naval base unless closed Virginia schools reopened "shortly."

Flemming said the funds would be forthcoming "immediately" so that federal school facilities could be ready in time for the start of the new school term in February.

Norfolk public schools, as well as those in two other Virginia communities, have been shut down under the state's "massive resistance" to Supreme Court desegregation rulings.

The Virginia Supreme Court and a three-judge fedreal court recently struck down the laws designed to avoid segregation. But Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond has called a special session of the General Assembly Wednesday to hear other plans for forestalling integration.

Administration Launches Hawaii Statehood Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House may vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the Flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island had served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has "earned the right to fair and equal treatment" with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists."

He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government".

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood "as quickly as possible" after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D-N.Y.) said he hoped to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the Rules Committee, stalling point for the Alaskan statehood bill last year.

Court Rules 'Subterfuge' Not Defiance

Jurist Dismisses Contempt Charge Against Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal judge dismissed a contempt charge against George Wallace Monday on grounds the former state judge only pretended, he said, to defy an order to show voter records to the Civil Rights Commission.

U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. said the fiery former judge, despite "devious methods," actually helped the commission in an investigation of Negro voting complaints.

Wallace was cleared of the contempt charge after a hearing called for him to show cause why he should not be punished for giving the records of two counties to grand juries instead of federal agents as Johnson ordered.

Political Motives Hinted

Johnson made no direct accusation of political motives behind Wallace's conduct, but said if that were the case, "this court refuses to allow its authority and dignity to be bent or swayed by such politically generated whirlwinds."

Wallace was runnerup in the Democratic primary race for governor last spring, and is regarded as a likely candidate for that office again in 1962 or perhaps for the U. S. Senate next year.

Johnson accused his former college classmate of using "devious methods" to turn registration records over to hastily summoned grand juries in Barbour and Bullock counties instead of handing them to federal agents in compliance with a federal court order.

But, the federal judge added, "even though it was accomplished through means of subterfuge," Wallace did comply with the order when the records were made available by the grand juries.

Guilty Plea Rejected

In dismissing the contempt charge, Johnson rejected a written plea of guilty in which the defendant boldly told the court he had refused to comply with its order.

Later Wallace issued a prepared statement charging that "the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall—they were defied and backed down."

Wallace said there was nothing in the testimony before the court either directly or indirectly to support Johnson's statement suggesting that politics might have inspired the actions.

Pumps Set Up At Pit Where 12 Trapped

PITTSTON, Pa. (AP) — Starting the second phase of their rescue efforts, crews toiled without letup Monday night, setting up pumps and clinging to thin hope that 12 men trapped by flood might still be alive in a hard coal mine.

The actual pumping will not begin for a day or two. It may go on for several more.

The Susquehanna River, swollen and jammed with ice blocks, burst through the walls of the main mine shaft last Thursday.

For 3½ days the waters whirled in the hole while rescue teams threw in big railroad gondolas, small mine cars, hay, straw, wood shavings and tons upon tons of dirt fill. In this way the rush of water was finally stopped Sunday night.

Souvenir Hunters Filch Gongs, Cripple Indo Band

WASHINGTON (AP) — Souvenir hunters at Washington's high society Bal Boheme have struck a muffled—if not crippling—blow at U. S.-Indonesian relations.

They carried off four irreplaceable bronze gongs forged in Central Java about 200 years ago. The loss has put the Indonesian Embassy's 45-piece gamelang orchestra out of business. It makes music of the xylophone type.

Three of the missing gongs are as big as 10-inch dinner plates. The fourth has a 15-inch diameter. All of them would be awkward to conceal—unless worn under flowing robes.

The Arts Club of Washington sponsored the fancy dress ball Jan. 16 at the Shoreham Hotel. Its president, Harry Zichterman, first made a discreet appeal to club members to return the gongs on a no-questions-asked basis. The effort was fruitless

So Zichterman appealed Monday through the press, asking that the person or persons knowing the whereabouts of the gongs return them to the Arts Club or the Indonesian Embassy.

More than 1,300 of Washington's top flight society figures turned out for the blue ribbon Bal Boheme, one of the leading social events of the winter. The theft was discovered when the affair broke up at 2 a. m.

Indonesian Ambassador Moekarto Notowidigdo was saddened by the theft.

"I would rather lose a $2,000 painting," he said.

He said that the loss cripples the whole orchestra and it cannot play now for the entertainment of Americans.

Zichterman said the Arts Club cannot ignore its responsibility. He appealed to the 300 club members and their 900 guests to do all they can to see that the orchestra is restored to its full number of instruments.

"It's like having four keys missing from a priceless piano," he said. "We must do all in our power to remove this discord in our relations."

Couple 2,500 Miles Apart Married Via Radio, Phone

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force sergeant on an island outpost in the Canadian Arctic and his bride in a judge's office here said "I do" Monday by short-wave radio and telephone.

The Air Force and an amateur radio operator in Hagerstown, Md. made the ceremony possible over the some 2,500 miles separating the couple.

The bride is Elizabeth Eason of Washington. The bridegroom is Sgt. Olie Coe, of San Antonio, Tex. stationed with a radar squadron at Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island in the Canadian Arctic.

The bride and groom are Negroes.

Performing the single ring ceremony was Associate Judge Edward Beard of Municipal Court here. Assisting him was John K. Baker, a Hagerstown certified public accountant and a ham radio operator.

The bride talked over a telephone from the judge's office to Baker's home in Hagerstown. Baker fed the bride's voice over a short-wave connection to the bridegroom.

After the couple exchanged their vows, a friend slipped a ring on the bride's finger.

Radio operators were on standby in Newfoundland, Greenland and Labrador to come to the couple's aid in case communications broke down. They weren't needed. Everything went fine.

The ceremony was brief but meaningful.

And the couple talked over plans for a honeymoon, which will have to be delayed at least until this summer. Sgt. Coe told his bride he expects to be home in Washington July 21. He said he will then ask for a leave. They talked about a California honeymoon.

Girl Meets Man Who Answered Her Bottle Note

LA GUAIRA, Venezuela (AP)—The Italian girl whose note on a bottle of syrup brought a transatlantic offer of marriage came and met her man Monday. She decided to take a few hours to think it over.

Margherita Bettelli, 28, was shy and reserved when Francisco Mule, 36, an immigrant tailor, boarded the liner Venezuela and embraced her.

A nice-looking girl in white cotton dress with red polka dots, she wrinkled her nose and looked a little skeptical when Mule brushed off the question of another wife and two children in Italy. He said he had a Mexican divorce before he answered Margherita's bottle note.

"I am here because I am free and my conscience is clear," Mule told reporters.

As to a Venezuelan girl friend, Rosa Acosta in Maracaibo, she is no problem, Francisco told reporters.

Graying and balding, Francisco was carrying some gladioli when he boarded the ship. He also was carrying unopened the bottle and the note Margherita had attached to it while working at a bottling works near Vignola in Italy.

The girl had written that she would like to visit Venezuela. Francisco found the note and proposed. Margherita sailed for Venezuela. But the romance was nearly wrecked when Francisco got his picture on Italian television and was claimed by Paola Ruscia Mule as her husband.

Mule and Margherita met in the ship's fiesta room to talk it over. Soon they were smiling and left arm in arm for lunch.

"Alfalfa's" Slaying Ruled Self Defense

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — A murder complaint against a 38-year - old welder was dismissed Monday shortly after a coroner's jury ruled that the fatal shooting of actor Carl D. (Alfalfa) Switzer was "justifiable homicide committed in self defense."

Municipal Judge Parks Stillwell dismissed the charge against Moses Samuel (Bud) Stiltz at the request of Deputy Dist. Atty. Al Warnberg.

At the inquest in nearby Los Angeles earlier in the day, Stiltz tearfully testified he shot the 32-year-old former "Our Gang" child star when the latter pulled a knife on him in a fight over a $50 debt.

Young Burglar Eludes Police

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — A young burglar believed wounded by a policeman's bullet eluded more than two dozen officers early Monday and escaped through a lumber yard.

Anne Arundel County police said the thief, believed to be about 19, kicked out a rear window at a drive-in restaurant and left blood stains on an ice cream box in front of the window.

Ronald Holste and Richard Popp, night managers at Ameche's Powerhouse Drive-In on Ritchie Highway at 5th Avenue, heard breaking glass while they were counting the night's receipts about 2:30 a.m.

The restaurant had been opened last week by Baltimore Colt fullback Alan Ameche.

Holste and Popp phoned police. Patrolman Edward L. Prieber, first at the scene, peered through the darkened front of the building and saw someone by the cash register. He shone his flashlight on the man, who had a piece of metal in his hand.

Thinking the metal was a gun, Prieber shot at the figure twice, who fled out the back way and leaped over a fence into an adjoining lumber yard.

Paris Fashions Follow Human Look Trend

PARIS (AP)—Paris designers have finally covered the kneecap and put the waistline back where they found it.

Even extremist Pierre Cardin followed the "let them look human" trend in his afternoon show, winding up the first day of the 1959 spring openings. Earlier, Heim and Patou had already ringed it—the waistline, that is—and reefed hemlines down far enough to put knees into retirement.

The back-to-normal movement is accompanied by horizontal decolletage, which bares more shoulder than bosom, big turnover collars, and skirts that are either slim in the hip or very full from a tiny waistline.

Unlike Patos, Cardin doesn't put the ladies back into wasp waists, but his jackets and dresses hug the figure fairly closely. Jackets are either fitted and exactly waist length or loose and as long as a tunic.

When belts climbed right up to the bustline with the empire style of last season, everybody supposed they could go no higher. But Cardin has taken the dare and put belt-like bands right around the shoulders—though perhaps at that level they qualify as collars.

Instead of the plain, straight-across neckline, he takes a V-clip or scallop out of the center front. Coats and jackets are just as decollete as dresses.

The Patou collection went in heavily for jackets buttoned down the back—the kind that require a contortionist or a helping hand to get into. Bolero suits bared an expanse of blouse between skirt and jacket.

With necklines and hemlines back to normal, attention has been shifted to the shoulders, and there we may expect it to stay this season.

The grotesque custom of stretching lips to platter size is still followed in Equatorial Africa, but the styles are changing. Young girls today go in for smaller disks, says the National Geographic Society.

Fastest Gun Contests Set

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)—Who really is the world's fastest gun?

Western television shows have brought that question into the spotlight.

In this famed frontier days town the National Quick Draw Assn. has been formed. Dodge City was noted for its quick-drawing marshals.

The organization was formed to weld together the quick draw clubs over the country. Its president is Tex Wayne of Dodge City, formerly of Oklahoma City.

Wayne claims he has pulled out his gun and shot with live ammunition in four-tenths of a second. He is one of several claiming to be the world's fastest.

Wayne and six other Dodge Citians, who are directors of the association, will sponsor annual national quick draw contests in this western Kansas town.

Border Flareup

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jordan guards shot and killed an Israeli soldier Monday. It was the first serious Jordan-Israeli border incident in months and United Nations truce teams began immediate investigation.

He also pledged himself to remove all state controls from the lagging Argentine cattle industry and to allow private enterprise to again lead the industry to world prominence.

Reaction Of Protestants To Pope's Call Is Mixed

LONDON (UPI) —Vatican plans for a Roman Catholic ecumenical council on uniting Christianity drew Protestant comment Monday that ranged from interest shown by the Church of England to rejection by the Presbyterian Church.

Many Protestant churchmen were non-commital about Pope John XXIII's call for a Roman Catholic ecumenical council of Catholic Church leaders to discuss ways of winning back Orthodox and Protestant groups to the Church of Rome.

In the United States, the Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches representing 33 major sects, said anything done to bring Christians together would be "blessed by God." But he warned that union could not be under conditions set by any one church.

Metropolitan Antony Bashir, archbishop of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox archdiocese in New York also hailed the goal of unity, but agreed with the Rev. Dahlberg that there could be no union under rules dictated by one church.

The Rev. Arthur Lichtenberg, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S., said he "welcomed" Pope John's announcement and hoped "the convocation might result in serious conversations between separated churches to explore those things which we have in common and those things which separate us."

Many clergymen felt the council, first since 1870 in the Roman church, was aimed at the Eastern Orthodox rites than at Western Protestant communions.

The Church of England (Episcopal) said it would send an orbserver to the Vatican council, if invited, with the hope there could be eventual reunion of all Christians.

A spokesman for the Scottish Church (Presbyterian) said the church wanted no part of a Catholic-sponsored conference.

736 Rebels Slain

ALGIERS (AP) — French military headquarters claimed Monday that 736 Nationalist rebels were killed or captured from Jan. 19 to 25. The French said 54 of their own troops were killed, as military activity in the rebelling territory stepped up sharily.

LONDON (UPI) —Vatican plans for a Roman Catholic ecumenical council on uniting Christianity drew Protestant comment Monday that ranged from interest shown by the Church of England to rejection by the Presbyterian Church.

Many Protestant churchmen were non-commital about Pope John XXIII's call for a Roman Catholic ecumenical council of Catholic Church leaders to discuss ways of winning back Orthodox and Protestant groups to the Church of Rome.

In the United States, the Rev. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches representing 33 major sects, said anything done to bring Christians together would be "blessed by God." But he warned that union could not be under conditions set by any one church.

Metropolitan Antony Bashir, archbishop of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox archdiocese in New York also hailed the goal of unity, but agreed with the Rev. Dahlberg that there could be no union under rules dictated by one church.

The Rev. Arthur Lichtenberg, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S., said he "welcomed" Pope John's announcement and hoped "the convocation might result in serious conversations between separated churches to explore those things which we have in common and those things which separate us."

Many clergymen felt the council, first since 1870 in the Roman church, was aimed at the Eastern Orthodox rites than at Western Protestant communions.

The Church of England (Episcopal) said it would send an orbserver to the Vatican council, if invited, with the hope there could be eventual reunion of all Christians.

A spokesman for the Scottish Church (Presbyterian) said the church wanted no part of a Catholic-sponsored conference.

736 Rebels Slain

ALGIERS (AP) — French military headquarters claimed Monday that 736 Nationalist rebels were killed or captured from Jan. 19 to 25. The French said 54 of their own troops were killed, as military activity in the rebelling territory stepped up sharily.

"Alfalfa's" Slaying Ruled Self Defense

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — A murder complaint against a 38-year - old welder was dismissed Monday shortly after a coroner's jury ruled that the fatal shooting of actor Carl D. (Alfalfa) Switzer was "justifiable homicide committed in self defense."

Municipal Judge Parks Stillwell dismissed the charge against Moses Samuel (Bud) Stiltz at the request of Deputy Dist. Atty. Al Warnberg.

At the inquest in nearby Los Angeles earlier in the day, Stiltz tearfully testified he shot the 32-year-old former "Our Gang" child star when the latter pulled a knife on him in a fight over a $50 debt.

Young Burglar Eludes Police

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — A young burglar believed wounded by a policeman's bullet eluded more than two dozen officers early Monday and escaped through a lumber yard.

Anne Arundel County police said the thief, believed to be about 19, kicked out a rear window at a drive-in restaurant and left blood stains on an ice cream box in front of the window.

Ronald Holste and Richard Popp, night managers at Ameche's Powerhouse Drive-In on Ritchie Highway at 5th Avenue, heard breaking glass while they were counting the night's receipts about 2:30 a.m.

The restaurant had been opened last week by Baltimore Colt fullback Alan Ameche.

Holste and Popp phoned police. Patrolman Edward L. Prieber, first at the scene, peered through the darkened front of the building and saw someone by the cash register. He shone his flashlight on the man, who had a piece of metal in his hand.

Thinking the metal was a gun, Prieber shot at the figure twice, who fled out the back way and leaped over a fence into an adjoining lumber yard.

Paris Fashions Follow Human Look Trend

PARIS (AP)—Paris designers have finally covered the kneecap and put the waistline back where they found it.

Even extremist Pierre Cardin followed the "let them look human" trend in his afternoon show, winding up the first day of the 1959 spring openings. Earlier, Heim and Patou had already ringed it—the waistline, that is—and reefed hemlines down far enough to put knees into retirement.

The back-to-normal movement is accompanied by horizontal decolletage, which bares more shoulder than bosom, big turnover collars, and skirts that are either slim in the hip or very full from a tiny waistline.

Unlike Patos, Cardin doesn't put the ladies back into wasp waists, but his jackets and dresses hug the figure fairly closely. Jackets are either fitted and exactly waist length or loose and as long as a tunic.

When belts climbed right up to the bustline with the empire style of last season, everybody supposed they could go no higher. But Cardin has taken the dare and put belt-like bands right around the shoulders—though perhaps at that level they qualify as collars.

Instead of the plain, straight-across neckline, he takes a V-clip or scallop out of the center front. Coats and jackets are just as decollete as dresses.

The Patou collection went in heavily for jackets buttoned down the back—the kind that require a contortionist or a helping hand to get into. Bolero suits bared an expanse of blouse between skirt and jacket.

With necklines and hemlines back to normal, attention has been shifted to the shoulders, and there we may expect it to stay this season.

The grotesque custom of stretching lips to platter size is still followed in Equatorial Africa, but the styles are changing. Young girls today go in for smaller disks, says the National Geographic Society.

Fastest Gun Contests Set

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)—Who really is the world's fastest gun?

Western television shows have brought that question into the spotlight.

In this famed frontier days town the National Quick Draw Assn. has been formed. Dodge City was noted for its quick-drawing marshals.

The organization was formed to weld together the quick draw clubs over the country. Its president is Tex Wayne of Dodge City, formerly of Oklahoma City.

Wayne claims he has pulled out his gun and shot with live ammunition in four-tenths of a second. He is one of several claiming to be the world's fastest.

Wayne and six other Dodge Citians, who are directors of the association, will sponsor annual national quick draw contests in this western Kansas town.

Border Flareup

JERUSALEM (AP) — Jordan guards shot and killed an Israeli soldier Monday. It was the first serious Jordan-Israeli border incident in months and United Nations truce teams began immediate investigation.

Given an inch, the United States took a bigger one. Congress in 1866 made the official American inch four-millionths longer than the standard British measurement.

Frondizi Appeals For American Capital

CHICAGO (UPI) — Argentine President Arturo Frondizi Monday appealed for American capital to help heal the economic wounds left by the Juan Peron dictatorship.

He also pledged himself to remove all state controls from the lagging Argentine cattle industry and to allow private enterprise to again lead the industry to world prominence.

Man Charged With Murder In Choking Death Of Baby Returned To Frederick

FREDERICK (AP) — Larry Lord Motherwell was due in Frederick late Monday night to be confronted with a little wooden box in which police said he buried his baby daughter in a pet cemetery more than four years ago.

Motherwell is a husky 42-year-old construction worker who lived in Frederick while working at nearby Ft. Detrick.

He has been formally charged with first degree murder in the choking death of the 14-month-old abnormal youngster June 19, 1954.

He was arrested in Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 18, ending a weird manhunt which began late last summer with the reported disappearance of a wealthy Washington widow, Mrs. Pearl Putney. She is still missing.

Motherwell was being returned to Frederick by Police Chief Charles V. Mains and Sheriff Horace Alexander.

The murder charge was lodged last week by State's Atty. Edwin F. Nikirk. The Frederick County grand jury convening Feb. 16 will be asked to return a murder indictment.

Meantime, Motherwell will be held in the county jail without bail.

Mains, who questioned Motherwell in Las Vegas, said the man insisted he had not killed the child. Motherwell told how he placed it on its back after feeding it, although he had been advised against doing so.

The baby had a defective tongue and suffocated while Motherwell was taking a shower, Mains quoted Motherwell.

Motherwell had gotten the child from a Takoma Park, Md., nursing home several hours before its death and brought it to his Frederick apartment. The youngster had been in the institution since shortly after birth in April 1953.

Mains said Motherwell buried the baby the next day in a box used for filing papers in connection with his work. The mother of the child, the former Sarah McKlirkin, was Motherwell's second wife.

She drowned in her bathtub in a Washington apartment Nov. 7, 1953.

The box was exhumed from the pet cemetery last Nov. 19. In it was found the baby's skeleton, two nursing bottles and a plastic toy.

The search for Motherwell had shifted from Washington to Frederick after acquaintances of the man recalled he had told them about burying a dog who had saved his life in Korea.

The search for Motherwell began when a relative of the 72-year-old Mrs. Putney reported to Washington police she had vanished. She had just inherited about $50,000 from her mother.

When Motherwell was arrested in Las Vegas, police said he had $16,000 in cash which he claimed was part of the money Mrs. Putney gave him while he worked for her as a chauffeur.

Motherwell said he last saw the aged widow in her Las Vegas hotel in mid-August. She said she would rejoin him, Motherwell claimed, in that city in mid-December.

Stolen Articles Valued At $11,644

BALTIMORE (AP) — A total value of $11,644 has been placed on the jewelry, clothing and other articles stolen from the suburban Baltimore home of Julius Mandell, a building contractor.

Baltimore County police said the articles reported missing include a gold bracelet set with 24 blue sapphires and matching diamond earrings and necklace, valued at $2,500.

Mandell, whose home in Pikesville was burglarized last week, also reported stolen a lady's diamond ring valued at $1,900, a $1,500 man's diamond ring and a $1,200 mink jacket.

Hanging Death Of Boy Presumably Accidental

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP) — Deputy Sheriff George Sanger said Monday that the hanging death of a 12-year-old St.Marys County boy was presumably accidental.

The body of the boy, James Harman Tippett of nearby Avenue, was found hanging from a tree near his home late Sunday night while more than 40 volunteers were searching for him.

An autopsy was held in Baltimore Monday but the Medical Examiner's Office said only that the boy died of hanging.

Dr. Paul F. Guerin, assistant medical examiner who performed the autopsy, said any further ruling would remain pending until completion of the police investigation.

Both Dr. Guerin and Deputy Sanger said they might have been able to reconstruct events better if the boy's body had not been cut down so soon.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Tippett, was last seen at 3 p. m. Sunday. The wooded area where his body was found is called "Devil's Canyon" by the boys in the neighborhood.

Auto Industry Will Miss January Goal

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry probably will build 550,000 cars this month, missing its original 590,000 goal because of curtailed output by Chrysler. A shortage of plate glass has hampered Chrysler production.

This month's indicated output will compare with 489,357 car assemblies in January a year ago.

Last week the industry built 130,189 cars against 135,976 the preceding week and 107,495 in the comparable 1958 week.

ALGERIANS LEFT HOMELESS

LYON, France (UPI) — A flash fire swept through wooden shacks in a shantytown on the outskirts of Lyon Monday, making homeless more than 200 Algerian immigrants. Firemen managed to bring the blaze under control after it had raged for 1½ hours through the tinderbox structures.

Baltimore County Charter Under Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Commission on Government Efficiency and Economy has termed the Baltimore County charter and laws on the qualifications of county appointees as "frequently vague and inexplicit."

A commission report says that only in a few cases are the education and experience requirements for county posts spelled out.

In most cases, it states, "the only qualification is the stock phase 'shall be appointed solely with regard to his qualifications for the duties of his office.'"

The report says this puts full responsibility "squarely on the county administrative officer to appoint and the county executive to approve only persons whose training and experience indubitably qualify them for the position they are to fill."

Cole Funeral Rites Will Be Held Today

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for C. Walter Cole, prominent Baltimore County attorney and past president of the University of Maryland Alumni Assn.

Cole, 59, died at his home here Sunday.

He was a past president of the county bar association and a former Maryland representative on the Commission on Uniform State Legislation.

Q: How do you feel about Blue Cross?

A: "In my book, nothing beats Blue Cross!"

"I've had other kinds of hospitalization insurance, but none as valuable as Blue Cross. Not long ago, my wife was in the hospital for 28 days. The bill came to over $1,000 and Blue Cross covered the whole thing! All we did was show our membership card when my wife was admitted. No claim forms to fill out, no red tape. In my book, nothing beats Blue Cross!"

ASA Alumnae Chapter To Aid Handicapped Children

Members of Cumberland Alumnae Chapter, Alpha Sigma Alpha, decided its philanthropic project for the year will be helping handicapped children. Plans were discussed at the meeting held last week at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. At the next meeting Mrs. John Long will be the speaker, to explain the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children, and discuss its needs. Mrs. Edgar Reynolds was named Philanthropic chairman. The meeting will be held February 19 at the home of Mrs. James Grosh, LaVale, at which time it will be decided what the sorority will do.

The meeting date was changed to the third Thursday of each month. A contribution was made to the National Fellowship fund.

A social hour concluded the meeting and refreshments were served.

Others attending were Mrs. Grosh, Mrs. William Kight, Mrs. Robert Platt, Mrs. Beulah Montesant, Mrs. Harry Cornelius, Jr., Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Robert Williams.

PD Nurses Election Is Held

The Private Duty Nurses Section of the District 1, Maryland State Nurses Association elected three officers at the meeting recently, which was held at Memorial Hospital, with Miss Martha Lee Heron presiding.

Mrs. Ruth Wendel Valentine was elected first vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Bartlett, secretary, and Miss Margaret Hovatter, member at large. Other officers are Miss Mae Matlick, second vice chairman, and Miss Nancy Neal, member at large.

Private nursing duties were discussed.

Centenary Society To Help Lodge

Reports and announcements were made at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Centenary Church. Mrs. Ruthella Fey read a letter from the Business Girls Lodge telling of its activities and asking for a donation to carry on its work. The group decided to send $5 to the lodge.

Mrs. Robert Nield anounced the "Gospel Comforter Singers" will be at Centenary Church, February 1, at 3 o'clock. After the service a fellowship supper will be served in the social room, sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship. Information and reservations may be obtained by calling PA 4-2987.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Madalin Little. Routine reports were given with 22 members present. Mrs. Helen White read a letter from Miss Eva Lough, thanking the society for the boxes sent at Christmas time. Mrs. Helen White reported eight members have joined the Membership Guild for the Asbury Home.

A worship service was conducted by Mrs. Margaret Hardinger. Her topic was "Prayer." She spoke of the World Day of Prayer and the preparations each member should make for it. Mrs. Rita Wilson and Mrs. Louis Emerick offered prayer. There was responsive reading and group singing of "An Evening Prayer."

A surplus sale was held in the basement of the church, as the project for the month. Mrs. Rita Wilson and Mrs. Melvin Boone were hostesses for the evening.

The next meeting will be held March 6, due to a revival service being held in the charge.

TO AID CRIPPLED CHILDREN—The Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club presented a check of $300 to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. The money which is the proceeds from last fall's dog show, was given to Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, league president. Philip Carolan, past president of the club, is shown making the presentation, while Harvey W. Ware, president, looks on. The money will be used "to meet the needs of the crippled children program." The Kennel Club's show this year will be held May 17 at the Frostburg armory. Proceeds will be given to the crippled children again this year.

GFWC Urges Expulsion Of UN Hungarians

Miss Chloe Gifford, Lexington, Ky., and Washington, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has made the following statement with regard to the organization's policy concerning the United Nations:

"The General Federation of Women's Clubs has consistently supported the United Nations in its efforts to help keep the peace among the member nations.

"The United Nations Charter specifies that nations which seek membership must show their willingness to support the aims of the Charter and must be recognized for their peaceful conducts.

"The delegates representing Hungary now are those who usurped the power of the Hungarian government by force and in violation of the basic principle of the U. N. Charter and are therefore defying U. N. resolutions.

"The General Federation is an international organization with approximately five million women in the United States. We urge the General Assembly to expel the present Hungarian delegates from the U. N. because we believe that to accept their credentials is not in compliance with the requirements of the U. N. Charter."

Double M Club Elects Caldwell

Officers for the coming year were elected by the Double M Club at its meeting last week in the Fairview Avenue Methodist Church.

Charles Caldwell was elected president; Robert Webster, vice president; Mrs. Charles Caldwell, secretary; Mrs. Walter Maxey, treasurer, and Mrs. Harold Hawkins, Sunshine chairman.

The group was entertained by the showing of movies of the Christmas party. They were shown by Mr. Webster. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jesse Baker.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zucker, Mr. and Mrs. James Raupach, Mrs. Robert Webster, Walter Maxey and Harold Hawkins.

Card Party To Be Held

A public luncheon and card party will be held by the Woman's Civic Club, Thursday at the club house, 515 Washington Street, beginning at noon. There will be special prizes as well as awards at each table. Players are to bring their own cards.

Auxiliary To Barracks 1125 Receives Charter In Balt.

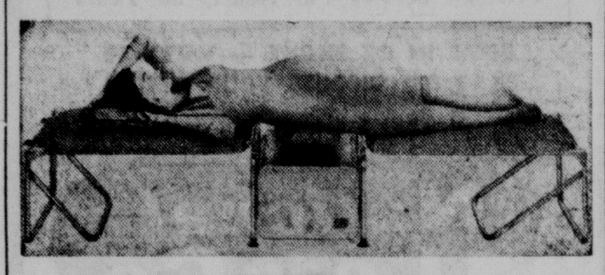

On behalf of World War I, Ladies Auxiliary to Barracks 1125, Mrs. Chloe Reynolds received the charter at the official visit of Mrs. Phoebe Neron, from California, national president, to Maryland. The presentation, which was the only one in the state, was made by Mrs. Agnes Eberenz, Baltimore, who served as recording secretary, when Mrs. Reynolds was department president.

Others attending from here were Mrs. Rosalie Everstine, Mrs. Catherine Wilson, Mrs. Josephine Shonsky and Mrs. Ina Smith.

The department meeting was held in the War Memorial building, Baltimore, Saturday, at which time a school of instruction was conducted by Mrs. Neron, who was making her official visit.

In the evening a reception was held and the allied organizations brought greetings. The keys of the city were presented by Richard O'Connell, representing Mayor D'Alesandro. Mrs. Neron was the principal speaker. Her topic was "Membership and Legislation." Refreshments were served. Including "buddies" or the barracks, there were 150 attending.

Mrs. Reynolds will present the charter plaque at the meeting February 11.

St. Mary's Building Plans Are Approved

Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, has been given the "green light" for construction of a new school, convent and rectory for the parish.

Father Bogan announced at all masses Sunday that permission had been granted for the construction projects by Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore.

The local pastor conferred with the archbishop last week concerning the school, convent and rectory situation at the parish.

The archbishop expressed a strong desire that all buildings be new and also be 100 per cent fire proof.

Father Bogan expects to begin immediately to map preliminary plans for the construction, and hopes to be able to advertise for sealed bids in three or four months.

The school and convent were condemned two weeks ago following a fire inspection by members of the Cumberland Fire Department.

The inspection revealed that the school had reached the point where it was a definite fire and life hazard to both students and personnel.

In his report, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said: "Drastic measures must be taken immediately to protect these students and personnel. Time and again over a period of years the Cumberland Fire Department has recommended these hazards be corrected. It is the recommendation of this department that this combination school and convent be demolished and a new school and convent be constructed at once."

Father Bogan said yesterday that the high school girls will move immediately to class rooms which have been setup in the basement of the church and the parish hall.

"Pupils in the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth grades will be transferred from the second floor of the present building to the first floor which will provide a safety measure.

"The new school will be for elementary grades only and the present St. Mary's High School will be closed this June," Father Bogan said.

The new school will be constructed in the rear of the present structure, thus allowing classes to continue while the new building is being constructed.

Charles S. Jackson, fire marshall for the State of Maryland, last week submitted a report on the school to members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

In his report Jackson said the school was built in 1903 and is of brick construction, two stories high, and has wooden floors and a tin roof.

His report stated that at the time of the inspection many deficiencies were found. Rev. Robert Hopkins accompanied Jackson and Jesse F. Jacobs, fire investigator, on the tour of the buildings.

Commander Visits Mt. District Legion

WESTERNPORT—Delegates of Legion posts of Mountain District met here Sunday with John Chilcott, Baltimore, department commander for Maryland, speaking on the Legion program for the coming year.

The rehabilitation program of the Legion was outlined by John Matthews, Baltimore, state Legion chairman. John Sloan, Baltimore, past state commander, also attended the session. He is a former Cumberlander.

Lonnie Marsh Jr., of Westernport, head of the child welfare program for the district, told of activities of his group since the last meeting of the Mountain District delegates.

C&O Plan Shown At City Hall

A five-panel display showing some of the features of the proposed C&O Canal National Historical Park has been set up in the rotunda of City Hall by the National Park Service.

Pictures depicting nature, beauty, recreation and historical features of the park plan are included in the display along with a map showing the overall plan.

Use TV time for your daily dozen.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

If you are going to spend so many hours in front of the TV set, why not decide to counteract the physical effects with more exercise? Use the to-be-expected interest lulls for exercise time.

Here's a fine exercise to trim down that midriff "bicycle tire." You can start out doing it 10 times and work up gradually to 20 times. Lie on your back on the floor with your arms stretched above your head. Now keeping head and shoulders flat on the floor, raise right leg straight up and forward until you can touch it with your left hand. Start lowering it to original position and breathe out as you do this.

In the beginning alternate leg-touches very slowly. Gradually work up to a rapid pace.

Be sure that you're comfortable for your exercising. If you'd like, place a folded blanket on the floor. The exercise above has been recommended by physicians for reconditioning the mid-section after pregnancy. It also agrees with those whose sacroiliac objects to bends while standing.

Here's another simple exercise for strengthening the torso muscles and flattening the fore-and-aft lines of that area. Lie on back with arms overhead, one leg straight, the other knee bent up over the body. Count one-two-three and as you say three, swing up to a sitting position. At the same time bring up your arms to your side with a vigorous forward swing, straightening the bent knee, and bring the leg down smartly as you rise.

Exercise is important for your figure. Important, too, is the selection of proper foundation garments. The booklet, "Figured for You," helps in this with thoughtful, detailed advice. Why not get a copy? Just send 10c and a stamped, return envelope with your request to Secrets of Charm, c/o this newspaper.

Switchboard Operator Is Named By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday named Mrs. Anne C. Perdew as temporary telephone operator for the new switchboard being installed at City Hall.

The appointment is effective on completion of the board which will await notification from the C&P Telephone Company. Salary of the operator will be $165 a month.

The apointment was approved 4-1 with Commissioner John J. Long dissenting.

Three payments were authorized as follows: $11.75 to James Alfred Avirett, 1 Washington Street, for payment of sewage charge in error; $30 to Pauline Sullivan, 406 Columbia Street, as a refund on a meter purchase; and $62.61 to Builders Paint and Supply for water damages at 139 Union Street October 31, 1957 when a wooden plug blew out of a city main.

Checks to city employes for the last two weeks of the month were ordered paid Monday, February 2, with the city auditor asked to make the issuance Friday afternoon if possible.

L. O. Gilliand, sales manager of the Great American Tea Company, appeared to protest parking conditions and the method of issuing tickets near his place of business. He was invited to meet with Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to discuss the situation.

Fire Company Cited By Liquor Board

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners yesterday issued citation against the Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company for a hearing Tuesday, February 3, at 10 a. m.

Last week the fire company trustees were fined $500 in Allegany County Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris on a charge of maintaining gaming devices at the fire hall.

County officers raided the place and found two slot machines in a back room.

The liquor board will conduct the hearing to determine whether the liquor license of the fire company should be revoked or suspended.

City Auditorium Seating Change Aired

Street Commissioner John J. Long told council yesterday he has under study a plan to [illegible] present stationary seats in City Hall auditorium with the collapsible type.

Permanent seats, he said, make it impossible to hold certain types of meetings in the auditorium. The new plan, he added, would insure better use and increase opportunity of more groups using auditorium facilities.

Council was notified by the Civil Aeronautics Board chief examiner, Francis W. Brown, that the petition by the city, Chamber of Commerce and State Aviation Commission to have Allegheny Airlines make Cumberland a permanent station had been received and placed on the docket as No. 10148. He said the city would be notified of any CAB action.

(Allegheny which has been operating on a temporary status here, has asked to drop Cumberland from its route.)

Council granted the license application by Coach System Inc., to operate the parking lot at 101 South Mechanic Street. The lot has been in operation since December.

In answer to a complaint by Mayor J. Edwin Keech over conditions at the corner of Virginia and Laing Avenues, the State Roads Commission's district engineer G. Bates Chaires, said in a letter that the situation will be solved when work on the contract is resumed next spring.

Chaires wrote the Mayor that traffic conditions were still the same as before work started in that area in connection with the Industrial Boulevard but that the SRC had installed a small pipe to provide drainage and applied crusher run for pedestrians to walk on.

City To Keep Chapel Hill Fire House

Chapel Hill Hose House on Arch Street will not be sold.

Instead, the structure will be rented to the South Cumberland Business Men's Association for $100 a year for its use and that of other organizations.

Recommendation to retain the hose house was made yesterday by Finance Commissioner [illegible]ile Roeder who told the Mayor and Council that the question of selling it had been approached in October.

A study made since that time revealed that the hose house had been leased to the South End business men for $1 a year, the lease expiring January 2. The association had paid fire insurance on the builidng.

Mrs. Roeder said Somerville Nicholson, county supervisor of assessments had placed a value of from $2,000 to $2,500 on the building. Then at a meeting with George Holler, president, Robert Keech and Harry Shobe of the association, the South End group expressed a desire to keep the hose house. She said 14 organizations had been using the site for their activities.

Further investigation showed taxes amounted to $39.25; fire insurance $15 and sewage and water fees $37.80 or a total of $92.05 a year.

In that regard, Mrs. Roeder said she felt it would be a service to the community and recommended that a rent of $100 a year be charged. This will make the hose house available to community groups.

The South End business men will provide funds for its upkeep and repair and there will be no cost to the city, it was pointed out.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech asserted if no such place is available, some of the groups using it would be unable to meet at all.

St. Mary's Building Plans Are Approved

Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, has been given the "green light" for construction of a new school, convent and rectory for the parish.

Father Bogan announced at all masses Sunday that permission had been granted for the construction projects by Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore.

The local pastor conferred with the archbishop last week concerning the school, convent and rectory situation at the parish.

The archbishop expressed a strong desire that all buildings be new and also be 100 per cent fire proof.

Father Bogan expects to begin immediately to map preliminary plans for the construction, and hopes to be able to advertise for sealed bids in three or four months.

The school and convent were condemned two weeks ago following a fire inspection by members of the Cumberland Fire Department.

The inspection revealed that the school had reached the point where it was a definite fire and life hazard to both students and personnel.

In his report, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said: "Drastic measures must be taken immediately to protect these students and personnel. Time and again over a period of years the Cumberland Fire Department has recommended these hazards be corrected. It is the recommendation of this department that this combination school and convent be demolished and a new school and convent be constructed at once."

Father Bogan said yesterday that the high school girls will move immediately to class rooms which have been setup in the basement of the church and the parish hall.

"Pupils in the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth grades will be transferred from the second floor of the present building to the first floor which will provide a safety measure.

"The new school will be for elementary grades only and the present St. Mary's High School will be closed this June," Father Bogan said.

The new school will be constructed in the rear of the present structure, thus allowing classes to continue while the new building is being constructed.

Charles S. Jackson, fire marshall for the State of Maryland, last week submitted a report on the school to members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

In his report Jackson said the school was built in 1903 and is of brick construction, two stories high, and has wooden floors and a tin roof.

His report stated that at the time of the inspection many deficiencies were found. Rev. Robert Hopkins accompanied Jackson and Jesse F. Jacobs, fire investigator, on the tour of the buildings.

Commander Visits Mt. District Legion

WESTERNPORT—Delegates of Legion posts of Mountain District met here Sunday with John Chilcott, Baltimore, department commander for Maryland, speaking on the Legion program for the coming year.

The rehabilitation program of the Legion was outlined by John Matthews, Baltimore, state Legion chairman. John Sloan, Baltimore, past state commander, also attended the session. He is a former Cumberlander.

Lonnie Marsh Jr., of Westernport, head of the child welfare program for the district, told of activities of his group since the last meeting of the Mountain District delegates.

C&O Plan Shown At City Hall

A five-panel display showing some of the features of the proposed C&O Canal National Historical Park has been set up in the rotunda of City Hall by the National Park Service.

Pictures depicting nature, beauty, recreation and historical features of the park plan are included in the display along with a map showing the overall plan.

Secrets Of Charm

If you are going to spend so many hours in front of the TV set, why not decide to counteract the physical effects with more exercise? Use the to-be-expected interest lulls for exercise time.

Here's a fine exercise to trim down that midriff "bicycle tire." You can start out doing it 10 times and work up gradually to 20 times. Lie on your back on the floor with your arms stretched above your head. Now keeping head and shoulders flat on the floor, raise right leg straight up and forward until you can touch it with your left hand. Start lowering it to original position and breathe out as you do this.

In the beginning alternate leg-touches very slowly. Gradually work up to a rapid pace.

Be sure that you're comfortable for your exercising. If you'd like, place a folded blanket on the floor. The exercise above has been recommended by physicians for reconditioning the mid-section after pregnancy. It also agrees with those whose sacroiliac objects to bends while standing.

Here's another simple exercise for strengthening the torso muscles and flattening the fore-and-aft lines of that area. Lie on back with arms overhead, one leg straight, the other knee bent up over the body. Count one-two-three and as you say three, swing up to a sitting position. At the same time bring up your arms to your side with a vigorous forward swing, straightening the bent knee, and bring the leg down smartly as you rise.

Exercise is important for your figure. Important, too, is the selection of proper foundation garments. The booklet, "Figured for You," helps in this with thoughtful, detailed advice. Why not get a copy? Just send 10c and a stamped, return envelope with your request to Secrets of Charm, c/o this newspaper.

Switchboard Operator Is Named By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday named Mrs. Anne C. Perdew as temporary telephone operator for the new switchboard being installed at City Hall.

The appointment is effective on completion of the board which will await notification from the C&P Telephone Company. Salary of the operator will be $165 a month.

The apointment was approved 4-1 with Commissioner John J. Long dissenting.

Three payments were authorized as follows: $11.75 to James Alfred Avirett, 1 Washington Street, for payment of sewage charge in error; $30 to Pauline Sullivan, 406 Columbia Street, as a refund on a meter purchase; and $62.61 to Builders Paint and Supply for water damages at 139 Union Street October 31, 1957 when a wooden plug blew out of a city main.

Checks to city employes for the last two weeks of the month were ordered paid Monday, February 2, with the city auditor asked to make the issuance Friday afternoon if possible.

L. O. Gilliand, sales manager of the Great American Tea Company, appeared to protest parking conditions and the method of issuing tickets near his place of business. He was invited to meet with Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to discuss the situation.

Fire Company Cited By Liquor Board

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners yesterday issued citation against the Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company for a hearing Tuesday, February 3, at 10 a. m.

Last week the fire company trustees were fined $500 in Allegany County Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris on a charge of maintaining gaming devices at the fire hall.

County officers raided the place and found two slot machines in a back room.

The liquor board will conduct the hearing to determine whether the liquor license of the fire company should be revoked or suspended.

ENTERS GUILTY PLEA

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — A Greek Cypriot woman was sentenced to 12 years in prison by a British court here Monday after she pleaded guilty to charges of possessing 79 bombs, five land mines and a large quantity of other explosives. Mrs. Athina Koumida, 34, admitted ownership of the big chance of explosives.

City Auditorium Seating Change Aired

Street Commissioner John J. Long told council yesterday he has under study a plan to [illegible] present stationary seats in City Hall auditorium with the collapsible type.

Permanent seats, he said, make it impossible to hold certain types of meetings in the auditorium. The new plan, he added, would insure better use and increase opportunity of more groups using auditorium facilities.

Council was notified by the Civil Aeronautics Board chief examiner, Francis W. Brown, that the petition by the city, Chamber of Commerce and State Aviation Commission to have Allegheny Airlines make Cumberland a permanent station had been received and placed on the docket as No. 10148. He said the city would be notified of any CAB action.

(Allegheny which has been operating on a temporary status here, has asked to drop Cumberland from its route.)

Council granted the license application by Coach System Inc., to operate the parking lot at 101 South Mechanic Street. The lot has been in operation since December.

In answer to a complaint by Mayor J. Edwin Keech over conditions at the corner of Virginia and Laing Avenues, the State Roads Commission's district engineer G. Bates Chaires, said in a letter that the situation will be solved when work on the contract is resumed next spring.

Chaires wrote the Mayor that traffic conditions were still the same as before work started in that area in connection with the Industrial Boulevard but that the SRC had installed a small pipe to provide drainage and applied crusher run for pedestrians to walk on.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

HAVANA — Had a talk today with gun - toting editor Carlos Franqui, described by Time as "a Communist-lining journalist." Franqui heads the new Havana daily newspaper Revolucion, the city's 32nd paper. We met at the presidential palace, where the bearded and bone-tired fellow appears to have the run of the place.

"Are you a Communist?" I asked him.

He slapped his side, the side with the .38 strapped to it, and said: "If I am, something has gone wrong. Khrushchev hasn't sent me my check. Then there's something else. The Communists call me a Fascist. It is confusing."

"What are you?"

"I belong to any and every party that believes in liberty," the 37-year-old Franqui said with that peculiarly ringing authority of Dr. Castro's bearded ones. "I despise Communist regimes because they deprive millions of liberty. I despise capitalistic regimes because they keep millions in misery."

Well, how did his paper (which has reached a circulation, he said, of 75,000 since appearing above ground) stand on factions which might not like the way Castro is running things.

"I predict that before long several Cuban political parties will be in active competition with Fidel's 'July 26 movement,'" Franqui swore. "The only party I'd be in favor of barring would be one composed of confirmed believers in Batista. Those people must be criminals."

"Could you bring yourself to criticize Castro if you thought he was wrong?"

"Certainly," he snapped with a trace of anger. "I've already started. It was my paper which demanded of him that he imprison one of our best friends in the revolution—an heroic captain — for the death of a certain Batista supporter we wanted to put on trial. True, the officer himself did not shoot this man, but one of the officer's soldiers did indeed, and I felt the officer should bear full responsibility for this breakdown in discipline. I had to fight to make this point, but I'm happy today to report that this man, this friend, is in prison where he belongs."

The Cuban editor, close to Castro since they were boys, says he has had to make certain concessions to popular taste since bringing his crusading paper into town from the hills.

"I've put in a sports section," he said with a slight shudder, "but I'm still holding out against society columns and, of course, police blotter reports. I'm taking advertisements, too, but will remain selective in that field. We need the money, of course, but we don't accept ads which might tend to 'buy' us editorially."

Revolucion is being printed, ironically enough, on a press which once boomed forth a steady paean of praise for Batista and preached damnation for his rebel enemies. The plant is that of the defunct "Alerta," a paper owned personally by the deposed dictator. Franqui hopes to raise enough money by public subscription to buy the property after his friend's government takes it over. It won't be difficult, one would guess.

Civinettes Have Social

Reports on a Christmas candy sale were given at a brief meeting of the Civinette Club, which was held at Central YMCA, with Mrs. Rose Ann Blake presiding. A social hour followed the business session.

Mrs. Edith Trazzo was a guest. Other members present were Mrs. Mary Margaret Rowan, Mrs. Doris Kolb, Mrs. Martha Moore, Mrs. Beuna Moody and Mrs. Catherine Armbruster.

Cresaptown Home Damaged By Fire

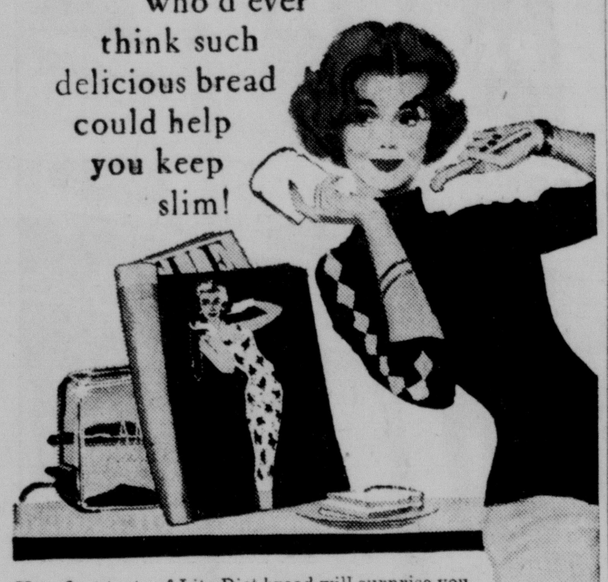

The front room of a residence on Winchester Road in Cresaptown was badly damaged by fire Sunday night when a cigaret ignited a sofa.

Assistant Fire Chief Louis Winters of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company, said a neighbor turned in the alarm when he saw flames inside the home of Richard Ullery. No one was home at the time.

Twenty-one members of the fire company went to the home with two trucks. Water was used to douse the blaze. Chief Winters said there was much damage from smoke and the sofa was a total loss. Curtains and the area around the windows of the front room were burned.

Damage was estimated by Chief Winters at several hundred dollars.

On The Line
by Bob Considine

HAVANA — Had a talk today with gun - toting editor Carlos Franqui, described by Time as "a Communist-lining journalist." Franqui heads the new Havana daily newspaper Revolucion, the city's 32nd paper. We met at the presidential palace, where the bearded and bone-tired fellow appears to have the run of the place.

"Are you a Communist?" I asked him.

He slapped his side, the side with the .38 strapped to it, and said: "If I am, something has gone wrong. Khrushchev hasn't sent me my check. Then there's something else. The Communists call me a Fascist. It is confusing."

"What are you?"

"I belong to any and every party that believes in liberty," the 37-year-old Franqui said with that peculiarly ringing authority of Dr. Castro's bearded ones. "I despise Communist regimes because they deprive millions of liberty. I despise capitalistic regimes because they keep millions in misery."

Well, how did his paper (which has reached a circulation, he said, of 75,000 since appearing above ground) stand on factions which might not like the way Castro is running things.

"I predict that before long several Cuban political parties will be in active competition with Fidel's 'July 26 movement,'" Franqui swore. "The only party I'd be in favor of barring would be one composed of confirmed believers in Batista. Those people must be criminals."

"Could you bring yourself to criticize Castro if you thought he was wrong?"

"Certainly," he snapped with a trace of anger. "I've already started. It was my paper which demanded of him that he imprison one of our best friends in the revolution—an heroic captain — for the death of a certain Batista supporter we wanted to put on trial. True, the officer himself did not shoot this man, but one of the officer's soldiers did indeed, and I felt the officer should bear full responsibility for this breakdown in discipline. I had to fight to make this point, but I'm happy today to report that this man, this friend, is in prison where he belongs."

The Cuban editor, close to Castro since they were boys, says he has had to make certain concessions to popular taste since bringing his crusading paper into town from the hills.

"I've put in a sports section," he said with a slight shudder, "but I'm still holding out against society columns and, of course, police blotter reports. I'm taking advertisements, too, but will remain selective in that field. We need the money, of course, but we don't accept ads which might tend to 'buy' us editorially."

Revolucion is being printed, ironically enough, on a press which once boomed forth a steady paean of praise for Batista and preached damnation for his rebel enemies. The plant is that of the defunct "Alerta," a paper owned personally by the deposed dictator. Franqui hopes to raise enough money by public subscription to buy the property after his friend's government takes it over. It won't be difficult, one would guess.

Civinettes Have Social

Reports on a Christmas candy sale were given at a brief meeting of the Civinette Club, which was held at Central YMCA, with Mrs. Rose Ann Blake presiding. A social hour followed the business session.

Mrs. Edith Trazzo was a guest. Other members present were Mrs. Mary Margaret Rowan, Mrs. Doris Kolb, Mrs. Martha Moore, Mrs. Beuna Moody and Mrs. Catherine Armbruster.

Cresaptown Home Damaged By Fire

The front room of a residence on Winchester Road in Cresaptown was badly damaged by fire Sunday night when a cigaret ignited a sofa.

Assistant Fire Chief Louis Winters of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company, said a neighbor turned in the alarm when he saw flames inside the home of Richard Ullery. No one was home at the time.

Twenty-one members of the fire company went to the home with two trucks. Water was used to douse the blaze. Chief Winters said there was much damage from smoke and the sofa was a total loss. Curtains and the area around the windows of the front room were burned.

Damage was estimated by Chief Winters at several hundred dollars.

Medical Center Proposed For Friendsville Area

FRIENDSVILLE—Possibility that a medical center, planned by citizens of Friendsville and Accident, will be erected here was voiced recently by the committee in charge.

The decision would be based on a recent letter received from the Sears Roebuck Foundation, written by Norman H. Davis, program director for proposed medical centers, wherein he suggested that the citizens of Accident cooperate with citizens of Friendsville in the erection of a medical center consisting of two doctors and a dentist.

The recommendation was made after a "careful analysis of the tabulated survey forms from the Accident and Friendsville areas," Davis said.

The facts favored the community of Friendsville which will be closer to Accident than either Grantsville or Oaklan He said the foundation was dealing with facts, figures and from its vast experience gained from thousands of analyses of similar situations so that it would be proper to respect this decision by keeping in mind the benefits to be derived from the founding of a medical center.

"The citizens of Friendsville proved that they had our interests at heart because through the united efforts of the Rotary Club, spearheaded by Ralph Beachley, they were successful in securing the practice of a competent physician, Dr. Pedro Rivera, who has been residing in Friendsville the past five months.

The tentative dates for the visit of Davis in Friendsville Elementary School are February 9, 16 or 23. All citizens of Accident are welcome to participate in the venture. Rev. H. H. Droutz, of Accident, said a definite announcement of the meeting would be made at a later date. Rev. Droutz remarked that the motive for benevolent support, interest and attendance to the meeting should stem from personal interest in health and welfare of each individual and their children, as well as those of their neighbor. Friendsville is about eight miles from Accident.

Presbyterians To Observe Anniversary

FROSTBURG — First Presbyterian Church will observe the beginning of a second century of service here on May 3.

A committee met recently to prepare the outline for the program which will include social "reunion and re-acquaintance" activities on Saturday, worship and rededication on Sunday morning.

Aside from members of the congregations, all former pastors now living will be invited to share in the program, all nearby Presbyterian pastors will be guests, representatives of Baltimore Presbytery, members of the Ministerium of Frostburg and all local clergy of every faith.

Other events will include tours of the community by bus with a member serving as guide, and on Saturday evening a congregational reunion and dinner.

Committees and chairmen will be announced at a date in the very near future.

Those on the original planning committee included: Mrs. Oren Lemmert, Mrs. James Neilson Jr., Miss Dianne Ewing, David T. Adams, Joseph Evans, Robert W. Jones and Ralph M. Race, who acted as chairman.

W.Va. To Open Bids On Bridges

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission will receive bids Tuesday on three Interstate 64 bridge projects in Cabell and Putnam Counties.

Also to be opened are bids on two Logan County state road projects. Total cost of all five jobs probably will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, the SRC said.

FALLS OFF ROOF

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A 22-year-old Huntington man probably had some extra keys made to his home Monday. Charles Patterson lost his house key Sunday and suffered hand injuries in a fall after climbing to the roof in an attempt to awaken his wife.

New State Park Is Proposed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill was introduced to the State Senate Monday calling for establishment of a state park in Marion County. It was sponsored by Sens. O. H. Hedrick (D-Marion) and Archie L. Reed (R-Preston).

Under the measure, the State Conservation Commission would establish either a state forest or recreational park at Valley Falls, located midway between Fairmont and Grafton.

Myrtle Temple Pythian Sisters Install At Midland

PSC Approves Elkins Sewage Proposals

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Service Commission Monday authorized the city of Elkins to go ahead with $1,000,000 worth of improvements to its sewer system. It also gave the city permission to charge customers a service fee equal to their monthly water bill.

Of the total cost, $250,000 will be put up by the federal government. The remainder will be raised through sale of bonds.

In another action, the PSC authorized the sale of the Vaddis-Hurst Telephone Co. in Lewis County from R. G. Lattes to Roy C. Davission.

The commission also gave permission for a rate increase from $10 to $36 annually. The company serves customers in rural sections of Vaddis, about 15 miles west of Weston.

New Hospital Is Dedicated At Romney

ROMNEY — The Hampshire Memorial Hospital was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon with Rep. Harley O. Staggers, Keyser, (D-2nd W. Va.) making the dedicatory address.

In his closing statement he said, "I pray God that He will consecrate this hospital to its intended use, the healing of mankind."

Prior to the dedicatory address, Rev. Raymond Martin, pastor of the Romney Christian Church, gave the invocation; the flag was raised by members of the local Army Reserve unit, and Ellis Haines, George Herrott and Herber F. Smith, members of the Hampshire Court, unveiled the cornerstone.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Rev. Warren Shields, pastor of the Romney Baptist Church, and the keys to the hospital were presented by Ellis Haines, president of the county court, to John Ailes, president of the hospital board of trustees.

Rev. Ralph T. McCord of the Romney Methodist Church pronounced the benediction. Ralph Haines, county prosecuting attorney, presided.

Following the ceremonies, the open house program was continued. The activities began Friday and throngs of visitors were conducted on guided tours of the new institution.

Some of the remarkable features of the building are the audiology room, where hearing tests and examinations are given. The room is suspended in such a manner as to be a "floating" cubicle, entirely free of vibration.

Floors in the halls and operating rooms are of handlaid title, with each small block perfectly grounded to entirely remove all danger of static electricity.

The inter-communication system connected to each room is so sensitive, that a nurse sitting at her station can turn on the system and even hear a patient breathe in any chosen room.

The 43-bed building is ultra-modern in every respect, and is on a par, from the standpoint of modern features, with any hospital in the nation, officials noted.

Flintstone Cub Pack Has Meeting

FLINTSTONE — Cub Pack Number 90, sponsored by the Flintstone Parent Teachers Association, held its regular monthly meeting last night in the school cafeteria.

The program was centered around the theme for the month, "Cub Scout Newsman." Plans will be made for the pack's participation in the scouting exposition to be held during Boy Scout week in February. Preliminary arrangements will also be made for the first annual birthday dinner and charter presentation for the unit.

Boy Scout No. 90 will hold a Court of Honor in the basement of Flintstone Methodist Church, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. All parents are invited.

Eckhart Chairman Named For Drive

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Rudy Lewis, Eckhart, has been appointed general chairman of the Eckhart and Clarysville area for the March of Dimes campaign, and for the Mothers March which will be held Thursday beginning at 7 p. m. Each resident is asked to have an outside light on during the march.

A benefit dance for the March of Dimes will be held Thursday, from 9 to 12 p. m. at the DAV. The Barry orchestra will provide music for dancing.

Announce Birth

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Housel, Frostburg announced the birth of a daughter yesterday in Miners Hospital.

Reported Ill

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Annie (Carr) Robertson, widow of Benjamin Robertson, formerly of here is seriously ill at her home in Pittsburgh.

House Passes Measures On Juveniles

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A bill passed by the House Monday would make the willful setting of forest fires by youths under 18 subject to the Parental Responsibility Act passed by the 1957 Legislature.

The 1957 act provides that parents may be held liable for up to $300 for acts of vandalism committed by their children. Del. Roy Lee Harmon (D-Raleigh) sponsored the bill to extend the act's provisions to the setting of forest blazes.

It was passed 93-3 by the House and sent to the Senate.

Among four other bills which the House passed and sent to the Senate was one by Del. Hobart Booth Jr. (D-Fayette) to relax the present beer law's restrictions on coin-in-slot phonographs.

The bill would repeal present provisions that juke boxes may not be played between midnight and 7 a. m. weekdays, or between Saturday midnight and 1 p. m. Sunday. Replacing those provisions would be a general prohibition against playing musical instruments in taverns in such a manner as to disturb the community.

The measure also would make it illegal for children under 18 to loiter in taverns unless accompanied by their parents. It already is illegal to sell beer to persons under 18. The vote on the bill was 75-20.

Acolyte Festival Planned At St. George's Church

MT. SAVAGE—The Episcopal churches of Western Maryland will bring their Acolytes together for an Acolyte festival in St. George's Parish Church, Sunday, at 7:30 p. m.

Being the Eve of The Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called The Purification of St. Mary the Virgin, there will be the annual blessing and distribution of candles.

The vested choirs and Acolytes with area clergy will enter the church to the hymn, "Sing of Mary, Pure and Lowly." The service will then open with Evensong, the officiant being, Rev. H. M. P. Davidson, O.G.S., rector of St. John's Church, Frostburg.

The psalm precentor will be, Rev. Willard C. Wilson, rector of St. James' Church, Westernport.

The first lector will be Rev. James D. Mehring, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Oakland.

The second lector will be Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar of St. Peter's Church, Lonaconing.

The preacher will be Rev. William Cox, vicar of Holy Cross Chapel and of St. Philip's Chapel, Cumberland.

The celebrant at the Solemn Ceremony of the Blessing of Candles will be Rev. Robert L. Leather, assistant at Emmanuel Church, Cumberland.

The deacon will be the Rev. Lawrence Crawford Butler, rector of St. George's Church, Mt. Savage.

Master of ceremonies will be Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Church, Cumberland.

Refreshments will be served in the dining room of the parish house by the Young People's Fellowship, and St. Vincent's Acolyte Guild of St. George's.

ENDS TRAINING — Airman Orvin R. Wagoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Wagoner of Fort Ashby, W. Va., has completed his initial training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. He was selected to attend a technical training school for Aircraft and Missile Maintenance at Chanute Air Force Base, Illinoise. The young airman is a graduate of Fort Ashby High School and studied forestry at Potomac State College.

Bishop J. G. Howard To Speak At Keyser

KEYSER—Dr. J. Gordon Howard, bishop of East Central area of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, is to be the guest speaker for the Pre-Lenten Preaching mission in Keyser.

Services will be held Tuesday and Thursday, February 3 and 5 at the Church of the Brethren, South Main Street, under the sponsorship of the Keyser Ministerium.

Bishop Howard was president of Otterbein College before assuming his present duties. He has been active in denomination youth work and is in wide demand as a speaker.

GETS CONTRACT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission has awarded a four-year contract to Grover S. Finney to operate the Mont Chateau Lodge restaurant near Morgantown. Finney, head chef at the resort, had operated the restaurant since capital Catering Inc., Charleston, canceled its contract earlier this month.

Medical Center Proposed For Friendsville Area

FRIENDSVILLE—Possibility that a medical center, planned by citizens of Friendsville and Accident, will be erected here was voiced recently by the committee in charge.

The decision would be based on a recent letter received from the Sears Roebuck Foundation, written by Norman H. Davis, program director for proposed medical centers, wherein he suggested that the citizens of Accident cooperate with citizens of Friendsville in the erection of a medical center consisting of two doctors and a dentist.

The recommendation was made after a "careful analysis of the tabulated survey forms from the Accident and Friendsville areas," Davis said.

The facts favored the community of Friendsville which will be closer to Accident than either Grantsville or Oaklan He said the foundation was dealing with facts, figures and from its vast experience gained from thousands of analyses of similar situations so that it would be proper to respect this decision by keeping in mind the benefits to be derived from the founding of a medical center.

"The citizens of Friendsville proved that they had our interests at heart because through the united efforts of the Rotary Club, spearheaded by Ralph Beachley, they were successful in securing the practice of a competent physician, Dr. Pedro Rivera, who has been residing in Friendsville the past five months.

The tentative dates for the visit of Davis in Friendsville Elementary School are February 9, 16 or 23. All citizens of Accident are welcome to participate in the venture. Rev. H. H. Droutz, of Accident, said a definite announcement of the meeting would be made at a later date. Rev. Droutz remarked that the motive for benevolent support, interest and attendance to the meeting should stem from personal interest in health and welfare of each individual and their children, as well as those of their neighbor. Friendsville is about eight miles from Accident.

Presbyterians To Observe Anniversary

FROSTBURG — First Presbyterian Church will observe the beginning of a second century of service here on May 3.

A committee met recently to prepare the outline for the program which will include social "reunion and re-acquaintance" activities on Saturday, worship and rededication on Sunday morning.

Aside from members of the congregations, all former pastors now living will be invited to share in the program, all nearby Presbyterian pastors will be guests, representatives of Baltimore Presbytery, members of the Ministerium of Frostburg and all local clergy of every faith.

Other events will include tours of the community by bus with a member serving as guide, and on Saturday evening a congregational reunion and dinner.

Committees and chairmen will be announced at a date in the very near future.

W.Va. To Open Bids On Bridges

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission will receive bids Tuesday on three Interstate 64 bridge projects in Cabell and Putnam Counties.

Also to be opened are bids on two Logan County state road projects. Total cost of all five jobs probably will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, the SRC said.

FALLS OFF ROOF

PSC Approves Elkins Sewage Proposals

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Public Service Commission Monday authorized the city of Elkins to go ahead with $1,000,000 worth of improvements to its sewer system. It also gave the city permission to charge customers a service fee equal to their monthly water bill.

Of the total cost, $250,000 will be put up by the federal government. The remainder will be raised through sale of bonds.

In another action, the PSC authorized the sale of the Vaddis-Hurst Telephone Co. in Lewis County from R. G. Lattes to Roy C. Davission.

The commission also gave permission for a rate increase from $10 to $36 annually. The company serves customers in rural sections of Vaddis, about 15 miles west of Weston.

New State Park Is Proposed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill was introduced to the State Senate Monday calling for establishment of a state park in Marion County. It was sponsored by Sens. O. H. Hedrick (D-Marion) and Archie L. Reed (R-Preston).

Under the measure, the State Conservation Commission would establish either a state forest or recreational park at Valley Falls, located midway between Fairmont and Grafton.

New Hospital Is Dedicated At Romney

ROMNEY — The Hampshire Memorial Hospital was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon with Rep. Harley O. Staggers, Keyser, (D-2nd W. Va.) making the dedicatory address.

In his closing statement he said, "I pray God that He will consecrate this hospital to its intended use, the healing of mankind."

Prior to the dedicatory address, Rev. Raymond Martin, pastor of the Romney Christian Church, gave the invocation; the flag was raised by members of the local Army Reserve unit, and Ellis Haines, George Herrott and Herber F. Smith, members of the Hampshire Court, unveiled the cornerstone.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Rev. Warren Shields, pastor of the Romney Baptist Church, and the keys to the hospital were presented by Ellis Haines, president of the county court, to John Ailes, president of the hospital board of trustees.

Rev. Ralph T. McCord of the Romney Methodist Church pronounced the benediction. Ralph Haines, county prosecuting attorney, presided.

Following the ceremonies, the open house program was continued. The activities began Friday and throngs of visitors were conducted on guided tours of the new institution.

Some of the remarkable features of the building are the audiology room, where hearing tests and examinations are given. The room is suspended in such a manner as to be a "floating" cubicle, entirely free of vibration.

Floors in the halls and operating rooms are of handlaid title, with each small block perfectly grounded to entirely remove all danger of static electricity.

The inter-communication system connected to each room is so sensitive, that a nurse sitting at her station can turn on the system and even hear a patient breathe in any chosen room.

The 43-bed building is ultra-modern in every respect, and is on a par, from the standpoint of modern features, with any hospital in the nation, officials noted.

House Passes Measures On Juveniles

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A bill passed by the House Monday would make the willful setting of forest fires by youths under 18 subject to the Parental Responsibility Act passed by the 1957 Legislature.

The 1957 act provides that parents may be held liable for up to $300 for acts of vandalism committed by their children. Del. Roy Lee Harmon (D-Raleigh) sponsored the bill to extend the act's provisions to the setting of forest blazes.

It was passed 93-3 by the House and sent to the Senate.

Among four other bills which the House passed and sent to the Senate was one by Del. Hobart Booth Jr. (D-Fayette) to relax the present beer law's restrictions on coin-in-slot phonographs.

The bill would repeal present provisions that juke boxes may not be played between midnight and 7 a. m. weekdays, or between Saturday midnight and 1 p. m. Sunday. Replacing those provisions would be a general prohibition against playing musical instruments in taverns in such a manner as to disturb the community.

The measure also would make it illegal for children under 18 to loiter in taverns unless accompanied by their parents. It already is illegal to sell beer to persons under 18. The vote on the bill was 75-20.

Flintstone Cub Pack Has Meeting

FLINTSTONE — Cub Pack Number 90, sponsored by the Flintstone Parent Teachers Association, held its regular monthly meeting last night in the school cafeteria.

The program was centered around the theme for the month, "Cub Scout Newsman." Plans will be made for the pack's participation in the scouting exposition to be held during Boy Scout week in February. Preliminary arrangements will also be made for the first annual birthday dinner and charter presentation for the unit.

Boy Scout No. 90 will hold a Court of Honor in the basement of Flintstone Methodist Church, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. All parents are invited.

Acolyte Festival Planned At St. George's Church

MT. SAVAGE—The Episcopal churches of Western Maryland will bring their Acolytes together for an Acolyte festival in St. George's Parish Church, Sunday, at 7:30 p. m.

Being the Eve of The Feast of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, commonly called The Purification of St. Mary the Virgin, there will be the annual blessing and distribution of candles.

The vested choirs and Acolytes with area clergy will enter the church to the hymn, "Sing of Mary, Pure and Lowly." The service will then open with Evensong, the officiant being, Rev. H. M. P. Davidson, O.G.S., rector of St. John's Church, Frostburg.

The psalm precentor will be, Rev. Willard C. Wilson, rector of St. James' Church, Westernport.

The first lector will be Rev. James D. Mehring, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Oakland.

The second lector will be Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar of St. Peter's Church, Lonaconing.

The preacher will be Rev. William Cox, vicar of Holy Cross Chapel and of St. Philip's Chapel, Cumberland.

The celebrant at the Solemn Ceremony of the Blessing of Candles will be Rev. Robert L. Leather, assistant at Emmanuel Church, Cumberland.

The deacon will be the Rev. Lawrence Crawford Butler, rector of St. George's Church, Mt. Savage.

Master of ceremonies will be Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Church, Cumberland.

Refreshments will be served in the dining room of the parish house by the Young People's Fellowship, and St. Vincent's Acolyte Guild of St. George's.

ENDS TRAINING — Airman Orvin R. Wagoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Wagoner of Fort Ashby, W. Va., has completed his initial training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. He was selected to attend a technical training school for Aircraft and Missile Maintenance at Chanute Air Force Base, Illinoise. The young airman is a graduate of Fort Ashby High School and studied forestry at Potomac State College.

Bishop J. G. Howard To Speak At Keyser

KEYSER—Dr. J. Gordon Howard, bishop of East Central area of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, is to be the guest speaker for the Pre-Lenten Preaching mission in Keyser.

Services will be held Tuesday and Thursday, February 3 and 5 at the Church of the Brethren, South Main Street, under the sponsorship of the Keyser Ministerium.

Bishop Howard was president of Otterbein College before assuming his present duties. He has been active in denomination youth work and is in wide demand as a speaker.

GETS CONTRACT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission has awarded a four-year contract to Grover S. Finney to operate the Mont Chateau Lodge restaurant near Morgantown. Finney, head chef at the resort, had operated the restaurant since capital Catering Inc., Charleston, canceled its contract earlier this month.

Program Set For Poultry Session Feb. 18

The program of the poultrymen's meeting which will be held on Wednesday, February 18, at the LaVale Fire Hall was announced yesterday by Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent.

The all-day meet will open at 9:30 a.m. with Russell C. Hawes, supervisor of the Maryland Egg Grading Law, as guest speaker. Maryland Egg Laws, their objectives, enforcement and consumer education will be discussed. Egg grading, sizing and a candling demonstration will be included in his talk.

At 10:15 a.m. "Trends in Mechanization of Poultry Farms," will be discussed by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland. The discussion will include slides on the subject.

Dr. H. M. Devolt, poultry pathologist, Maryland Livestock Sanitary Service Laboratory, will speak on "Recent Development in the Control of Coccidiosis of Poultry." His talk, slated to begin at 11 a.m. will be a discussion on various methods of coccidiosis control.

During a lunch at 12 noon those in attendance at the meeting will be guests of the Allegany County feed dealers. "Buying Pullets vs Raising Your Own," will be the subject of a talk at 1 p.m. by Dr. C. S. Shaffner, head of the poultry department of the university.

At 1:45 p.m. "Common Poultry Problems and Their Solution in the Allegany Area as a Serviceman Sees Them," will be discussed by Phil Hassinger, of Eshelman and Sons Feed Company.

Closing the program will be a question-answer period with W. H. Rice as moderator. All the guest speakers will participate in a panel discussion.

Duke Class To Observe Anniversary

Officers of the Duke Memorial Bible Class will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA to complete plans for observing the 50th anniversary of the organization.

The well known Bible class was organized on March 9, 1909, by the late Dr. Edgar T. Duke and held its early meetings in First Presbyterian Church here.

Attending the meeting will be the newly elected officers of the class. They include:

George H. Tederick, president; Scott Oster, first vice president; George McLaughlin, second vice president; J. Walter McKee, secretary; Clarence Barnhart, assistant secretary, and E. V. Oster, treasurer.

Standing committees for the class will be appointed by Mr. Tederick at Thursday's meeting.

The Bible class meets each Sunday from 9:45 to 10:45 a. m. in Central YMCA and has an average attendance of 46.

Dixettes Invited To Audition Today

The Dixettes, a chorus line of 12 young dancers who have appeared at many benefits and before many club and organization entertainments here, has been invited to audition for the Ted Mack Amateur Hour.

The Dixettes, accompanied by their teacher, Miss Verlys Dixon McPartland, will leave this morning for Baltimore to audition at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Auditions are being held for amateurs from this area at the Hill Top Theatre School in Baltimore today and tomorrow.

The group includes Kay Trost of Lonaconing, Carolyn Sue Luman, Kay Carder, Janet Heming, Carol Aldridge, Mary Ann Painter, Sue Marie Collins, Gloria Bridges, Pat Robertson, Mary Jo Garlitz, Diana Wendt and Billie Jane Atkinson.

City Collects 78.3 Per Cent Of Its Levy

Spending Lags As Half-Year Ends

The City of Cumberland had collected 92.39 per cent of its tax levy and 78.30 per cent of its total levy as the first half of the current fiscal year ended December 31.

Spent for city services at the halfway mark was 45.75 per cent of appropriations, according to a report on the Condition of the Levy, presented to the Mayor and Council yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

Similar reports are issued each month to provide city officials and departments with current information on the city's income and spending.

Collections from all sources totaled $1,491,634.63, or 78.3 per cent of the levy of $1,905,120. This leaves $414,886.46 to come in from the levy.

One income source, the City Scales, showed excess collections of $1,401.09. Only $1,000 was levied as expected income from weights.

Fines Run Ahead

Police fines were also running ahead of schedule. The city levied $18,000 for the year's income from police fines, and the half-year income was $12,201.45.

Income from Sewer Service Charges totaled $135,251, some $10,000 more than expected at the halfway mark.

Collections on the $1,220,190 tax levy totaled $1,127,318.47, or 92.39 of the entire tax levy. This leaves $92,871.53 yet to come in to meet the tax levy.

Prospects appear good for getting all of the tax levy and with luck a bit more. The City has issued bills for some $316,000 of corporation taxes, about $20,000 more than the amount levied.

The above sum may appear as surplus at the end of the year or, if not, will help compensate for loss of tax income from properties taken off the tax books.

Spending for city services totaled $714,286.30, or 45.75 per cent of the $1,561,144.25 appropriated.

This leaves $846,857.95 to operate city departments until June 30.

Most departments appeared to be keeping well within their budgets.

The Fire Department, with a $261,200 budget, had spent $127,535.25, about $3,000 below par for the halfway mark.

Mr. Gibson also presented a report on receipts and disbursements for the quarter ending December 31.

This report will be printed in advertisements as required by the City Code.

Dismissed City

received a report of a disturbance at the South End address. Officer Frank Bohn was sent to the address in a cruiser to check on the report. He said that he spotted Officer Mason driving in his private car.

Police said Mason was chased through South End and headed toward Wiley Ford where he eluded police. A pickup was issued for his arrest and he was nabbed by State Police near Hancock.

Authorities took Mason to the State's Attorney's office yesterday where he was fingerprinted and returned to the City Jail.

Police Stop In City With Murder Suspect

Frederick County authorities stopped over in Cumberland last night for several hours before resuming their return trip from Las Vegas, Nev., with murder-suspect Larry Lord Motherwell.

The 42-year-old construction worker who was arrested in Nevada on January 18 in connection with the death of his 14-month-old abnormal baby said he had visited Cumberland previously as a representative of a firm which bid on work at the then new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant.

Motherwell was being escorted by Chief of Police Charles V. Mains, Sheriff Horace Alexander and Detective Lt. Norman Dietz, who said they had been traveling since last Thursday when they left Nevada for the return trip.

After stopping here at the LaVale barracks of the State Police, where they were met by Lt. W. E. O'Hara the group ate at a local restaurant before continuing to Frederick where they were to have arrived late last night.

Carpenters Council Meeting Deferred

A meeting of the Maryland State Council of Carpenters, scheduled January 30, has been postponed until February 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Hagerstown.

F. Patrick Allender, president, said the meeting was deferred so interested members could attend a special meeting of the West Virginia State Council of Carpenters in Parkersburg January 31, when a proposed Highway and Heavy Construction contract will be discussed.

Howard Myers' Father Dies

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —James C. Myers, 86, father of State Senate Clerk J. Howard Myers, died Monday at Williamsport (Md.) Sanitarium where he had been a patient since last March.

Myers was a native and lifelong resident of Berkeley County, operating a farm in the Opequon District northeast of here until his retirement some 10 years ago.

His son, Howard, has been clerk of the Senate since 1945. He was Democratic state chairman from 1953 to 1956 when he ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The elder Myer's only survivors are his widow, Lillie, also a patient at the Williamsport Sanitarium, and his son Howard.

Physician 'Good'

Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, local radiologist, was reported in "good" condition last night at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday after becoming ill.

Just Observer

Elmer O'Neal, Route 36, yesterday said he did not attend Friday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners on a road complaint as reported in local papers, but was merely an observer.

Legion Meet Tonight

An executive board meeting of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the post home in Ridgeley.

Methodist Men Plan Program

The Methodist Men of Centre Street Methodist will hold their annual ladies night, installation of officers and anniversary celebration starting with a dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at the church.

Donald L. Keefauver, president, will serve as toastmaster and Donald G. Paulman, lay leader, will install the officers. They include Doyle W. Andrews, president; Robert Hill, vice president; Ernest Lindsay, secretary; Harry B. Williams, treasurer and Floyd Hebb, reporter.

Rev. Carlton M. Harris, pastor, will give the invocation, and the dinner will be served by Mrs. James Leader's WSCS Circle.

Dean Hancox will provide piano music and devotions will be led by Lester Heinrich. Special musical selections will be provided by Elizabeth Murray and Carol Bean.

James C. Duff, program chairman, will introduce Mrs. Harriett Falkenstine, representing the American Petroleum Institute of Maryland, who will speak on "The Magic Suitcase." The program will be concluded with benediction by James Hosack.

Need For Resident Physician Discussed

A number of mutual problems were discussed at a joint meeting of the Board of Governors of Memorial Hospital and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland yesterday.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said it was a "very satisfactory" meeting.

Program Set For Poultry Session Feb. 18

The program of the poultrymen's meeting which will be held on Wednesday, February 18, at the LaVale Fire Hall was announced yesterday by Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent.

The all-day meet will open at 9:30 a.m. with Russell C. Hawes, supervisor of the Maryland Egg Grading Law, as guest speaker. Maryland Egg Laws, their objectives, enforcement and consumer education will be discussed. Egg grading, sizing and a candling demonstration will be included in his talk.

At 10:15 a.m. "Trends in Mechanization of Poultry Farms," will be discussed by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland. The discussion will include slides on the subject.

Dr. H. M. Devolt, poultry pathologist, Maryland Livestock Sanitary Service Laboratory, will speak on "Recent Development in the Control of Coccidiosis of Poultry." His talk, slated to begin at 11 a.m. will be a discussion on various methods of coccidiosis control.

During a lunch at 12 noon those in attendance at the meeting will be guests of the Allegany County feed dealers. "Buying Pullets vs Raising Your Own," will be the subject of a talk at 1 p.m. by Dr. C. S. Shaffner, head of the poultry department of the university.

At 1:45 p.m. "Common Poultry Problems and Their Solution in the Allegany Area as a Serviceman Sees Them," will be discussed by Phil Hassinger, of Eshelman and Sons Feed Company.

Closing the program will be a question-answer period with W. H. Rice as moderator. All the guest speakers will participate in a panel discussion.

Duke Class To Observe Anniversary

Officers of the Duke Memorial Bible Class will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA to complete plans for observing the 50th anniversary of the organization.

The well known Bible class was organized on March 9, 1909, by the late Dr. Edgar T. Duke and held its early meetings in First Presbyterian Church here.

Attending the meeting will be the newly elected officers of the class. They include:

George H. Tederick, president; Scott Oster, first vice president; George McLaughlin, second vice president; J. Walter McKee, secretary; Clarence Barnhart, assistant secretary, and E. V. Oster, treasurer.

Standing committees for the class will be appointed by Mr. Tederick at Thursday's meeting.

The Bible class meets each Sunday from 9:45 to 10:45 a. m. in Central YMCA and has an average attendance of 46.

Dixettes Invited To Audition Today

The Dixettes, a chorus line of 12 young dancers who have appeared at many benefits and before many club and organization entertainments here, has been invited to audition for the Ted Mack Amateur Hour.

The Dixettes, accompanied by their teacher, Miss Verlys Dixon McPartland, will leave this morning for Baltimore to audition at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Auditions are being held for amateurs from this area at the Hill Top Theatre School in Baltimore today and tomorrow.

The group includes Kay Trost of Lonaconing, Carolyn Sue Luman, Kay Carder, Janet Heming, Carol Aldridge, Mary Ann Painter, Sue Marie Collins, Gloria Bridges, Pat Robertson, Mary Jo Garlitz, Diana Wendt and Billie Jane Atkinson.

City Collects 78.3 Per Cent Of Its Levy

Spending Lags As Half-Year Ends

The City of Cumberland had collected 92.39 per cent of its tax levy and 78.30 per cent of its total levy as the first half of the current fiscal year ended December 31.

Spent for city services at the halfway mark was 45.75 per cent of appropriations, according to a report on the Condition of the Levy, presented to the Mayor and Council yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

Similar reports are issued each month to provide city officials and departments with current information on the city's income and spending.

Collections from all sources totaled $1,491,634.63, or 78.3 per cent of the levy of $1,905,120. This leaves $414,886.46 to come in from the levy.

Fines Run Ahead

Police fines were also running ahead of schedule. The city levied $18,000 for the year's income from police fines, and the half-year income was $12,201.45.

Income from Sewer Service Charges totaled $135,251, some $10,000 more than expected at the halfway mark.

Collections on the $1,220,190 tax levy totaled $1,127,318.47, or 92.39 of the entire tax levy. This leaves $92,871.53 yet to come in to meet the tax levy.

Prospects appear good for getting all of the tax levy and with luck a bit more. The City has issued bills for some $316,000 of corporation taxes, about $20,000 more than the amount levied.

The above sum may appear as surplus at the end of the year or, if not, will help compensate for loss of tax income from properties taken off the tax books.

Spending for city services totaled $714,286.30, or 45.75 per cent of the $1,561,144.25 appropriated.

This leaves $846,857.95 to operate city departments until June 30.

Most departments appeared to be keeping well within their budgets.

The Fire Department, with a $261,200 budget, had spent $127,535.25, about $3,000 below par for the halfway mark.

Mr. Gibson also presented a report on receipts and disbursements for the quarter ending December 31.

This report will be printed in advertisements as required by the City Code.

Dismissed City

received a report of a disturbance at the South End address. Officer Frank Bohn was sent to the address in a cruiser to check on the report. He said that he spotted Officer Mason driving in his private car.

Police said Mason was chased through South End and headed toward Wiley Ford where he eluded police. A pickup was issued for his arrest and he was nabbed by State Police near Hancock.

Authorities took Mason to the State's Attorney's office yesterday where he was fingerprinted and returned to the City Jail.

Police Stop In City With Murder Suspect

Frederick County authorities stopped over in Cumberland last night for several hours before resuming their return trip from Las Vegas, Nev., with murder-suspect Larry Lord Motherwell.

The 42-year-old construction worker who was arrested in Nevada on January 18 in connection with the death of his 14-month-old abnormal baby said he had visited Cumberland previously as a representative of a firm which bid on work at the then new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant.

Motherwell was being escorted by Chief of Police Charles V. Mains, Sheriff Horace Alexander and Detective Lt. Norman Dietz, who said they had been traveling since last Thursday when they left Nevada for the return trip.

After stopping here at the LaVale barracks of the State Police, where they were met by Lt. W. E. O'Hara the group ate at a local restaurant before continuing to Frederick where they were to have arrived late last night.

Carpenters Council Meeting Deferred

A meeting of the Maryland State Council of Carpenters, scheduled January 30, has been postponed until February 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Hagerstown.

F. Patrick Allender, president, said the meeting was deferred so interested members could attend a special meeting of the West Virginia State Council of Carpenters in Parkersburg January 31, when a proposed Highway and Heavy Construction contract will be discussed.

Howard Myers' Father Dies

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —James C. Myers, 86, father of State Senate Clerk J. Howard Myers, died Monday at Williamsport (Md.) Sanitarium where he had been a patient since last March.

Myers was a native and lifelong resident of Berkeley County, operating a farm in the Opequon District northeast of here until his retirement some 10 years ago.

His son, Howard, has been clerk of the Senate since 1945. He was Democratic state chairman from 1953 to 1956 when he ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The elder Myer's only survivors are his widow, Lillie, also a patient at the Williamsport Sanitarium, and his son Howard.

Physician 'Good'

Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, local radiologist, was reported in "good" condition last night at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday after becoming ill.

Elmer O'Neal, Route 36, yesterday said he did not attend Friday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners on a road complaint as reported in local papers, but was merely an observer.

Legion Meet Tonight

An executive board meeting of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the post home in Ridgeley.

Methodist Men Plan Program

The Methodist Men of Centre Street Methodist will hold their annual ladies night, installation of officers and anniversary celebration starting with a dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at the church.

Donald L. Keefauver, president, will serve as toastmaster and Donald G. Paulman, lay leader, will install the officers. They include Doyle W. Andrews, president; Robert Hill, vice president; Ernest Lindsay, secretary; Harry B. Williams, treasurer and Floyd Hebb, reporter.

Rev. Carlton M. Harris, pastor, will give the invocation, and the dinner will be served by Mrs. James Leader's WSCS Circle.

Dean Hancox will provide piano music and devotions will be led by Lester Heinrich. Special musical selections will be provided by Elizabeth Murray and Carol Bean.

James C. Duff, program chairman, will introduce Mrs. Harriett Falkenstine, representing the American Petroleum Institute of Maryland, who will speak on "The Magic Suitcase." The program will be concluded with benediction by James Hosack.

Need For Resident Physician Discussed

A number of mutual problems were discussed at a joint meeting of the Board of Governors of Memorial Hospital and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland yesterday.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said it was a "very satisfactory" meeting.

• Challenge Of The Russian Congress

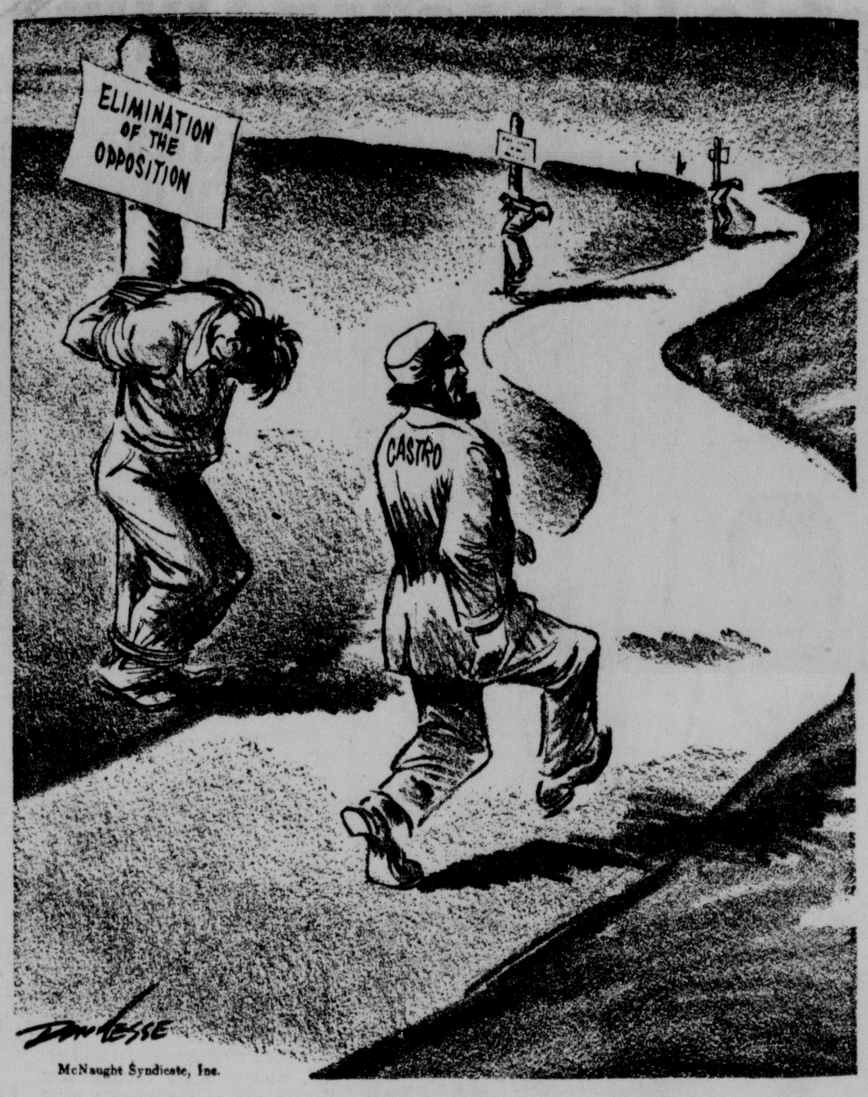

When the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party convenes in Moscow today, one of its exercises will be to rubberstamp the new seven-year economic plan "proposed" last November by Premier Khrushchev. The plan calls for an increase of 80 per cent in industrial output by 1965: it is represented as the last big push in the drive to overtake the United States.

Probably, no delegate to the Congress will ask embarrassing questions about what went wrong with the five-year plan adopted with such fanfare at the party Congress of 1956 and scheduled to remain in effect until 1961. As nearly as Western experts can determine, that plan fell on its face and had to be withdrawn. The new plan looks like a cover-up for a program that proved impossible of achievement.

The 1956 plan was adopted in February and before the year was out the party's Central Committee was complaining of the strains imposed by its ambitious goals. Returned for overhaul, it re-emerged as a scheme to shift control over some 200,000 industrial enterprises from Moscow ministries to about 90 regional councils. Later the five-year plan was shortened to three years, with Khrushchev's decentralization plan appended to it.

Unnoticed in the flood of propaganda claims of progress in overtaking the United States is the fact that industrial production goals set by the new seven-year plan are 15 to 20 per cent below what they would have been if the growth rates of the previous plan had been taken as its base. It is just as well to remember, however, that the scheduled accomplishments are only part of the plan's design. In part its purpose is to exhort, to inspire, to make pictures the world can admire. On that score the new seven-year plan, with its vision of the Socialist Promised Land, offers a formidable challenge to the West.

Secretary Mitchell Pressures GOP Solons Out Of Backing Labor Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Spurning appeals for a bipartisan labor reform bill, Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell brought pressure on Republican Senators behind the scenes to keep their names off the bill introduced last week by Senators Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sam Ervin of North Carolina, both Democrats.

Earlier, Kennedy had invited Mitchell to cooperate in writing a labor reform bill that would keep it out of politics. Back from the Secretary came this blunt ultimatum: "There will be no moratorium on politics."

Caught in the middle was Sen. John Cooper, Kentucky Republican, who had already promised to join Kennedy in sponsoring the bill. Sen. Clifford Case, New Jersey Republican, had also expressed interest in it.

Then Mitchell stepped in. He high-pressured the gentle Cooper, sent an emissary around to see Case. Both bowed to the political ultimatum from the Labor Department.

Cooper explained apologetically that he was still free to vote for the Kennedy bill. Case suggested that the bill be stripped of everything but anti-racketeering reforms. Amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law should be handled in separate legislation, he said.

The tousle-haired Senator from Massachusetts hustled up a southern Democrat to co-sponsor the bill. They introduced virtually the same bill that passed the Senate last year 88 to 1.

The lone Senator who voted against it, Nevada's right-wing George Malone, was defeated for re-election. But it will encounter more GOP obstacles this year, rolled in its path by no less than the Secretary of Labor.

Lonely "Mr. Congresswoman"

There's been a lot of talk through the years about women's rights, very little about the rights of a Congresswoman's husband. However, this problem is always difficult. He faces the prospect of staying home, which is lonesome; or coming to Washington to help around his wife's office, in which case he feels awkward, out of place, and is sometimes accused of nepotism.

Nevertheless, women have their place in Congress, and that place should not be reserved solely for widows and spinsters. The only two women who have served for any length of time in the Senate, it is true, have been widows — Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas—both distinguished additions to the Senate. But married women certainly should not be barred simply because their husbands would be unhappy in Washington.

It's with this background in mind that you have to view the case of the most controversial husband ever to have a wife in Congress — Andy Knutson of Minnesota. His wife Coya has just been defeated — largely thanks to a lonesome Andy.

Mrs. Knutson was a fine member of Congress. She came to Washington, a rather plain-looking housewife, her hair drawn back in a knot. But it wasn't long before she had found her way to a beauty parlor and the charms of a permanent.

Meanwhile Andy was left out in the cold. Coya didn't mean to leave him out. But Congress is a busy place, Washington a busy city. So Andy fell into the hands of his wife's enemies.

Andy Knutson has now written this reporter a letter which spells out some of his anguish, some of his regrets. It's a human document about a human situation. The essential portions are printed herewith:

Twenty Cigars A Day

"The way everyone had me all stirred up last summer, I got pretty sore at you. But I guess that now that the facts are out, you were right about a lot of things you said.

"I told my son Terry that you weren't so far off when you said I smoked twenty cigars a day. Some days I even smoke twenty-five.

"If you ever write anything about me in the future don't make it too rough on me. I know that I caused Coya a lot of trouble, and I'm really sorry, but the things those people kept telling me got me all worked up so I couldn't even see straight. Then that guy from the press club told me to get Fitzgerald as my lawyer, and that is when the fireworks really started. I really got roped in with that guy.

"The more I think about some of the dirty mean things they spread about my wife just to get her beat in the election, the sicker I feel. I hope one day everybody will know the truth behind all this.

Told The Truth

"When the committee told me I had to get in front of them and tell them what I knew or else they would subpoena me, I had to tell the truth. I did the best I could. Nobody likes to be a squealer. If those people done nothing crooked they have nothing to be worried about. My mother always told me the truth never hurt nobody. I always loved Coya. I didn't want to hurt her. A lot of people got hurt in all of this and I don't think the people who beat Coya in the election are going to sleep so good any more. I guess that was the dirtiest campaign in the history of the U.S.

Come To Minnesota

"A fellow hates to admit it when something bad is said about him. I don't know how you find out some of the things you do for your newspaper column, but maybe since you are so good, you can do some checking up in the 9th District in Minnesota. I bet you will find out plenty.

"If you come up to Oklee you can have a room in Andy's Hotel free of charge. Oklee is not too far from Fasston and Bagley. I'm sure you'll find me sober.

"I hope when I get back to Oklee people will let me alone. The people in Oklee know both Coya and me, and they know that Coya is a good woman. Oklee went for Coya in the election. I don't think anybody in Oklee will believe any more lies about Coya. I hope she gets back to Congress some day. This here is one letter I wrote myself.

Some Kremlinology And The Party Congress

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Some vividly, even painfully interesting questions are due to be answered very shortly, at the scheduled 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

If Anastas Mikoyan makes a report to the Congress, for instance, it will prove the good judgment or the smug complacency of the Administration's claim that Mikoyan was much impressed by our firmness and resolution about Berlin. Much more important, the foreign affairs speeches at the party Congress will also show whether Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other Administration leaders have been remarkably wise or exceptionally foolish in their reading of the Kremlin's present attitude towards Berlin.

The official assessment is that Nikita Khrushchev and the other masters of the Kremlin now think they have "gone too far" in their threats to Berlin, and consequently "want to get off the hook." The rightness or wrongness of this official Washington assessment is, almost literally, a life-and-death matter. Hence one greatly wants to see whether the assessment will be happily confirmed or grimly contradicted by the language used about Berlin at the Congress in Moscow.

The test will have another sort of interest, too. It will help to indicate whether it is better to accept Secretary Dulles's largely instinctive judgment of the Soviets, or the carefully trained judgments of the Soviet experts who have spent many years in the business. Even those experts who have not been exiled from the State Department take a vastly darker view of the Berlin crisis than Secretary Dulles. One of them spoke for all of the rest when he described the Berlin challenge as "the most dangerous since the end of the second World War."

As for George F. Kennan, the leading exiled expert, he makes his colleagues who are still on the job look almost merry and bright. It is Kennan's thesis, in brief, that Soviet leaders do not use such language as Khrushchev has used about Berlin without carefully weighing every word of it, and meaning every word of it. As Kennan takes what Khrushchev has said quite literally, he further believes that the Kremlin leaders are probably quite ready to risk a war — maybe even a big war — for Berlin.

Kennan agrees with Secretary Dulles that Mikoyan was sent over here because of the Berlin crisis. But on the basis of the presently revealed record of the Mikoyan visit Kennan doubts whether anything sufficiently imaginative was done or said during the visit to change the course of the crisis in any way. Hence he has a foreboding that the party Congress will show an actual hardening of the Soviet attitude towards Berlin, instead of the softening anticipated by Secretary Dulles.

Kennan goes further than this, moreover. Recent events have led him to conclude that in the matter of Berlin, as in other matters, Nikita Khrushchev is acting under severe pressure from dissident Stalinist or neo-Stalinist groups in the Soviet Communist party. He suspects that the Chinese Communist leaders are supporting these dissidents, and so helping to force Khrushchev into a harder line than he might choose of his own free will.

This may seem curious after the recent publication of the transcript of the meeting of the Communist Party Central Committee, which showed committee members speaking of Khrushchev in the same terms that used to be reserved for Josef Stalin himself. But in the first place, the mere publication of the transcript was an extraordinary event, seemingly aimed to warn off any potential challenger of Khrushchev's authority.

Secondly, Kennan lays special emphasis, not on the wretched old Bulganin's grovelling "self-criticism" before the Central Committee, but on the non-appearance of Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich, and Shepilov. They ought to have been there to outgrovel Bulganin, says Kennan, yet they were able to stay away somehow. The strange episode of the Soviet proposal of Molotov as Ambassador to the Netherlands is another detail in the same pattern; for The Hague is vastly farther from Peking and Moscow than Ulan Bator is.

Finally, the famous transcript itself described Molotov and Kaganovich as "terrorizing" the staff of the Ministry of Agriculture at the time of Khrushchev's bold abolition of the rural motor tractor stations. In other words, the transcript showed Molotov and Kaganovich still acting as open, influential oppositionists, many months after their seemingly decisive defeat and fall from power.

For these and other causes, many Soviet experts expect the Party Congress to produce further severe disciplinary action against the members of the famous "anti-party group." If there is no such action after the recent renewal of the drumfire of attack on these men, it will plainly suggest that Khrushchev's mastery is distinctly incomplete. In short, there are almost too many reasons to watch for the results of the coming Party Congress with most anxious attention.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Assault On Privacy

Months ago, I read an article by Anthony Harrigan of the "Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier" on surrender of privacy which was both true and interesting. He wrote:

". . . The radio and television, the giant metropolitan newspapers which consider all human experience their province, the nationally-syndicated columns, the mass circulation magazines that emphasize 'inside' news of people, industry and government-inspired questionnaires and polls that probe areas of life considered private not long ago, credit bureaus and private detective organizations, wiretappers and security personnel reports—all these institutions, inventions, and developments have been employed in an assault on the walls raised to shield citizens from the public gaze."

And now we have this extraordinary picture of C.B.S. putting on a show to describe the doings of the urban creature generally referred to as the "Call Girl." Edward R. Murrow, who reads broadcasts for Columbia, was the narrator, which in radio and television parlance usually means that the script was prepared in the word factory of this network by a team of often anonymous and sometimes accredited researchers and writers.

The sum and substance of the broadcast was that vice is a business, well-organized, efficiently managed and designed to get business for companies which employ ladies of the night for the purpose. As show business this broadcast may have had some value, just as a strip-tease has value for the vulgar. As an accurate presentation of data, I doubt whether much stated on that broadcast could be established in a court of law.

"Call Girls" are women, ranging from the age of perhaps 17 to 40 or so, who make themselves available to meandering men for a consideration, ranging from $50 a visit upwards to a diamond or a mink.

Some "Call Girls" are prostitutes: some are conversationalists who keep an old man from falling asleep over his soup. Some of them end their days in poverty; some marry into the European nobility or men of wealth in this country, are received in Cafe Society and have their pictures printed in newspapers and magazines. In a word, some of them, having found a way to security, turn up their noses on their own past and at those who pursue the same course.

That the business is immoral is obvious, but our society has tended in the direction of looseness since the 1920s and has not improved during the current Era of Abundance. The income tax which forces business to pad their expense accounts if they are to be saved from the tax collector encourages excesses of all kinds, particularly eating, drinking, and hilarious parties after conventions and meetings.

The psychologists and sociologists may philosophize all they want to about why an educated, well-reared girl will enter upon such a profession but if they did not live in ivory towers, if they associated with human beings instead of statistics, they would discover that in a materialistic period, when morals and manners are loose, diamonds and mink coats become unduly attractive and as long as no religious scruples impede the desire to get something in the easiest way, there will be some who will get it that way. How much difference there is between a "Call Girl" and a woman who has four of five husbands in rotation, I do not know.

In a word, the "Call Girl" is a product of lack of religion, lack of respect, lack of decorum which appear early in life in this country, where a child will answer when a parent objects, let up say, to a costume of blue jeans and dirty white socks, "I must live my own life."

"Call Girls" are the feminine counterpart of the money bootlegger, the fellow who becomes a millionaire by tax evasion and tax avoidance, the banker and maufacturer who sells the assets of his country to its enemy, the politician who plays footsies with American Communists, the labor leader who organizes a strike which further accelerates the inflation and thereby robs the worker of his wages.

It is a period of moral degeneration and the "Call Girl" is a characteristic of the age. A proper news account would provide names, dates and places. Great reporters never claim immunity from responsibility for the truth.

Strep Infections Trigger Rheumatic Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Rheumatic fever is serious because there is a 50-50 chance the heart will be damaged permanently. The disease is most prevalent in childhood and is the commonest cause of leakage of the heart valves.

Symptoms usually begin one to weeks after a streptococcal infection of the throat, tonsils, ears, or nose. In some instances it follows scarlet fever. Early manifestations are the same as those of ordinary infections: fever, malaise, sweating, and loss of appetite.

Rheumatic fever may not be suspected until the joints start acting up. A knee, for example, becomes red, swollen, hot, and tender to the touch. The next day a wrist, ankle, or elbow is affected. Involvement of other organs may occur simultaneously. Pinkish lesions, surrounded by scalloped edges, appear on the skin, with shotlike, hard nodules under it, particularly over the joints. St. Vitus' dance (chorea) means the brain is affected.

Aspirin and the adrenal steroids are the standard remedies. The majority of sufferers improve dramatically within a week or two. But signs of activity may smolder for a month or two. The youngster must remain in bed until all signs of the disease vanish.

Rheumatic fever differs from other contagious diseases in that one attack does not confer immunity. If anything, it encourages recurrences, and with each attack, the heart may suffer accordingly. For this reason, physicians make an all-out attempt to prevent any streptoccal infection that might precipitate another attack of rheumatic fever.

The best plan for youngsters who have had rheumatic fever is a daily sulfa or penicillin tablet for an indefinite period of time. Other antibiotics may be used in injection form. This prophylactic measure is not 100 per cent perfect because strep throat may develop despite the best of care. When this occurs, large doses of penicillin are given as soon as possible to abort the disease.

CITRIC ACID

M. L. writes: Everything I eat turns to ascorbic acid in my system. Can anything be done to counteract this condition?

REPLY

Some persons live the life of a vegetable. I have never heard of anyone living the life of an orange or a grapefruit but you may be the first. Ascorbic acid is vitamin C.

NOT USED ROUTINELY

D. T. writes: Is cortisone helpful in asthma?

REPLY

Yes; it is most helpful in relieving distress. Results are temporary, however, and symptoms often return when cortisone is discontinued. This product is a potent steroid and its advantages must be weighed against the risk of side reactions, if prolonged use is contemplated.

SORE SHOULDER

L. M. writes: I threw a fast ball and heard a cracking sound in my right shoulder, which has been bothering me since. Would X-ray show if it is out of joint?

REPLY

Yes, but a dislocated shoulder is so easy to recognize there is a 100 to 1 chance that something else caused the cracking sound — a pulled tendon, for example.

OVERSUPPLY OF BLOOD

W. F. writes: Is diet a factor in polycythemia?

REPLY

No. In polycythemia there is an increase in the number of red cells and in hemoglobin. The condition may accompany certain types of heart and lung disorders. It also occurs in persons living in a high altitude. But in the true forms of polycythemia the cause is not known.

NAUSEA OF PREGNANCY

V. D. S. writes: How early in pregnancy does morning sickness start?

REPLY

By about the fifth week. In some women it occurs after the second week.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mikoyan's Hosts

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The U. S. tour of Anastas Mikoyan, Russia's No. 2 man, was well coordinated. There was nothing happenstance about it.

The masterminding was done by the U. S. State Department, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and three American businessmen who have been "red carpet" visitors to the land of the Soviets.

Use was made of other American businessmen who have been recent visitors to Russia on U.S. State Department-sponsored tours.

The two most important in the arrangements were:

Robert W. Dowling, head of City Investing Co., and a director in banks and several leading corporations, including a big construction firm, and Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America and a director of East and West Coast banks and industrial concerns.

Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland financier, also played an important role, but nothing compared to that of the above two.

Dowling played the major role in New York, setting up the luncheon at a Wall Street bank, Johnston in Washington and on the West Coast. They both had a hand in arrangements elsewhere.

Dowling and Johnston have capable public relations men on their staffs. Johnston has one of the biggest such setups in the country and has a call on the services of others. They were used fully.

Dowling is head of the Cultural Exchange division in the State Department, which has been arranging exchange visits of Russion and American artists in the entertainment field. He has been back and forth many times. Johnston was a visitor at the home of Khrushchev, the boss man in Moscow.

The original program was to have Khrushchev make the trip, but that was impossible to arrange. The State Department didn't want him. Neither did the agencies and authorities which would have to provide for his security.

Mikoyan was then substituted. He could be bought in as a "tourist" and security would be less a problem.

Russia in its all-out economic war — now the major front in the cold war with the U. S. — is in need of prime industrial equipment and credit. The aim of the Mikoyan trip was to sound out business interests with the hope they—the business people—would put the pressure on the U. S. Government to ease restrictions on trade with Russia and to open the door for a $100 billion credit.

This was why Mikoyan asked to have meetings with leading industrialists and bankers across the country. Some of these were "royal" receptions. Others were not.

Only time will tell whether Mikoyan fooled anyone as to his purposes and as to the purposes of the Russian regime. Russia has just one aim — destruction of the U. S. as a world power, with current emphasis on the economic side of this conflict.

Challenge Of The Russian Congress

When the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party convenes in Moscow today, one of its exercises will be to rubberstamp the new seven-year economic plan "proposed" last November by Premier Khrushchev. The plan calls for an increase of 80 per cent in industrial output by 1965: it is represented as the last big push in the drive to overtake the United States.

Probably, no delegate to the Congress will ask embarrassing questions about what went wrong with the five-year plan adopted with such fanfare at the party Congress of 1956 and scheduled to remain in effect until 1961. As nearly as Western experts can determine, that plan fell on its face and had to be withdrawn. The new plan looks like a cover-up for a program that proved impossible of achievement.

The 1956 plan was adopted in February and before the year was out the party's Central Committee was complaining of the strains imposed by its ambitious goals. Returned for overhaul, it re-emerged as a scheme to shift control over some 200,000 industrial enterprises from Moscow ministries to about 90 regional councils. Later the five-year plan was shortened to three years, with Khrushchev's decentralization plan appended to it.

Unnoticed in the flood of propaganda claims of progress in overtaking the United States is the fact that industrial production goals set by the new seven-year plan are 15 to 20 per cent below what they would have been if the growth rates of the previous plan had been taken as its base. It is just as well to remember, however, that the scheduled accomplishments are only part of the plan's design. In part its purpose is to exhort, to inspire, to make pictures the world can admire. On that score the new seven-year plan, with its vision of the Socialist Promised Land, offers a formidable challenge to the West.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Assault On Privacy

Months ago, I read an article by Anthony Harrigan of the "Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier" on surrender of privacy which was both true and interesting. He wrote:

". . . The radio and television, the giant metropolitan newspapers which consider all human experience their province, the nationally-syndicated columns, the mass circulation magazines that emphasize 'inside' news of people, industry and government-inspired questionnaires and polls that probe areas of life considered private not long ago, credit bureaus and private detective organizations, wiretappers and security personnel reports—all these institutions, inventions, and developments have been employed in an assault on the walls raised to shield citizens from the public gaze."

And now we have this extraordinary picture of C.B.S. putting on a show to describe the doings of the urban creature generally referred to as the "Call Girl." Edward R. Murrow, who reads broadcasts for Columbia, was the narrator, which in radio and television parlance usually means that the script was prepared in the word factory of this network by a team of often anonymous and sometimes accredited researchers and writers.

The sum and substance of the broadcast was that vice is a business, well-organized, efficiently managed and designed to get business for companies which employ ladies of the night for the purpose. As show business this broadcast may have had some value, just as a strip-tease has value for the vulgar. As an accurate presentation of data, I doubt whether much stated on that broadcast could be established in a court of law.

"Call Girls" are women, ranging from the age of perhaps 17 to 40 or so, who make themselves available to meandering men for a consideration, ranging from $50 a visit upwards to a diamond or a mink.

Some "Call Girls" are prostitutes: some are conversationalists who keep an old man from falling asleep over his soup. Some of them end their days in poverty; some marry into the European nobility or men of wealth in this country, are received in Cafe Society and have their pictures printed in newspapers and magazines. In a word, some of them, having found a way to security, turn up their noses on their own past and at those who pursue the same course.

That the business is immoral is obvious, but our society has tended in the direction of looseness since the 1920s and has not improved during the current Era of Abundance. The income tax which forces business to pad their expense accounts if they are to be saved from the tax collector encourages excesses of all kinds, particularly eating, drinking, and hilarious parties after conventions and meetings.

The psychologists and sociologists may philosophize all they want to about why an educated, well-reared girl will enter upon such a profession but if they did not live in ivory towers, if they associated with human beings instead of statistics, they would discover that in a materialistic period, when morals and manners are loose, diamonds and mink coats become unduly attractive and as long as no religious scruples impede the desire to get something in the easiest way, there will be some who will get it that way. How much difference there is between a "Call Girl" and a woman who has four of five husbands in rotation, I do not know.

In a word, the "Call Girl" is a product of lack of religion, lack of respect, lack of decorum which appear early in life in this country, where a child will answer when a parent objects, let up say, to a costume of blue jeans and dirty white socks, "I must live my own life."

"Call Girls" are the feminine counterpart of the money bootlegger, the fellow who becomes a millionaire by tax evasion and tax avoidance, the banker and maufacturer who sells the assets of his country to its enemy, the politician who plays footsies with American Communists, the labor leader who organizes a strike which further accelerates the inflation and thereby robs the worker of his wages.

It is a period of moral degeneration and the "Call Girl" is a characteristic of the age. A proper news account would provide names, dates and places. Great reporters never claim immunity from responsibility for the truth.

Some Kremlinology And The Party Congress

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Some vividly, even painfully interesting questions are due to be answered very shortly, at the scheduled 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

If Anastas Mikoyan makes a report to the Congress, for instance, it will prove the good judgment or the smug complacency of the Administration's claim that Mikoyan was much impressed by our firmness and resolution about Berlin. Much more important, the foreign affairs speeches at the party Congress will also show whether Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other Administration leaders have been remarkably wise or exceptionally foolish in their reading of the Kremlin's present attitude towards Berlin.

The official assessment is that Nikita Khrushchev and the other masters of the Kremlin now think they have "gone too far" in their threats to Berlin, and consequently "want to get off the hook." The rightness or wrongness of this official Washington assessment is, almost literally, a life-and-death matter. Hence one greatly wants to see whether the assessment will be happily confirmed or grimly contradicted by the language used about Berlin at the Congress in Moscow.

The test will have another sort of interest, too. It will help to indicate whether it is better to accept Secretary Dulles's largely instinctive judgment of the Soviets, or the carefully trained judgments of the Soviet experts who have spent many years in the business. Even those experts who have not been exiled from the State Department take a vastly darker view of the Berlin crisis than Secretary Dulles. One of them spoke for all of the rest when he described the Berlin challenge as "the most dangerous since the end of the second World War."

As for George F. Kennan, the leading exiled expert, he makes his colleagues who are still on the job look almost merry and bright. It is Kennan's thesis, in brief, that Soviet leaders do not use such language as Khrushchev has used about Berlin without carefully weighing every word of it, and meaning every word of it. As Kennan takes what Khrushchev has said quite literally, he further believes that the Kremlin leaders are probably quite ready to risk a war — maybe even a big war — for Berlin.

Kennan agrees with Secretary Dulles that Mikoyan was sent over here because of the Berlin crisis. But on the basis of the presently revealed record of the Mikoyan visit Kennan doubts whether anything sufficiently imaginative was done or said during the visit to change the course of the crisis in any way. Hence he has a foreboding that the party Congress will show an actual hardening of the Soviet attitude towards Berlin, instead of the softening anticipated by Secretary Dulles.

Kennan goes further than this, moreover. Recent events have led him to conclude that in the matter of Berlin, as in other matters, Nikita Khrushchev is acting under severe pressure from dissident Stalinist or neo-Stalinist groups in the Soviet Communist party. He suspects that the Chinese Communist leaders are supporting these dissidents, and so helping to force Khrushchev into a harder line than he might choose of his own free will.

This may seem curious after the recent publication of the transcript of the meeting of the Communist Party Central Committee, which showed committee members speaking of Khrushchev in the same terms that used to be reserved for Josef Stalin himself. But in the first place, the mere publication of the transcript was an extraordinary event, seemingly aimed to warn off any potential challenger of Khrushchev's authority.

Secondly, Kennan lays special emphasis, not on the wretched old Bulganin's grovelling "self-criticism" before the Central Committee, but on the non-appearance of Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich, and Shepilov. They ought to have been there to outgrovel Bulganin, says Kennan, yet they were able to stay away somehow. The strange episode of the Soviet proposal of Molotov as Ambassador to the Netherlands is another detail in the same pattern; for The Hague is vastly farther from Peking and Moscow than Ulan Bator is.

Finally, the famous transcript itself described Molotov and Kaganovich as "terrorizing" the staff of the Ministry of Agriculture at the time of Khrushchev's bold abolition of the rural motor tractor stations. In other words, the transcript showed Molotov and Kaganovich still acting as open, influential oppositionists, many months after their seemingly decisive defeat and fall from power.

For these and other causes, many Soviet experts expect the Party Congress to produce further severe disciplinary action against the members of the famous "anti-party group." If there is no such action after the recent renewal of the drumfire of attack on these men, it will plainly suggest that Khrushchev's mastery is distinctly incomplete. In short, there are almost too many reasons to watch for the results of the coming Party Congress with most anxious attention.

Strep Infections Trigger Rheumatic Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Rheumatic fever is serious because there is a 50-50 chance the heart will be damaged permanently. The disease is most prevalent in childhood and is the commonest cause of leakage of the heart valves.

Symptoms usually begin one to weeks after a streptococcal infection of the throat, tonsils, ears, or nose. In some instances it follows scarlet fever. Early manifestations are the same as those of ordinary infections: fever, malaise, sweating, and loss of appetite.

Rheumatic fever may not be suspected until the joints start acting up. A knee, for example, becomes red, swollen, hot, and tender to the touch. The next day a wrist, ankle, or elbow is affected. Involvement of other organs may occur simultaneously. Pinkish lesions, surrounded by scalloped edges, appear on the skin, with shotlike, hard nodules under it, particularly over the joints. St. Vitus' dance (chorea) means the brain is affected.

Aspirin and the adrenal steroids are the standard remedies. The majority of sufferers improve dramatically within a week or two. But signs of activity may smolder for a month or two. The youngster must remain in bed until all signs of the disease vanish.

Rheumatic fever differs from other contagious diseases in that one attack does not confer immunity. If anything, it encourages recurrences, and with each attack, the heart may suffer accordingly. For this reason, physicians make an all-out attempt to prevent any streptoccal infection that might precipitate another attack of rheumatic fever.

The best plan for youngsters who have had rheumatic fever is a daily sulfa or penicillin tablet for an indefinite period of time. Other antibiotics may be used in injection form. This prophylactic measure is not 100 per cent perfect because strep throat may develop despite the best of care. When this occurs, large doses of penicillin are given as soon as possible to abort the disease.

Secretary Mitchell Pressures GOP Solons Out Of Backing Labor Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Spurning appeals for a bipartisan labor reform bill, Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell brought pressure on Republican Senators behind the scenes to keep their names off the bill introduced last week by Senators Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sam Ervin of North Carolina, both Democrats.

Earlier, Kennedy had invited Mitchell to cooperate in writing a labor reform bill that would keep it out of politics. Back from the Secretary came this blunt ultimatum: "There will be no moratorium on politics."

Caught in the middle was Sen. John Cooper, Kentucky Republican, who had already promised to join Kennedy in sponsoring the bill. Sen. Clifford Case, New Jersey Republican, had also expressed interest in it.

Then Mitchell stepped in. He high-pressured the gentle Cooper, sent an emissary around to see Case. Both bowed to the political ultimatum from the Labor Department.

Cooper explained apologetically that he was still free to vote for the Kennedy bill. Case suggested that the bill be stripped of everything but anti-racketeering reforms. Amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law should be handled in separate legislation, he said.

The tousle-haired Senator from Massachusetts hustled up a southern Democrat to co-sponsor the bill. They introduced virtually the same bill that passed the Senate last year 88 to 1.

The lone Senator who voted against it, Nevada's right-wing George Malone, was defeated for re-election. But it will encounter more GOP obstacles this year, rolled in its path by no less than the Secretary of Labor.

Lonely "Mr. Congresswoman"

There's been a lot of talk through the years about women's rights, very little about the rights of a Congresswoman's husband. However, this problem is always difficult. He faces the prospect of staying home, which is lonesome; or coming to Washington to help around his wife's office, in which case he feels awkward, out of place, and is sometimes accused of nepotism.

Nevertheless, women have their place in Congress, and that place should not be reserved solely for widows and spinsters. The only two women who have served for any length of time in the Senate, it is true, have been widows — Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas—both distinguished additions to the Senate. But married women certainly should not be barred simply because their husbands would be unhappy in Washington.

It's with this background in mind that you have to view the case of the most controversial husband ever to have a wife in Congress — Andy Knutson of Minnesota. His wife Coya has just been defeated — largely thanks to a lonesome Andy.

Mrs. Knutson was a fine member of Congress. She came to Washington, a rather plain-looking housewife, her hair drawn back in a knot. But it wasn't long before she had found her way to a beauty parlor and the charms of a permanent.

Meanwhile Andy was left out in the cold. Coya didn't mean to leave him out. But Congress is a busy place, Washington a busy city. So Andy fell into the hands of his wife's enemies.

Andy Knutson has now written this reporter a letter which spells out some of his anguish, some of his regrets. It's a human document about a human situation. The essential portions are printed herewith:

Twenty Cigars A Day

"The way everyone had me all stirred up last summer, I got pretty sore at you. But I guess that now that the facts are out, you were right about a lot of things you said.

"I told my son Terry that you weren't so far off when you said I smoked twenty cigars a day. Some days I even smoke twenty-five.

"If you ever write anything about me in the future don't make it too rough on me. I know that I caused Coya a lot of trouble, and I'm really sorry, but the things those people kept telling me got me all worked up so I couldn't even see straight. Then that guy from the press club told me to get Fitzgerald as my lawyer, and that is when the fireworks really started. I really got roped in with that guy.

"The more I think about some of the dirty mean things they spread about my wife just to get her beat in the election, the sicker I feel. I hope one day everybody will know the truth behind all this.

Told The Truth

"When the committee told me I had to get in front of them and tell them what I knew or else they would subpoena me, I had to tell the truth. I did the best I could. Nobody likes to be a squealer. If those people done nothing crooked they have nothing to be worried about. My mother always told me the truth never hurt nobody. I always loved Coya. I didn't want to hurt her. A lot of people got hurt in all of this and I don't think the people who beat Coya in the election are going to sleep so good any more. I guess that was the dirtiest campaign in the history of the U.S.

Come To Minnesota

"A fellow hates to admit it when something bad is said about him. I don't know how you find out some of the things you do for your newspaper column, but maybe since you are so good, you can do some checking up in the 9th District in Minnesota. I bet you will find out plenty.

"If you come up to Oklee you can have a room in Andy's Hotel free of charge. Oklee is not too far from Fasston and Bagley. I'm sure you'll find me sober.

"I hope when I get back to Oklee people will let me alone. The people in Oklee know both Coya and me, and they know that Coya is a good woman. Oklee went for Coya in the election. I don't think anybody in Oklee will believe any more lies about Coya. I hope she gets back to Congress some day. This here is one letter I wrote myself.

LaSalle Tests Valley High's Unbeaten Quint Here Tonight

Franklin Shoots For 14th; Hawks Visit Mt. Savage

LaSalle High School will make an attempt to crack the 12-game winning streak of the undefeated Valley High Black Knights when the teams windup their season series tonight at 8 o'clock at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Coach John C. Meyers' W.M.I. League leaders (5-0) beats the Explorers by 27 points in their first meeting of the season on December 6, the score being 63-36, but many of LaSalle's followers feel that the Explorers are a much improved team and is capable of giving the up-creek quint a more interesting tussle in the return engagement.

Won Five of Last Six

Coach George Geatz's quint lost six of its first eight games but has copped five of its last six and goes into tonight's battle with a 7-7 record.

It will be the 12th game of the series between the schools and LaSalle holds a 6-5 edge in wins. Five of the games have been staged here and the Explorers won four of them. Valley has copped four of the six contests staged on its home court since the Knights made their debut in 1954. Valley barely beat Bruce at Westernport Friday night and the pressure might be beginning to tell on the Knights.

The game is the only one in Cumberland tonight and should attract a large turnout at the Fayette street court.

Rebels Host Allegany

Two Cumberland Valley Athletic League games are on tap for tonight. Allegany High's Campers (2-2) will tackle Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown High Rebels (1-3) in Hagerstown while Homer Brooks' Frederick Cadets (0-5) oppose the Bulldogs (2-2) at Martinsburg.

Allegany, which is 5-5 for the season, and the Rebels (3-9) will be winding up their first half schedule in the CVAL tonight. They'll meet here in the final game of the season on March 3.

Tomorrow night Fort Hill will play undefeated North Hagerstown High (12-0) in a league engagement here.

Seek 14th Win In Row

Franklin High School's Panthers, only unbeaten team in the Potomac Valley Conference, will be shooting for their eighth win in that circuit when they tackle the Circleville High Indians (1-4) tonight at Franklin. Coach Curtis "Gus" Smith's quint is 13-0 for the season and a victory tonight would give them the Pendleton county title. Franklin won the opener of the series at Circleville, 47-40.

In other P.V.C. contests, Romney High's Pioneers (7-2) will play host to Glenn Smith's Paw Paw Pirates (6-1) and Capon Bridge (4-3) invades Wardensville to tackle "Pete" Vance's Warriors, who are 4-4 in the league. Paw Paw, now occupant of third place in the league, ahead of Romney, lost the opener to the Pioneers by the score of 56-48. Wardensville holds a 48-45 decision over Capon Bridge.

Ridgeley Seeks Revenge

Mt. Savage High will be striving to keep its home floor record unblemished tonight but must spill Ridgeley High to make it six straight. Tom O'Connor's Blackhawks have reeled off five wins in a row at the expense of Fort Ashby, Piedmont, twice, Moorefield and the West Virginia School for the Deaf and is expected to make it interesting for John Thomas' Indians. Mt. Savage won at Ridgeley, 54-48. The Hawks are 8-6 for the season while Mt. Savage has copped nine of 11 games.

Other games on tonight's card are Southern High of Oakland at Bruce, Hancock at Berkeley Springs, Hedgesville at Oldtown, Mathias at Harman, Coalton at Mountaineer and Everett at Hyndman and Saxton-Liberty at Bedford in Bedford County League games.

Southern holds a 67-58 win over Bruce, Hedgesville beat Oldtown, 64-44, Harman whipped Mathias, 44-41 and Mountaineer High walloped Coalton, 72-46.

Wall And Ellis Lead Golf Meet

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI)—Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa., and Wes Ellis, Aldecress, N. J., tied for the first day lead in the $7,500 El Dorado pro - member golf tournament Monday with two under par scores of 70.

As the professionals continued their play-every-day program on the West Coast, Wall and Ellis took a one-stroke lead over the field in the two-day event. Wall, winner of the Bing Crosby event, had a 34-36. Ellis had a 35-35.

Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa. winner of the $15,000 Thunderbird tournament Sunday, had a 71. Tied with him were Jimmy Demaret, who finished right behind Palmer at the Thunderbird, and Bob Rosburg.

CITY LEAGUE'S FIRST HALF CHAMPS—The Old Germans are the first half champions of the City Basketball League for the 1958-59 season with a 10-0 record. All of the players hail from the Tri-Towns and formerly played at Piedmont or Bruce high with the exception of Jim Eckard, a product of Fort Hill High School. The squad, left to right: FRONT ROW—Alex "Bud" Ambrose, Bob Bateson, Charles Evers "Buck" Smith and James Eckard. Don Moran and Glenn Smith racked up 58 points between them in leading the Old Germans to their tenth consecutive victory over the Loyal Order of Moose as the first half championship race of the City Basketball League ended last night at Fort Hill High School. The score was 92-61 and gave the first half champions a sweep of the two-game series.

Moran's 35 points, which included 17 field goals, upped his season total to 234 for an average of 23.4. Fritz Showers, who has been transferred by the E. J. Albrecht Company to Washington, D.C., missed his first game of the season but his average of 23.9 for 214 points in nine games gave him the top average in the league.

Glenn Smith was runner-up to Moran in last night's game with 10 goals and 23 points. Kenny Johnson led the Moose with nine goals and 20 points.

The Forty & Eight Club took the other game of the doubleheader, whipping the Old Exports, 79-64.

This was a close game for three quarters. Ronnie Bruce knotted the score at 50-all as the final period got under way and goals by John Poling, Dave Ritter, Ed Athey and Junior Eversole put the game on ice for the Box Car Society.

Paul Mason and Poling with 25 and 20 markers were the Forty & Eight Club's top point getters. Bruce, Bill Kirk and Bob Dawson obtained 14, 13 and 12 tallies, respectively, for the Old Exports.

Bearcats Win

Cepeda Charged With Assault Following Puerto Rican Riot

Giants' Rookie Is Showered With Beer Cans, Bottles, Fruit

SAN JUAN (AP) — First baseman Orlando Cepeda, the National League's rookie of the year last season with the San Francisco Giants, was charged with assault and released in $500 bond Monday, then was fined $200 by the Puerto Rican League president as a result of Sunday's playoff game riot.

President Carlos Garcia Nocedas levied the fine "for conduct detrimental to the best interest of baseball." Cepeda threw a ball at the fans after they had bombarded him with fruit, beer cans and bottles.

Cepeda escaped suspension, Nocedas said, only because of a policy against such action during the playoffs.

Gomez Hits Batter

All the action came after right-hander Ruben Gomez of the Philadelphia Phillies, Cepeda's Santurce teammate in winter league play, hit a Mayaguez batter with a pitch.

The game, fifth in the semifinal playoff between the two clubs, was halted and forfeited to Santurce in the eighth inning because of fan demonstrations against Cepeda and Gomez. Santurce, which led 4-0 at that point, now has a 3-2 lead in the best-of seven playoff.

The fuss began when Gomez hit Joe Christopher, Mayaguez and Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, in the first inning. Christopher was hit in the head and left the game, but was not seriously injured.

Gomez was booed every time he came to bat, and fans began to throw fruit on the field. When Cepeda protested a decision at first base, bleacher fans shouted for his removal from the game.

Cepeda Bombarded

In the eighth inning, Cepeda was bombarded by fruit, beer cans and bottles while trying to catch a foul fly near the bleachers. The young first baseman missed the fly, picked up the ball and threw it toward the bleachers. It appeared that the ball struck a railing and bounced back onto the field, but one fan claimed he had been hit. More fruit, cans and bottles bombarded the field and the umpires forfeited the game.

The players needed police escort out of town.

Rick Ferrell Gets GM Post With Detroit

Named Successor To John J. McHale

DETROIT (AP)—Rick Ferrell, one of baseball's all-time great catchers, Monday was named temporary general manager of the Detroit Tigers as the club moved quickly to replace John J. McHale.

McHale resigned suddenly Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Just 24 hours later the 53-year-old Ferrell, who has been director of minor league personnel under McHale, became at least an interim replacement.

Chairman of the Board John E. Fetzer, President Harvey Hansen and executive Vice President Harry Sisson met with Ferrell Monday and an hour later made the announcement at a hastily called news conference.

Ferrell had his suitcases packed and planned to leave his home in Greensboro, N.C., Monday for Lakeland, Fla., where he was to join other Tiger personnel and instruct young baseball players. Instead he got word to catch a plane to Detroit.

Fetzer's announcement said Ferrell, who with his brother Wes formed one of the game's most famous brother batteries, will "assume all of the duties of the general manager as acting executive until such time as we name a general manager."

He did not rule out the possibility that Ferrell could make it a regular job.

McHale's resignation stunned club officials. He said he took the Milwaukee job because it meant a bigger job and more money.

Ferrell holds the American League's record for games caught with 1,806 and his lifetime batting average was .281.

He said the immediate aim of the fifth-place Tigers "is to finish in the first division — and I hope to do well enough in my new job so I will be considered for the full-time position."

NEW TIGER GM—Rick Ferrell, Detroit Tigers farm director, yesterday was named to succeed John McHale as acting general manager of the American League club. McHale quit on Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Ferrell has been in the Tiger organization for nearly 10 years and is a former major league catcher. Terms were not disclosed. (AP Photofax)

Olmedo To Rest After Triumph In Australia

Brings Title To U.S. First Time Since 1951

ADELAIDE (AP)—Alex Olmedo stood on the threshold of tennis greatness Monday, a tired and aching champion looking for no new worlds to conquer. All he wants is peace and rest.

"Now I take it easy for a while," said the 22-year-old Peruvian court sensation after adding the Australian National Championship to his recent Davis Cup conquests.

Although favoring a strained stomach muscle, Olmedo crushed Neale Fraser, Australia's best remaining amateur, in the singles final Monday at the packed Memorial Drive Courts 6-1, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The victory sent the Australian title to the United States for the first time since Dick Savit won in 1951.

The handsome, chisel-featured descendant of the Incas immediately was hailed as the new king of amateur tennis, and there was talk he might duplicate Don Budge's unequalled feat of winning the Australian, Wimbledon, French and U.S. titles in a single year.

WOW Shufflers Win

The Woodmen of the World won two out of three games from the Outdoor Club in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. B. Folk of the W.O.W. and K. Troutman of the Outdoor Club led the scorers with 23 points each.

LaSalle Tests Valley High's Unbeaten Quint Here Tonight

Rebels Host Allegany In League Tilt

Franklin Shoots For 14th; Hawks Visit Mt. Savage

LaSalle High School will make an attempt to crack the 12-game winning streak of the undefeated Valley High Black Knights when the teams windup their season series tonight at 8 o'clock at SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Coach John C. Meyers' W.M.I. League leaders (5-0) beats the Explorers by 27 points in their first meeting of the season on December 6, the score being 63-36, but many of LaSalle's followers feel that the Explorers are a much improved team and is capable of giving the up-creek quint a more interesting tussle in the return engagement.

Won Five of Last Six

Coach George Geatz's quint lost six of its first eight games but has copped five of its last six and goes into tonight's battle with a 7-7 record.

It will be the 12th game of the series between the schools and LaSalle holds a 6-5 edge in wins. Five of the games have been staged here and the Explorers won four of them. Cepeda Bombarded

In the eighth inning, Cepeda was bombarded by fruit, beer cans and bottles while trying to catch a foul fly near the bleachers. The young first baseman missed the fly, picked up the ball and threw it toward the bleachers. It appeared that the ball struck a railing and bounced back onto the field, but one fan claimed he had been hit. More fruit, cans and bottles bombarded the field and the umpires forfeited the game.

The players needed police escort out of town.

Elk Garden Drops 13th In Row, 59-44

BAYARD, W. Va., Jan. 26 — Bayard High School's Tigers chalked up their eighth win of the season tonight by handing Elk Garden High its 13th consecutive setback. The score was 59-44.

Lonnie Kuhn and Eddie Kopfle were the Bayard's "big guns" with 17 and 14 points while Jerry Tephabock contributed ten tallies.

Jerold Milavec was the "whole show" for the winless Elk Garden quint. He slammed in nine goals and had a 9-for-9 performance at the foul line, scoring 27 of the losers' 44 points.

The win gave Coach Francis Maleonskie's Tigers an overall record of 8-2. Box score:

NEW TIGER GM—Rick Ferrell, Detroit Tigers farm director, yesterday was named to succeed John McHale as acting general manager of the American League club. McHale quit on Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Ferrell has been in the Tiger organization for nearly 10 years and is a former major league catcher. Terms were not disclosed. (AP Photofax)

Rick Ferrell Gets GM Post With Detroit

Named Successor To John J. McHale

DETROIT (AP)—Rick Ferrell, one of baseball's all-time great catchers, Monday was named temporary general manager of the Detroit Tigers as the club moved quickly to replace John J. McHale.

McHale resigned suddenly Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Just 24 hours later the 53-year-old Ferrell, who has been director of minor league personnel under McHale, became at least an interim replacement.

Chairman of the Board John E. Fetzer, President Harvey Hansen and executive Vice President Harry Sisson met with Ferrell Monday and an hour later made the announcement at a hastily called news conference.

Ferrell had his suitcases packed and planned to leave his home in Greensboro, N.C., Monday for Lakeland, Fla., where he was to join other Tiger personnel and instruct young baseball players. Instead he got word to catch a plane to Detroit.

Fetzer's announcement said Ferrell, who with his brother Wes formed one of the game's most famous brother batteries, will "assume all of the duties of the general manager as acting executive until such time as we name a general manager."

He did not rule out the possibility that Ferrell could make it a regular job.

McHale's resignation stunned club officials. He said he took the Milwaukee job because it meant a bigger job and more money.

Ferrell holds the American League's record for games caught with 1,806 and his lifetime batting average was .281.

He said the immediate aim of the fifth-place Tigers "is to finish in the first division — and I hope to do well enough in my new job so I will be considered for the full-time position."

Olmedo To Rest After Triumph In Australia

Brings Title To U.S. First Time Since 1951

ADELAIDE (AP)—Alex Olmedo stood on the threshold of tennis greatness Monday, a tired and aching champion looking for no new worlds to conquer. All he wants is peace and rest.

"Now I take it easy for a while," said the 22-year-old Peruvian court sensation after adding the Australian National Championship to his recent Davis Cup conquests.

Although favoring a strained stomach muscle, Olmedo crushed Neale Fraser, Australia's best remaining amateur, in the singles final Monday at the packed Memorial Drive Courts 6-1, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The victory sent the Australian title to the United States for the first time since Dick Savit won in 1951.

The handsome, chisel-feaured descendant of the Incas immediately was hailed as the new king of amateur tennis, and there was talk he might duplicate Don Budge's unequalled feat of winning the Australian, Wimbledon, French and U.S. titles in a single year.

WOW Shufflers Win

The Woodmen of the World won two out of three games from the Outdoor Club in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. B. Folk of the W.O.W. and K. Troutman of the Outdoor Club led the scorers with 23 points each.

Turley Voted $10,000 Award As Pro Athlete Of Year

Nationwide Poll Honors Series Hero

Diamond-Studded Gold Buckled Belt Is Won By Hurler

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Bob Turley, the pitcher who played a key role in the New York Yankees' victorious rally against the Milwaukee Braves in the last World Series, Monday night was named winner of the 'Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award for 1958.

The announcement of Turley's triumph in a nationwide poll and the presentation of the award was made at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner for the polio fund.

Jimmy Brown 2nd

Turley, who starred in three of New York's four series victories, easily won the $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt that goes annually to the winner of the poll. He received more than twice as many points as his nearest rival in the voting, fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns, in nationwide voting by sports writers and sportscasters.

Brown barely edged Archie Moore, the world light heavyweight boxing champion, for second place in the voting. John Unitas, the quarterback who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League title, was fourth.

Turley received 41 first-place votes and a total of 206 points. Brown drew 16 first-place votes and 98 points. Moore received 20 first-place votes and 93 points while Unitas received 12 first-place votes and 82 points.

Stan Finishes Fifth

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal star, was fifth with 10 votes for first and 52 points. Jockey Willie Shoemaker was sixth with two first-place votes and 33 points. Bob Pettit, basketball player for the St. Louis Hawks, and Ray Robinson, middleweight boxing champion, tied for seventh with 25 points each. Tommy Bolt, the Open golf champion, was next with nine points. Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs tied with four points each.

Turley is the fourth Yankee to win the Hickok award. The other Yankees who captured it were Phil Rizzuto (1950), Allie Reynolds (1951) and Mickey Mantle (1956).

EARNS RICH AWARD—Pitcher Bob Turley of the New York Yankees (right) receives $10,000 diamond-studded belt as winner of the S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award. Making the award is Ray T. Hickok, Rochester, N. Y., industrialist. Turley posted a 21-7 record in 1958 and was the only American Leaguer to win 20 or more games. Belted out in the second game of the World Series, he blanked Milwaukee in the fifth, preserved a 4-3 victory

Piedmont Tops Beall, Taylor Gets 34 Points

Huck Miers' Lions Sweep Series, 70-55

A 34-point performance by Joe Taylor, who connected on 12 shots from the field and converted 10 of 11 free throws, highlighted Piedmont High School's 70-55 victory over Beall High School's basketball team in a game played last night at Frostburg.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions got off to a good start and held the upper hand throughout. The quarter scores were 22-15, 40-28 and 54-29.

Trailing Taylor in the scoring column was Wayne Russell who contributed an even dozen tallies and D. T. Twyman with ten points.

Piedmont outscored the Mountaineers 25 to 21 in field goals and meshed 20 of 30 free throws in notching its eighth win in 12 outings. Piedmont made a sweep of the season series, having won the first game by the score of 66-42.

Jim Hansel, Ed Finn and Al Kamauff collected 14 points each for Beall which suffered its fifth straight setback and eighth loss in 11 starts this season.

Four players exited on personal fouls. Gerry Hill exited for Piedmont in the third period while John Richards of the Lions and Jim Evans and Chester Carter went out in the final stanza. Box score:

West Virginia Expels Three Grid Players

Attempted To Steal Questions To Exams

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia University expelled three football players Monday including probable 1959 first-string fullback Glen Shamblin, for attempting to steal questions to semester examinations.

Expelled along with the 23-year-old Shamblin, a junior from Sissonville, W. Va., were sophomore halfback Dick Manion, 20, of Wheeling and sophomore tackle tackle Don (Duck) Smith, 20, of Nitro, W. Va.

Acting president Clyde L. Colson said the trio made "unauthorized entry" of the University Field House, where most physical education classes for men are held, "for the purpose of obtaining semester final examination questions."

Shamblin was a part-time regular last season, being hobbled at times by injuries, and lettered in both his sophomore and junior seasons. A speedy 197-pounder, he was considered almost certain to be the Mountaineers' No. 1 fullback next fall.

Manion, who at 155 pounds was the smallest player at the university, was regarded as a good prospect because of exceptional speed and stamina. He was not eligible in 1958 due to scholastic difficulties. Smith a 220 - pounder was eligible but did not see any action. He was also considered a good prospect.

Colson said the three were dropped after hearings before the University's discipline committee. He said Shamblin, Manion and Smith were found to have entered the field house on the night of Jan. 14 to find out what the Physical Education Department's semester exam would be like.

West Virginia Tops Colonials

WASHINGON (AP) — Jerry West's rebound goal with 4:10 remaining sent West Virginia ahead for the first time Monday night, and the Mountaineers went on to down George Washington 77-67 in a Southern Conference game.

West, a ball-stealing, rebounding menace, scored 30 points as he led West Virginia to its 43rd consecutive conference triumph.

The Sports Patrol

(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) —It's a long, long winter for baseball's injured and ailing who'll rate as question-marks until they prove themselves on the training field in the spring.

Starting with Herb Score of the Indians and Ryne Duren of the Yankees, the list includes a bigger-than-usual group of hopeful cripples clear down to rookie center fielder Joe Gaines of Cincinnati.

Two years ago, Score nearly lost an eye when struck by a line-drive belted by Gil McDougald of the Yankees. His comeback last year was detoured by a sore arm. This year? Strictly a question-mark.

Duren had an off-season knee operation.

"I'm moving freely without pain under light exercise," the be-spectacled reliever advised Gerry Coleman of the Yankees.

High Hope For Garcia

Cleveland not only has high hope for Score's comeback but figures big Mike Garcia is due for the same. Mike went out of the league with a back injury after a tremendous career of winning. Now he's headed back after a disc operation and if it was the kind we're familiar with that surgery is a risk.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have two sore-armed pitchers on the question-mark list — Ed Roebuck and Don Bessent. Roebuck was out all last year. Bessent missed a piece of the season. Both are needed.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox is concerned over the recovery of versatile Al Smith, who had a leg injury.

Willard Nixon of the Red Sox was plagued with a sore pitching arm. So was Curt Barclay of the San Francisco Giants.

Moe Drabowsky of the Chicago Cubs, one of the game's best young pitchers, wasn't worth much to Manager Bob Scheffing after the All-Star break last year. Moe, with a sore elbow, won only one game after the mid - year stretch. Teeth and tonsils were blamed but only time will tell.

Sanford Must Prove Self

Jack Sanford, rookie of the year with the Philies two years ago and a "jinxed" sophomore last year, has moved to the Giants where he'll have to prove himself. Manager Bill Rigney believes Jack carried too much weight after a big banquet tour two winters back. It could be.

Stan Lopata of the Phillies, hit by two hand injuries, a beaning and a leg injury in two seasons, is a risk but Billy Martin, now with Cleveland, figures he's all set after a rib injury he suffered late last season.

Gaines, the Cincy rookie hailed as a phenom, had an off-season knee operation.

The Braves, who had all sorts of injuries last season including some to pitcher Bob Buhl and outfielder Wes Covington that still worry, have the "big one" in Red Schoendienst. Stricken with tuberculosis, they're counting Red out.

But you can't convince Red.

Redl Defeats Danny Russo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweight Stefan Redl of Germany and Passaic, N. J., won a lopsided unanimous 10-round decision Monday night over Danny Russo of Brooklyn at St. Nicholas Arena.

Redl, favored at 3 to 1, weighed 149½ pounds to Russo's 151.

Indiana Suspends Three Basketeers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Three Indiana University varsity basketball players, including starting guard and playmaker Bob Wilkinson, Monday night were suspended from the squad for scholastic failures.

The three cagers will be lost to Coach Branch McCracken's squad for the remainder of the season. Their failures were apparently based on first semester grades.

Kirkland, Wagner Fined $250, Broke Winter Contracts

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Monday fined Willie Kirkland and Leon Wagner, San Francisco Giants outfielders, $250 each and banned them from winter baseball for one year for breaking their Puerto Rican contracts.

Kirkland was playing with the Santurce team and Wagner with Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. Both were among the leading hitters.

Frick said neither Kirkland nor Wagner may play with the Giants until the fine is paid. The one-year suspension covers the 1959-60 winter season in the Caribbean.

Turley Voted $10,000 Award As Pro Athlete Of Year

Nationwide Poll Honors Series Hero

Diamond-Studded Gold Buckled Belt Is Won By Hurler

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Bob Turley, the pitcher who played a key role in the New York Yankees' victorious rally against the Milwaukee Braves in the last World Series, Monday night was named winner of the 'Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award for 1958.

The announcement of Turley's triumph in a nationwide poll and the presentation of the award was made at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner for the polio fund.

Jimmy Brown 2nd

Turley, who starred in three of New York's four series victories, easily won the $10,000 diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt that goes annually to the winner of the poll. He received more than twice as many points as his nearest rival in the voting, fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns, in nationwide voting by sports writers and sportscasters.

Brown barely edged Archie Moore, the world light heavyweight boxing champion, for second place in the voting. John Unitas, the quarterback who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League title, was fourth.

Turley received 41 first-place votes and a total of 206 points. Brown drew 16 first-place votes and 98 points. Moore received 20 first-place votes and 93 points while Unitas received 12 first-place votes and 82 points.

Stan Finishes Fifth

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal star, was fifth with 10 votes for first and 52 points. Jockey Willie Shoemaker was sixth with two first-place votes and 33 points. Bob Pettit, basketball player for the St. Louis Hawks, and Ray Robinson, middleweight boxing champion, tied for seventh with 25 points each. Tommy Bolt, the Open golf champion, was next with nine points. Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs tied with four points each.

Turley is the fourth Yankee to win the Hickok award. The other Yankees who captured it were Phil Rizzuto (1950), Allie Reynolds (1951) and Mickey Mantle (1956).

EARNS RICH AWARD—Pitcher Bob Turley of the New York Yankees (right) receives $10,000 diamond-studded belt as winner of the S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award. Making the award is Ray T. Hickok, Rochester, N. Y., industrialist. Turley posted a 21-7 record in 1958 and was the only American Leaguer to win 20 or more games. Belted out in the second game of the World Series, he blanked Milwaukee in the fifth, preserved a 4-3 victory

Huck Miers' Lions Sweep Series, 70-55

A 34-point performance by Joe Taylor, who connected on 12 shots from the field and converted 10 of 11 free throws, highlighted Piedmont High School's 70-55 victory over Beall High School's basketball team in a game played last night at Frostburg.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions got off to a good start and held the upper hand throughout. The quarter scores were 22-15, 40-28 and 54-29.

Piedmont outscored the Mountaineers 25 to 21 in field goals and meshed 20 of 30 free throws in notching its eighth win in 12 outings. Piedmont made a sweep of the season series, having won the first game by the score of 66-42.

Jim Hansel, Ed Finn and Al Kamauff collected 14 points each for Beall which suffered its fifth straight setback and eighth loss in 11 starts this season.

Four players exited on personal fouls. Gerry Hill exited for Piedmont in the third period while John Richards of the Lions and Jim Evans and Chester Carter went out in the final stanza. Box score:

West Virginia Expels Three Grid Players

Attempted To Steal Questions To Exams

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia University expelled three football players Monday including probable 1959 first-string fullback Glen Shamblin, for attempting to steal questions to semester examinations.

Expelled along with the 23-year-old Shamblin, a junior from Sissonville, W. Va., were sophomore halfback Dick Manion, 20, of Wheeling and sophomore tackle tackle Don (Duck) Smith, 20, of Nitro, W. Va.

Acting president Clyde L. Colson said the trio made "unauthorized entry" of the University Field House, where most physical education classes for men are held, "for the purpose of obtaining semester final examination questions."

Shamblin was a part-time regular last season, being hobbled at times by injuries, and lettered in both his sophomore and junior seasons. A speedy 197-pounder, he was considered almost certain to be the Mountaineers' No. 1 fullback next fall.

Manion, who at 155 pounds was the smallest player at the university, was regarded as a good prospect because of exceptional speed and stamina. He was not eligible in 1958 due to scholastic difficulties. Smith a 220 - pounder was eligible but did not see any action. He was also considered a good prospect.

Colson said the three were dropped after hearings before the University's discipline committee. He said Shamblin, Manion and Smith were found to have entered the field house on the night of Jan. 14 to find out what the Physical Education Department's semester exam would be like.

West Virginia Tops Colonials

WASHINGON (AP) — Jerry West's rebound goal with 4:10 remaining sent West Virginia ahead for the first time Monday night, and the Mountaineers went on to down George Washington 77-67 in a Southern Conference game.

West, a ball-stealing, rebounding menace, scored 30 points as he led West Virginia to its 43rd consecutive conference triumph.

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) —It's a long, long winter for baseball's injured and ailing who'll rate as question-marks until they prove themselves on the training field in the spring.

Starting with Herb Score of the Indians and Ryne Duren of the Yankees, the list includes a bigger-than-usual group of hopeful cripples clear down to rookie center fielder Joe Gaines of Cincinnati.

Two years ago, Score nearly lost an eye when struck by a line-drive belted by Gil McDougald of the Yankees. His comeback last year was detoured by a sore arm. This year? Strictly a question-mark.

High Hope For Garcia

Cleveland not only has high hope for Score's comeback but figures big Mike Garcia is due for the same. Mike went out of the league with a back injury after a tremendous career of winning. Now he's headed back after a disc operation and if it was the kind we're familiar with that surgery is a risk.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have two sore-armed pitchers on the question-mark list — Ed Roebuck and Don Bessent. Roebuck was out all last year. Bessent missed a piece of the season. Both are needed.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox is concerned over the recovery of versatile Al Smith, who had a leg injury.

Willard Nixon of the Red Sox was plagued with a sore pitching arm. So was Curt Barclay of the San Francisco Giants.

Sanford Must Prove Self

Jack Sanford, rookie of the year with the Philies two years ago and a "jinxed" sophomore last year, has moved to the Giants where he'll have to prove himself. Manager Bill Rigney believes Jack carried too much weight after a big banquet tour two winters back. It could be.

Stan Lopata of the Phillies, hit by two hand injuries, a beaning and a leg injury in two seasons, is a risk but Billy Martin, now with Cleveland, figures he's all set after a rib injury he suffered late last season.

Gaines, the Cincy rookie hailed as a phenom, had an off-season knee operation.

The Braves, who had all sorts of injuries last season including some to pitcher Bob Buhl and outfielder Wes Covington that still worry, have the "big one" in Red Schoendienst. Stricken with tuberculosis, they're counting Red out.

Redl Defeats Danny Russo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweight Stefan Redl of Germany and Passaic, N. J., won a lopsided unanimous 10-round decision Monday night over Danny Russo of Brooklyn at St. Nicholas Arena.

Redl, favored at 3 to 1, weighed 149½ pounds to Russo's 151.

Indiana Suspends Three Basketeers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Three Indiana University varsity basketball players, including starting guard and playmaker Bob Wilkinson, Monday night were suspended from the squad for scholastic failures.

The three cagers will be lost to Coach Branch McCracken's squad for the remainder of the season. Their failures were apparently based on first semester grades.

Kirkland, Wagner Fined $250, Broke Winter Contracts

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Monday fined Willie Kirkland and Leon Wagner, San Francisco Giants outfielders, $250 each and banned them from winter baseball for one year for breaking their Puerto Rican contracts.

Kirkland was playing with the Santurce team and Wagner with Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. Both were among the leading hitters.

Frick said neither Kirkland nor Wagner may play with the Giants until the fine is paid. The one-year suspension covers the 1959-60 winter season in the Caribbean.

Why Men Don't Talk to Their Wives

● Is the American male losing the art of talking to his wife? In February Reader's Digest, Marjorie Holmes says "yes" and thinks she's figured out just why men are so close-mouthed. There are "several basic sex differences" . . . and she goes on to provide an earful of other reasons in February Reader's Digest. Get your copy at newsstands today.

Why Men Don't Talk to Their Wives

● Is the American male losing the art of talking to his wife? In February Reader's Digest, Marjorie Holmes says "yes" and thinks she's figured out just why men are so close-mouthed. There are "several basic sex differences" . . . and she goes on to provide an earful of other reasons in February Reader's Digest. Get your copy at newsstands today.

Card of Thanks

WE take this means of extending our sincere thanks and appreciation to all the friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the recent illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Janet Buskirk. We especially wish to thank the pallbearers, those who donated cars, sent floral tributes and all others who in any manner assisted us.

Card of Thanks

WE take this means of extending our sincere thanks and appreciation to all the friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the recent illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Janet Buskirk. We especially wish to thank the pallbearers, those who donated cars, sent floral tributes and all others who in any manner assisted us.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were fairly steady to firm at the close Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to up ¾ cent; corn (old) off ⅛ cent; (new) unchanged to off ⅜ cent; oats unchanged to off ⅜ cent; rye unchanged to off ¼ cent; soybeans up ½ to off ¼ cent.

Commercial houses did most buying of March and May wheat. The positions closed on a ¾ cent advance. Other contracts remained near previous closing levels. Offerings of new crops increased and caused the slight decline. Pakistan took 8,000 tons white and 9,000 tons hard wheat in the only reported export business.

A moderate selloff caused the decline in corn. However, cash houses tended to keep a buying movement active. The interest centered in March. Later trade pushed July corn down ⅜ and September ¼ cent. Northwest brokers bought some new March, then sold July.

In oats, cash brokers were on both sides of the market. Here also, March was the favorite. Some commission house liquidation appeared toward the close.

Rye futures brought commission houses actively into trade. Prices, however, dropped about ¼ cent and closed near previous levels. May rye was in demand. July was sold.

Firmness in meal and oil prices firmed soybean futures. Larger than expected crushings recorded in December also was a firming factor in trade. March and July beans each advanced ½ cent. Faroff position dropped.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat increased 2,358,000 bushels this week, according to figures of Chicago Board of Trade statisticians. Stocks on hand totaled 355,029,000 bushels.

Corn increased 129,000 leaving 84,000,884 bushels. Oats decreased 234,000 leaving 20,458,000. Rye increased 6,000 leaving 3,238,000. Soybeans decreased 1,068,000, leaving 32,975,000.

Grains at outside markets were fairly firm. The range:

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were fairly steady to firm at the close Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to up ¾ cent; corn (old) off ⅛ cent; (new) unchanged to off ⅜ cent; oats unchanged to off ⅜ cent; rye unchanged to off ¼ cent; soybeans up ½ to off ¼ cent.

Strength in nearby contracts held up during the session, but faroff deliveries dropped moderately.

Commercial houses did most buying of March and May wheat. The positions closed on a ¾ cent advance. Other contracts remained near previous closing levels. Offerings of new crops increased and caused the slight decline. Pakistan took 8,000 tons white and 9,000 tons hard wheat in the only reported export business.

A moderate selloff caused the decline in corn. However, cash houses tended to keep a buying movement active. The interest centered in March. Later trade pushed July corn down ⅜ and September ¼ cent. Northwest brokers bought some new March, then sold July.

In oats, cash brokers were on both sides of the market. Here also, March was the favorite. Some commission house liquidation appeared toward the close.

Rye futures brought commission houses actively into trade. Prices, however, dropped about ¼ cent and closed near previous levels. May rye was in demand. July was sold.

Firmness in meal and oil prices firmed soybean futures. Larger than expected crushings recorded in December also was a firming factor in trade. March and July beans each advanced ½ cent. Faroff position dropped.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat increased 2,358,000 bushels this week, according to figures of Chicago Board of Trade statisticians. Stocks on hand totaled 355,029,000 bushels.

Corn increased 129,000 leaving 84,000,884 bushels. Oats decreased 234,000 leaving 20,458,000. Rye increased 6,000 leaving 3,238,000. Soybeans decreased 1,068,000, leaving 32,975,000.

Grains at outside markets were fairly firm. The range:

Stock Prices Take Worst Beating Since January 7

NEW YORK (AP)—Late selling Monday drove stock market prices down to their worst loss since Jan. 7. Trading was active.

The decline clipped an estimated $1,800,000,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in The Associated Press average.

Steels were pacemakers in the initial rise. Reports of rising production and heightened demand to build up inventories brought buyers to this section of the market.

Elsewhere in the list it was a day of special news pushing many leading issues either to the upside or downside.

Losses of most leading issues went from fractions to about a point but some scattered stocks made wider moves.

The AP 60-stock average fell $1.40 to $218.10 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down $2.50 and the utilities down 30 cents.

The Dow-Jones industrial average fell 3.70 to 592.37.

Of 1,264 issues traded, 419 rose and 615 fell. There were 130 new highs for 1958-'59 and 1 new low.

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

One of the rarest of all squeezes is presented today. The play involves squeezing a defender down to the position where he must rid himself entirely of one suit. This is the key to the success of declarer's efforts despite the fact that defender holds no protection in that suit.

East eked out a one heart bid and South overcalled two clubs. North chose an aggressive course when he cue bid the hearts. The adverse bid should have had a deflating effect on his holding and we would have been inclined to adopt less drastic measures. South jumped to four clubs to show his solid holding and North contracted for slam.

West opened the jack of hearts. Declarer won with the ace as East followed with the three. The outlook for declarer was anything but happy inasmuch as East was marked with the high spades. With East discarding after the dummy it does not look as if any squeeze would be possible.

However, South visualized a holding which would permit fulfilment if West held four good diamonds in addition to the ten of hearts. At trick two, declarer led the queen of hearts forcing East to cover. There was the remote chance that this would smother West's ten and establish dummy's eight, but it did not come off. However the maneuver did accomplish the purpose of transferring the protection of that suit to West. Declarer then ran the clubs discarding all of dummy's spades.

All hands are now reduced to five cards. West must keep four diamonds and the ten of hearts, so he must give up all of his spades. Declarer then led his king and another diamond and West was compelled to split his honors. Dummy now exits with the eight of hearts to West's ten and dummy's ace-nine of diamonds scores the last two tricks on a finesse.

Stock Prices Take Worst Beating Since January 7

NEW YORK (AP)—Late selling Monday drove stock market prices down to their worst loss since Jan. 7. Trading was active.

The decline clipped an estimated $1,800,000,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in The Associated Press average.

Profit taking was general and came after an early rise failed to pierce the latest historic top established in the middle of last week.

Steels were pacemakers in the initial rise. Reports of rising production and heightened demand to build up inventories brought buyers to this section of the market.

Elsewhere in the list it was a day of special news pushing many leading issues either to the upside or downside.

Losses of most leading issues went from fractions to about a point but some scattered stocks made wider moves.

The AP 60-stock average fell $1.40 to $218.10 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down $2.50 and the utilities down 30 cents.

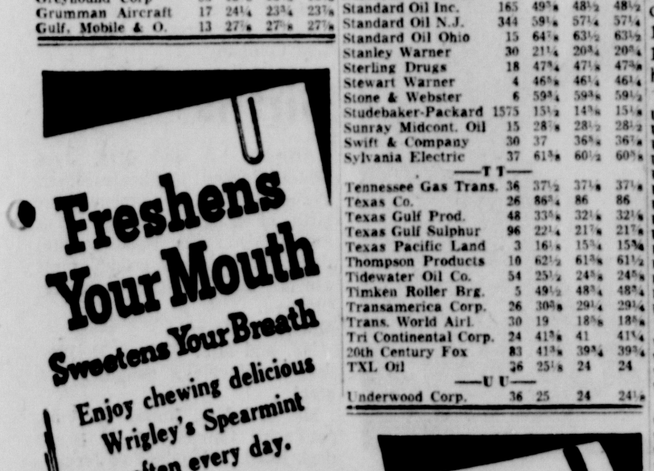

The Dow-Jones industrial average fell 3.70 to 592.37.

Of 1,264 issues traded, 419 rose and 615 fell. There were 130 new highs for 1958-'59 and 1 new low.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

One of the rarest of all squeezes is presented today. The play involves squeezing a defender down to the position where he must rid himself entirely of one suit. This is the key to the success of declarer's efforts despite the fact that defender holds no protection in that suit.

East eked out a one heart bid and South overcalled two clubs. North chose an aggressive course when he cue bid the hearts. The adverse bid should have had a deflating effect on his holding and we would have been inclined to adopt less drastic measures. South jumped to four clubs to show his solid holding and North contracted for slam.

West opened the jack of hearts. Declarer won with the ace as East followed with the three. The outlook for declarer was anything but happy inasmuch as East was marked with the high spades. With East discarding after the dummy it does not look as if any squeeze would be possible.

However, South visualized a holding which would permit fulfilment if West held four good diamonds in addition to the ten of hearts. At trick two, declarer led the queen of hearts forcing East to cover. There was the remote chance that this would smother West's ten and establish dummy's eight, but it did not come off. However the maneuver did accomplish the purpose of transferring the protection of that suit to West. Declarer then ran the clubs discarding all of dummy's spades.

All hands are now reduced to five cards. West must keep four diamonds and the ten of hearts, so he must give up all of his spades. Declarer then led his king and another diamond and West was compelled to split his honors. Dummy now exits with the eight of hearts to West's ten and dummy's ace-nine of diamonds scores the last two tricks on a finesse.

Bad Weather Slows Traffic In Maryland

Three Inches Snow Reported

Traffic slowed in most sections of Maryland Monday night as freezing temperatures combined with snow and rain to make streets and highways slippery.

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast more snow flurries or light rain during the night and Tuesday with lowest temperatures in the 20s. Skies were expected to clear by Wednesday, but temperatures will remain low.

Snow and snow mixed with rain began falling Monday morning and continued off and on throughout the day. Washington County reported nearly 2 inches accumulation by Monday night while heavier depths were recorded further west.

State Police said roads in Allegany County were cindered but slippery in spots while many Garrett County roads were covered with more than 2½ inches of snow.

Eleven State Roads Commission crews were spreading cinders and clearing roads in Washington County Monday night.

Snow began falling on the Eastern Shore late in the day and most roads were reported clear but wet in spots.

Cumberland had 3.1 inches of snow during the day which saw the high temperature of 34 degrees at 7 a. m. drop slowly to the low of 26 at 6 p. m.

The ground began to freeze slightly as the mercury dipped although the barometer held steady.

Frostburg reported 5 inches of snow on the ground at 5 p. m. and Guntertown had approximately 7 inches last night. Temperatures dropped to 19 degrees at Big Savage Mountain and 24 degrees at Frostburg.

Skiing conditions were reported good at Deep Creek Lake in Western Maryland where the heaviest snow depths were reported.

Kelly Executives Are Promoted

Dr. W. R. Allen Elected Head Of Local YMCA

Dr. William R. Allen last night was elected president of the Central YMCA, succeeding Ernest B. Treat, at the 85th annual dinner meeting of the Cumberland organization.

Other officers elected by the board of directors were Earl Nonnenmann, first vice president; and Dr. Thomas Lewis, re-elected second vice president; Roy W. Eves, re-elected treasurer; and Karl W. Bachman, renamed secretary of the organization.

Prior to the directors meeting which was held at the conclusion of the dinner program, 10 new directors were elected for three-year terms to the 30-member board.

Renamed directors were Dr. Allen, Earl Chaney, Dr. Lewis and Mr. Nonnenmann while new directors selected were Milton Bernstein, Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, William Lawrence, Robert Moreland, Louis V. Shinnamon and Lee Silcox.

Mrs. Pearl Metz, vice president of the ladies auxiliary also became a member of the board of directors under a revision of the YMCA constitution which was adopted at last night's meeting. This revision allows president and vice president of the ladies group to automatically become members of the board.

Other changes which were accepted to the constitution were elimination of requirement that no more than one-third of board membership could belong to one church affiliation; elimination of requirement that one-half of board be sustaining members of YMCA.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, was the principal speaker at the dinner program, outlining the four-way Rotary Club test and its applicability to the YMCA. This test poses four questions. Is it the truth? Is it fair? Does it make friends for all concerned? Is it beneficial for all concerned?

Dr. Church, in praising the YMCA's functions, said the organization need not apologize for its Christian heritage, adding that the Y has continued its existance because of this heritage.

Brief talks also were heard from Carolyn Cook, Frostburg; who explained her trip to National Hi-Y congres at Miami, Ohio; Patricia Mitchell, president of the Rec Club, who explained her activities as a member of the group; and Eugene Hare, a member of the YMCA, who outlined his activities as a junior counselor and use of YMCA facilities and activitie..

Members of the constitution revisions committee were Roy W. Eves, chairman; John Geare, Earl Nonnenmann; Woodard Pearler; and Lynn C. Lashley.

Additional reports were made by President Treat; H. D. Barber, past president and chairman of the nominating committee; and Mr. Eves, treasurer. Mr. Barber introduced Dr. Church.

The invocation was given by Rev. Wayne Eberly, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren; and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Approximately 150 persons attended the dinner.

Burke Named Chairman Of Directors At Kelly

Mr. Burke's experience in the rubber industry dates from 1911. He was named president of Kelly-Springfield in 1935.

Mr. Newman joined Kelly-Springfield in 1954 as assistant to the president. He was named vice president in 1955 and appointed executive vice president in 1957.

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Burke is a leader in community welfare activities. He is a past potentate of Ali Ghan Shrine; honorary Rotarian; member of the Board of Regents, University of Maryland; past president of the Cumberland YMCA, and served two terms as president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Burke headed up the committee to develop a Cumberland municipal airport and takes an active part in planning and directing numerous fund raising projects for needed community improvement. He also helped organize and served as president for Cumberland and Allegany County's first County United Fund.

Mr. Burke served in the Navy in 1918 and 1919. He and his wife, Priscilla, reside at 736 Washington Street, Cumberland.

Born in Ironton, Ohio, Mr. Newman attended Oregon State University and was associated with The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company for more than 25 years before joining Kelly-Springfield in 1954.

Mr. Newman is also active in community affairs. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; director of the County United Fund of Cumberland; member of the Municipal Airport Commission; Board of Governors of Cumberland Memorial Hospital, Masonic fraternity; and belongs to the Cumberland Country Club. Married, he has a daughter, Karil, and resides at 646 Washington Street in Cumberland.

Tax Return Assistance Scheduled

A schedule has been set up whereby residents of communities in Allegany County will get assistance in filing their 1958 Maryland income tax return, which is due by April 15.

Edward V. Welsh, manager of the local office of the State Comptroller, 9 Market Street, announced last night that two auditors of the office will tour the county in February and March.

They will be at the Court House in Oakland on February 9. On February 10 and 11 they will be at the City Building in Westernport and on February 13 will be at the First National Bank building in Barton.

Mr. Welsh said that on February 16 the auditors will assist residents at Lonaconing and will be at the Liberty Trust Bank building. On February 17 and 18 they will be at the Fidelity Savings Bank in Frostburg.

The auditors will be at the Devon Club at Luke on February 19, 20, 24, 25, 26 and 27 as well as March 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. At Luke the auditors assist the residents and employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant.

On March 9 the auditors will be back at the local office to assist residents of Cumberland and immediate area who drop by the office. They will be at the office Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. up until the deadline date, April 15.

Meanwhile the auditors are at the local office and will assist persons before leaving on the county tour. While they are on the tour, a cashier will be at the local office for those who wish to pay their taxes. Necessary forms will also be available at the office here, Mr. Welsh added.

Civil Service Board Will Give Tests

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission will hold examinations for three city positions today at 7:30 p.m. in Fort Hill High School.

Tests will be given for the positions of assistant city engineer, clerk-typist in the Water Department and chief clerk in the Water Department.

UHF Television Group To Seek Second Channel

Representatives of the Frostburg, LaVale and Cresaptown television associations last night initiated action for application for authority to construct a second television broadcast translator station on Dan's Mountain. The group met at Frostburg's City Hall.

The application will be sent to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington for VHF Channel 5, which will be rebroadcast on UHF channel 76. This will be in addition to the existing station which rebroadcasts VHF channel 9, on UHF channel 78.

At last night's meeting a check for $10,500 was presented by M. C. McKenzie, president of the LaVale organization, and John W. Barton, head of the Cresaptown group, to Kenneth L. Close, president of the Frostburg association, for the purchase of a 100-watt translator station, wihch will be necessary to serve the communities in the area which are sponsoring the television setup.

Officers of the consolidated television group were announced at last night's meeting. They are Kenneth L. Close, Frostburg, president; Virgil H. Ruppenthal, LaVale, executive vice president; Joseph E. James, Frostburg, first vice president; Milnor C. McKenzie, LaVale, second vice president; William B. Pritchard, Frostburg, secretary; William R. Vogtman, Frostburg, treasurer; John W. Barton, Cresaptown, assistant treasurer; and Charles K. Graham, Frostburg, station engineer.

The next meeting of the consolidated television association will be held Monday, February 9, at the Frostburg City Hall. President Close urged officials of the consolidated group as well as association officers to attend this important meeting.

Officials of the group said last night as pledges and funds grow for the consolidated program additional applications for other channels will be made.

The LaVale association includes LaVale, Corriganville, Ellerslie and Locust Grove. The Cresaptown group includes Cresaptown, Pinto, Rawlings, Potomac Park and Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Officials explained that the installation of ultra-high-frequency translator equipment on Dan's Mountain is subject to approval by the FCC.

Dismissed City Officer Faces Motor Charges

Mason To Be Tried Wednesday Morning

City police have placed charges for three motor vehicle violations against Offices James J. Mason, who yesterday was discharged from the Cumberland Police Department as a result of an alleged assault case.

Officers, who investigated the early Sunday disturbance on West Second Street, charged Mason, whose family resides at 37 Lamont Street, with reckless driving, operating a motor vehicle on license tags issued to another car, and failure to stop at a stop sign.

The charges were the outgrowth of a chase which involved Mason and a police cruiser as the dismissed policeman eluded early attempts to arrest him.

Bond Is Set

Bond was set at $163.35 on the three charges and Mason will be given a hearing at 9:15 a. m. Wednesday in Police Court.

Meanwhile, he is being held in City Jail pending further investigation by the State's Attorney's office in the alleged assault of Miss Eleanor Williams of 12 West Second Street.

Miss Williams was admited to Memorial Hospital, where attendants said her condition was "satisfactory." She told police Mason attacked her while they were in his automobile parked near her home.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, indicated last night he hopes to talk to Miss Williams today. He also will check with the officers who were called to the scene of the disturbance and will question Mason before the state's attorney decides on what action will be taken in the case.

The recommendation for Mason's dismissal and the suspension of Officer Richard L. Maiers, who was set down for 60 days, were made yesterday morning by Police Chief R. Emmett Flyn to Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Mason Arrested

The move was taken following Mason's arrest Sunday night near Hancock by State Trooper Robert Kirby, who spotted a tractor-trailer truck in which Mason was a passenger.

In his letter of dismissal, Chief Flynn stated:

"Officer Mason, you are hereby notified that you have on January 25, 1959, been discharged from your duties as an officer of the Cumberland Police Department for 'Conduct Unbecoming An Officer' in that you were causing a scene on West Second Street and there assaulted Eleanor Williams by viciously choking said Eleanor Williams.

"You will therefore turn in any and all equipment belonging to the City of Cumberland.

"If you care to file an appeal with the Civil Service Board, you have five days to do so."

Maiers Suspended

In the letter informing Officer Maiers of his suspension, Chief Flynn stated:

"You are hereby notified that you are suspended from the Cumberland Police Department for a period of 60 days effective January 26, 1959.

"You are hereby charged with 'Conduct Unbecoming An Officer' in that you were involved in a situation with another officer (Officer Mason) which resulted in a crime, to the detriment of the Police Department of the City of Cumberland.

"You are also charged with the fact that you fa'sely reported 'Off Duty' to the officer in charge of the 1 to 9 shift on January 24, 1959 and you were later found to be involved in the above situation at approximately 2 a. m. on the morning of January 25.

Can File Appeal

"If you care to file an appeal with the Civil Service Board, you may do so within a period of five days."

The case first developed early Sunday morning when City Police

GEN. CALDARA

Area Native Is Honored In California

Major General Joseph D. Caldara, a native of Mt. Savage, director of Flight Safety Research for the U. S. Air Force, was presented the Benjamin Franklin Award, given annually in Los Angeles, Calif., during National Printing Week.

This award is made by the Printing Industries Association to the person who most typifies the character of Benjamin Franklin, patron saint of printing, during a Printing Week banquet at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Previous recipients have been Raymond Blattenberger, Dr. Frank C. Baxter, Dr. Arnold O. Beckman and Art Linkletter.

General Caldara, whose efforts in behalf of aircraft accident prevention have won international recognition, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

"We have seen untold instances where the printed word has carried the flying safety message to all personnel of the Air Force," he said. "In an organization as highly complex as the Air Force, the printed word is our best means of communication."

In addition to distributing hundreds of flight safety bulletins yearly to Air Force commands all over the world, the general's staff at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino, Calif., also is responsible for monthly publication of two of the most widely read military magazines published, Flying Safety and Aircraft Accident and Maintenance Review.

A large plaque presented to General Caldara paid tribute to him as the person "who best exemplified the diversity of accomplishments and service to this country for which Benjamin Franklin is honored."

Mothers March Due Tonight

The Mothers March for the 1959 March of Dimes will be held in most sections of the city tonight.

The only exception will be in the East Side, where the drive is planned tomorrow night, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mothers March chairman.

Other area chairmen include Mrs. Walter Orndorff, Virginia Avenue School section; Mrs. Dorothy Wilt, Pennsylvania Avenue School section; Mrs. Sarah Berry, John Humbird School section; Mrs. Paul Weisenmiller, Centre-Mechanic Street section, and Mrs. Mary Ellen True, Flintstone area.

The Homeroom Mothers of the Parent-Teacher Association of Columbia Street School will conduct the appeal in the North End, with Mrs. Gladys Baker as chairman.

Workers in the Bedford Road section may leave collections at the home of Mrs. Nave.

Uniformity Of Investigations Is Discussed

Coordinated Effort Urged

An open discussion of liaison between the various law enforcement agencies of Allegany County was conducted yesterday afternoon at a meeting called by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

The meeting was called by Mr. Getty to work out a uniform system of investigating major crimes committed in this county.

Mr. Getty said those in attendance agreed that in every major crime the state's attorney's office and the county investigator should be contacted immediately so all investigation in the case may be coordinated.

Statements taken in major crimes also will be taken in the county investigator's office in conjunction with the initial enforcement agency who investigated the crime.

Mr. Getty also recommended a training program be set up for members of the City Police Detective Bureau. The training course will include instruction in the use of the lie detector conducted by the state's attorney office and the State Police.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, one of the three deputy medical examiners for the county, outlined the procedure to be followed by the police in cases of violent deaths. Dr. Richard Williams, city, and Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, are the other two county medical examiners.

Dr. Skitarelic added he could now assist in some identification and detection through medical examinations. Previously all this work was conducted through the Deputy Medical Examiner's office in Baltimore.

Mr. Getty said he was well pleased with the past cooperation from all the enforcement agencies and with the spirit in which yesterday's meeting was received by those who attended the meeting.

Present at the meeting which was held in Mr. Getty's office were Dr. Skitarelic, Lt. W. E. O'Hara of the Maryland State Police; Police and Fire Commissioner, Philmore Fleming; Lt. Robert Shrout of the B&O Railroad Police; Sheriff Paul Haberlein, Assistant State's Attorney Donald M. Mason, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Chief P. Frank Gaffney, Lt. James E. Van and Lt. John Sherry all of the Cumberland Police Department.

Annual Civic Event Planned By S.A. Board

The Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday made plans to hold its annual civic meeting February 20 at 6:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Up to 100 leaders of all walks of life in Cumberland will be invited to attend the dinner meeting.

Plans for the meeting were made yesterday at noon as the Salvation Army Advisory Board held its reorganizational meeting under a new Advisory Board manual.

Robert G. Garner, newly elected chairman, presided.

The new national manual requires that the Nominating committee, formerly named by the chairman, become a standing committee composed of the chairmen of the Finance, Property and Public Relations committees, plus two members named by the chairman.

The manual also requires monthly financial reports to the board. They were formerly presented quarterly.

Copies of the minutes of each meeting are to be forwarded to Advisory Board members under the new manual.

Jury Awards $730 Verdict

A petit jury yesterday awarded $730 to the plaintiff in a civil suit which was presided over by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Gilmore Peer, Box 569, city, through his counsel, W. Earle Cobey, filed a declaration on December 11, 1957, seeking $1,500 from Mrs. H. B. Clark, of 567 Patterson Avenue, who was represented by Thomas N. Berry.

The civil suit stemmed from damages sought for work performed by the plaintiff on a private road leading into the farm property then owned by the defendant at North Branch.

The plaintiff had informed the defendant that additional work had to be done and it would cost "a little more" although there was no indication it would cost as much as 100 per cent more then the original cost, according to papers filed in court.

An itemized account of labor and material cost was included in the declaration filed by the plaintiff.

Larry Caton, eight-year-old son of Marshall L. and Genevieve E. Caton, Frostburg, was awarded $616 as the result of an auto accident in which the child was injured.

The defendant, Joseph F. Goodwin, RD 1, Frostburg, according to the declaration, was driving a car along Center Street in Frostburg on November 7, 1958 when he struck the child.

The parents of the child incurred hospital and medical expense and filed the damage suit seeking $616.

Bad Weather Slows Traffic In Maryland

Three Inches Snow Reported

Traffic slowed in most sections of Maryland Monday night as freezing temperatures combined with snow and rain to make streets and highways slippery.

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast more snow flurries or light rain during the night and Tuesday with lowest temperatures in the 20s. Skies were expected to clear by Wednesday, but temperatures will remain low.

Snow and snow mixed with rain began falling Monday morning and continued off and on throughout the day. Washington County reported nearly 2 inches accumulation by Monday night while heavier depths were recorded further west.

Motorists in the western and central counties were advised to use chains off the main roads.

Freezing temperatures late Monday transformed slush to ice on most rural roads and streets.

State Police said roads in Allegany County were cindered but slippery in spots while many Garrett County roads were covered with more than 2½ inches of snow.

Eleven State Roads Commission crews were spreading cinders and clearing roads in Washington County Monday night.

Snow began falling on the Eastern Shore late in the day and most roads were reported clear but wet in spots.

Cumberland had 3.1 inches of snow during the day which saw the high temperature of 34 degrees at 7 a. m. drop slowly to the low of 26 at 6 p. m.

The ground began to freeze slightly as the mercury dipped although the barometer held steady.

Frostburg reported 5 inches of snow on the ground at 5 p. m. and Guntertown had approximately 7 inches last night. Temperatures dropped to 19 degrees at Big Savage Mountain and 24 degrees at Frostburg.

At Pikesville and Frederick, the mercury dropped below freezing but roads crews kept most streets and roads open and cindered.

Three freighters in Baltimore harbor postponed their scheduled departures because of the difficulty in loading their cargos.

Skiing conditions were reported good at Deep Creek Lake in Western Maryland where the heaviest snow depths were reported.

Kelly Executives Are Promoted

Dismissed City Officer Faces Motor Charges

Mason To Be Tried Wednesday Morning

City police have placed charges for three motor vehicle violations against Offices James J. Mason, who yesterday was discharged from the Cumberland Police Department as a result of an alleged assault case.

Officers, who investigated the early Sunday disturbance on West Second Street, charged Mason, whose family resides at 37 Lamont Street, with reckless driving, operating a motor vehicle on license tags issued to another car, and failure to stop at a stop sign.

The charges were the outgrowth of a chase which involved Mason and a police cruiser as the dismissed policeman eluded early attempts to arrest him.

Bond Is Set

Bond was set at $163.35 on the three charges and Mason will be given a hearing at 9:15 a. m. Wednesday in Police Court.

Meanwhile, he is being held in City Jail pending further investigation by the State's Attorney's office in the alleged assault of Miss Eleanor Williams of 12 West Second Street.

Miss Williams was admited to Memorial Hospital, where attendants said her condition was "satisfactory." She told police Mason attacked her while they were in his automobile parked near her home.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, 'indicated last night he hopes to talk to Miss Williams today. He also will check with the officers who were called to the scene of the disturbance and will question Mason before the state's attorney decides on what action will be taken in the case.

The recommendation for Mason's dismissal and the suspension of Officer Richard L. Maiers, who was set down for 60 days, were made yesterday morning by Police Chief R. Emmett Flyn to Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Mason Arrested

The move was taken following Mason's arrest Sunday night near Hancock by State Trooper Robert Kirby, who spotted a tractor-trailer truck in which Mason was a passenger.

In his letter of dismissal, Chief Flynn stated:

"Officer Mason, you are hereby notified that you have on January 25, 1959, been discharged from your duties as an officer of the Cumberland Police Department for 'Conduct Unbecoming An Officer' in that you were causing a scene on West Second Street and there assaulted Eleanor Williams by viciously choking said Eleanor Williams.

"You will therefore turn in any and all equipment belonging to the City of Cumberland.

"If you care to file an appeal with the Civil Service Board, you have five days to do so."

Maiers Suspended

In the letter informing Officer Maiers of his suspension, Chief Flynn stated:

"You are hereby notified that you are suspended from the Cumberland Police Department for a period of 60 days effective January 26, 1959.

"You are hereby charged with 'Conduct Unbecoming An Officer' in that you were involved in a situation with another officer (Officer Mason) which resulted in a crime, to the detriment of the Police Department of the City of Cumberland.

"You are also charged with the fact that you fa'sely reported 'Off Duty' to the officer in charge of the 1 to 9 shift on January 24, 1959 and you were later found to be involved in the above situation at approximately 2 a. m. on the morning of January 25.

Can File Appeal

"If you care to file an appeal with the Civil Service Board, you may do so within a period of five days."

The case first developed early Sunday morning when City Police

GEN. CALDARA

Area Native Is Honored In California

Major General Joseph D. Caldara, a native of Mt. Savage, director of Flight Safety Research for the U. S. Air Force, was presented the Benjamin Franklin Award, given annually in Los Angeles, Calif., during National Printing Week.

This award is made by the Printing Industries Association to the person who most typifies the character of Benjamin Franklin, patron saint of printing, during a Printing Week banquet at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Previous recipients have been Raymond Blattenberger, Dr. Frank C. Baxter, Dr. Arnold O. Beckman and Art Linkletter.

General Caldara, whose efforts in behalf of aircraft accident prevention have won international recognition, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

"We have seen untold instances where the printed word has carried the flying safety message to all personnel of the Air Force," he said. "In an organization as highly complex as the Air Force, the printed word is our best means of communication."

In addition to distributing hundreds of flight safety bulletins yearly to Air Force commands all over the world, the general's staff at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino, Calif., also is responsible for monthly publication of two of the most widely read military magazines published, Flying Safety and Aircraft Accident and Maintenance Review.

A large plaque presented to General Caldara paid tribute to him as the person "who best exemplified the diversity of accomplishments and service to this country for which Benjamin Franklin is honored."

Uniformity Of Investigations Is Discussed

Coordinated Effort Urged

An open discussion of liaison between the various law enforcement agencies of Allegany County was conducted yesterday afternoon at a meeting called by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

The meeting was called by Mr. Getty to work out a uniform system of investigating major crimes committed in this county.

Mr. Getty said those in attendance agreed that in every major crime the state's attorney's office and the county investigator should be contacted immediately so all investigation in the case may be coordinated.

Statements taken in major crimes also will be taken in the county investigator's office in conjunction with the initial enforcement agency who investigated the crime.

Mr. Getty also recommended a training program be set up for members of the City Police Detective Bureau. The training course will include instruction in the use of the lie detector conducted by the state's attorney office and the State Police.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, one of the three deputy medical examiners for the county, outlined the procedure to be followed by the police in cases of violent deaths. Dr. Richard Williams, city, and Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, are the other two county medical examiners.

Dr. Skitarelic added he could now assist in some identification and detection through medical examinations. Previously all this work was conducted through the Deputy Medical Examiner's office in Baltimore.

Mr. Getty said he was well pleased with the past cooperation from all the enforcement agencies and with the spirit in which yesterday's meeting was received by those who attended the meeting.

Present at the meeting which was held in Mr. Getty's office were Dr. Skitarelic, Lt. W. E. O'Hara of the Maryland State Police; Police and Fire Commissioner, Philmore Fleming; Lt. Robert Shrout of the B&O Railroad Police; Sheriff Paul Haberlein, Assistant State's Attorney Donald M. Mason, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Chief P. Frank Gaffney, Lt. James E. Van and Lt. John Sherry all of the Cumberland Police Department.

Dr. W. R. Allen Elected Head Of Local YMCA

Dr. William R. Allen last night was elected president of the Central YMCA, succeeding Ernest B. Treat, at the 85th annual dinner meeting of the Cumberland organization.

Other officers elected by the board of directors were Earl Nonnenmann, first vice president; and Dr. Thomas Lewis, re-elected second vice president; Roy W. Eves, re-elected treasurer; and Karl W. Bachman, renamed secretary of the organization.

Prior to the directors meeting which was held at the conclusion of the dinner program, 10 new directors were elected for three-year terms to the 30-member board.

Renamed directors were Dr. Allen, Earl Chaney, Dr. Lewis and Mr. Nonnenmann while new directors selected were Milton Bernstein, Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, William Lawrence, Robert Moreland, Louis V. Shinnamon and Lee Silcox.

Mrs. Pearl Metz, vice president of the ladies auxiliary also became a member of the board of directors under a revision of the YMCA constitution which was adopted at last night's meeting. This revision allows president and vice president of the ladies group to automatically become members of the board.

Other changes which were accepted to the constitution were elimination of requirement that no more than one-third of board membership could belong to one church affiliation; elimination of requirement that one-half of board be sustaining members of YMCA.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, was the principal speaker at the dinner program, outlining the four-way Rotary Club test and its applicability to the YMCA. This test poses four questions. Is it the truth? Is it fair? Does it make friends for all concerned? Is it beneficial for all concerned?

Dr. Church, in praising the YMCA's functions, said the organization need not apologize for its Christian heritage, adding that the Y has continued its existance because of this heritage.

Brief talks also were heard from Carolyn Cook, Frostburg; who explained her trip to National Hi-Y congres at Miami, Ohio; Patricia Mitchell, president of the Rec Club, who explained her activities as a member of the group; and Eugene Hare, a member of the YMCA, who outlined his activities as a junior counselor and use of YMCA facilities and activitie..

Members of the constitution revisions committee were Roy W. Eves, chairman; John Geare, Earl Nonnenmann; Woodard Pearler; and Lynn C. Lashley.

Additional reports were made by President Treat; H. D. Barber, past president and chairman of the nominating committee; and Mr. Eves, treasurer. Mr. Barber introduced Dr. Church.

The invocation was given by Rev. Wayne Eberly, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren; and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Approximately 150 persons attended the dinner.

Burke Named Chairman Of Directors At Kelly

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has been elected chairman of the company's board of directors, it was announced here yesterday.

His successor as president and chief executive officer is George B. Newman, who has been serving as executive vice president.

Mr. Burke's experience in the rubber industry dates from 1911. He was named president of Kelly-Springfield in 1935.

Mr. Newman joined Kelly-Springfield in 1954 as assistant to the president. He was named vice president in 1955 and appointed executive vice president in 1957.

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Burke is a leader in community welfare activities. He is a past potentate of Ali Ghan Shrine; honorary Rotarian; member of the Board of Regents, University of Maryland; past president of the Cumberland YMCA, and served two terms as president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Burke headed up the committee to develop a Cumberland municipal airport and takes an active part in planning and directing numerous fund raising projects for needed community improvement. He also helped organize and served as president for Cumberland and Allegany County's first County United Fund.

Mr. Burke served in the Navy in 1918 and 1919. He and his wife, Priscilla, reside at 736 Washington Street, Cumberland.

Born in Ironton, Ohio, Mr. Newman attended Oregon State University and was associated with The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company for more than 25 years before joining Kelly-Springfield in 1954.

Mr. Newman is also active in community affairs. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; director of the County United Fund of Cumberland; member of the Municipal Airport Commission; Board of Governors of Cumberland Memorial Hospital, Masonic fraternity; and belongs to the Cumberland Country Club. Married, he has a daughter, Karil, and resides at 646 Washington Street in Cumberland.

Tax Return Assistance Scheduled

A schedule has been set up whereby residents of communities in Allegany County will get assistance in filing their 1958 Maryland income tax return, which is due by April 15.

Edward V. Welsh, manager of the local office of the State Comptroller, 9 Market Street, announced last night that two auditors of the office will tour the county in February and March.

They will be at the Court House in Oakland on February 9. On February 10 and 11 they will be at the City Building in Westernport and on February 13 will be at the First National Bank building in Barton.

Mr. Welsh said that on February 16 the auditors will assist residents at Lonaconing and will be at the Liberty Trust Bank building. On February 17 and 18 they will be at the Fidelity Savings Bank in Frostburg.

The auditors will be at the Devon Club at Luke on February 19, 20, 24, 25, 26 and 27 as well as March 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. At Luke the auditors assist the residents and employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant.

On March 9 the auditors will be back at the local office to assist residents of Cumberland and immediate area who drop by the office. They will be at the office Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. up until the deadline date, April 15.

Meanwhile the auditors are at the local office and will assist persons before leaving on the county tour. While they are on the tour, a cashier will be at the local office for those who wish to pay their taxes. Necessary forms will also be available at the office here, Mr. Welsh added.

Civil Service Board Will Give Tests

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission will hold examinations for three city positions today at 7:30 p.m. in Fort Hill High School.

Tests will be given for the positions of assistant city engineer, clerk-typist in the Water Department and chief clerk in the Water Department.

UHF Television Group To Seek Second Channel

Representatives of the Frostburg, LaVale and Cresaptown television associations last night initiated action for application for authority to construct a second television broadcast translator station on Dan's Mountain. The group met at Frostburg's City Hall.

The application will be sent to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington for VHF Channel 5, which will be rebroadcast on UHF channel 76. This will be in addition to the existing station which rebroadcasts VHF channel 9, on UHF channel 78.

At last night's meeting a check for $10,500 was presented by M. C. McKenzie, president of the LaVale organization, and John W. Barton, head of the Cresaptown group, to Kenneth L. Close, president of the Frostburg association, for the purchase of a 100-watt translator station, wihch will be necessary to serve the communities in the area which are sponsoring the television setup.

Officers of the consolidated television group were announced at last night's meeting. They are Kenneth L. Close, Frostburg, president; Virgil H. Ruppenthal, LaVale, executive vice president; Joseph E. James, Frostburg, first vice president; Milnor C. McKenzie, LaVale, second vice president; William B. Pritchard, Frostburg, secretary; William R. Vogtman, Frostburg, treasurer; John W. Barton, Cresaptown, assistant treasurer; and Charles K. Graham, Frostburg, station engineer.

The next meeting of the consolidated television association will be held Monday, February 9, at the Frostburg City Hall. President Close urged officials of the consolidated group as well as association officers to attend this important meeting.

Officials of the group said last night as pledges and funds grow for the consolidated program additional applications for other channels will be made.

The LaVale association includes LaVale, Corriganville, Ellerslie and Locust Grove. The Cresaptown group includes Cresaptown, Pinto, Rawlings, Potomac Park and Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Officials explained that the installation of ultra-high-frequency translator equipment on Dan's Mountain is subject to approval by the FCC.

Jury Awards $730 Verdict

A petit jury yesterday awarded $730 to the plaintiff in a civil suit which was presided over by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Gilmore Peer, Box 569, city, through his counsel, W. Earle Cobey, filed a declaration on December 11, 1957, seeking $1,500 from Mrs. H. B. Clark, of 567 Patterson Avenue, who was represented by Thomas N. Berry.

The civil suit stemmed from damages sought for work performed by the plaintiff on a private road leading into the farm property then owned by the defendant at North Branch.

The plaintiff had informed the defendant that additional work had to be done and it would cost "a little more" although there was no indication it would cost as much as 100 per cent more then the original cost, according to papers filed in court.

An itemized account of labor and material cost was included in the declaration filed by the plaintiff.

In other court action yesterday, a damage suit was settled by attorneys for the plaintiff and defendant.

Larry Caton, eight-year-old son of Marshall L. and Genevieve E. Caton, Frostburg, was awarded $616 as the result of an auto accident in which the child was injured.

The defendant, Joseph F. Goodwin, RD 1, Frostburg, according to the declaration, was driving a car along Center Street in Frostburg on November 7, 1958 when he struck the child.

Mothers March Due Tonight

The Mothers March for the 1959 March of Dimes will be held in most sections of the city tonight.

The only exception will be in the East Side, where the drive is planned tomorrow night, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mothers March chairman.

Other area chairmen include Mrs. Walter Orndorff, Virginia Avenue School section; Mrs. Dorothy Wilt, Pennsylvania Avenue School section; Mrs. Sarah Berry, John Humbird School section; Mrs. Paul Weisenmiller, Centre-Mechanic Street section, and Mrs. Mary Ellen True, Flintstone area.

The Homeroom Mothers of the Parent-Teacher Association of Columbia Street School will conduct the appeal in the North End, with Mrs. Gladys Baker as chairman.

Workers in the Bedford Road section may leave collections at the home of Mrs. Nave.

Annual Civic Event Planned By S.A. Board

The Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday made plans to hold its annual civic meeting February 20 at 6:30 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Up to 100 leaders of all walks of life in Cumberland will be invited to attend the dinner meeting.

Brigadier Carl Cone, divisional commander, will be the principal speaker at the session.

Plans for the meeting were made yesterday at noon as the Salvation Army Advisory Board held its reorganizational meeting under a new Advisory Board manual.
